DUESSELDORF (via Paris), April 18.—Mulheim tonight is in a state of siege. A mob of unemployed whose number seems to have been greatly reinforced since morning has completely blockaded the City Hall, where about 300 civil officials are beleaguered.

The mob, according to reports reaching here, are armed only with a few muskets, shotguns and bombs. Inside the City Hall the police have rifles and hand grenades.

Four are reported to have been killed in today's clashes with the police and there are perhaps forty to fifty wounded.

It is said the mob is planning to storm the City Hall before dawn, when a Soviet Administration is to be set up in the town.

The trouble between the unemployed and the authorities began yesterday at Duesseldorf and other Ruhr towns as well as at Mulheim. It flamed up into two separate conflicts. At Altenessen, a suburb of Essen, the men have also barricaded themselves into two or three streets, prepared, as in Mulheim, to do battle to all who try to evict them.

The main part of Mulheim is cut off from the outside world. All the shops and most of the offices have been closed since the trouble started this morning as a result of yesterday's demonstration and clash with police. The town authorities declared that the number of demonstrators, which yesterday was about 2,000, had today been largely increased by men from other towns who had come into the district overnight.

No French Troops in City.

All the French troops were withdrawn six weeks ago, as Mulheim, lying in the middle of the Ruhr area, was cut off from Germany by more distant barriers. The town is the centre of the Thyssen industries, and there are as well large Stinnes interests there.

It was found impossible to approach the demonstrators, as they used their arms somewhat freely when any one approached their headquarters, but from some of their number it was gathered that, besides being an assembly of malcontents and hoboes, there was among them a large sprinkling of Communists.

At Essen this was especially the case. There, 1,800 men marched this morning to the Rathaus and demanded an immediate cash indemnity as the price of their continued allegiance and quiet. The acting authorities replied that without the consent of the Government the unemployment allowance could not be increased.

There was considerable booing and some brandishing of sticks, but there the crowd behaved in orderly fashion until it had reached the outskirts of the town. It then broke into two detachments, which evidently under skilled leadership took up positions in some working quarter streets and began erecting barricades.

At Mulheim the German authorities asked the French to intervene, as, owing to the expulsion and disbanding of the Security Police force, the police of the town have been reduced in number to a score of municipal officers and ten criminal department police. The French commander, however, acting on instructions, replied that he could not interfere in the matter. This attitude also is being adopted at Essen.

In French military quarters it is said the order is strict that there must be no interference between the people and German police unless the French are attacked. Reinforcements are being sent from Duesseldorf, Duisburg and other towns where the Security Police have not yet been disbanded.

Russian Reds Incite Jobless.

The disturbance is not of sudden growth nor is it likely to be easily quenched.

Two nights ago at Bochum a meeting, attended by 10,000 men and boys, ended by passing a vote of allegiance to communism. It was addressed by two Russian emissaries who in the name of freedom and liberty urged the men to abandon their unions and syndicates as capitalistic and bourgeois concerns. They stated that from "famine-stricken Russia" twenty-five more carloads of grain were on the way to the Ruhr.

A great mass demonstration of unemployed is scheduled for Saturday at Barmen outside of the occupied zone.

At the Duesseldorf meeting the unemployed decided to send letters to the municipal authorities and the Federal Government demanding an immediate grant of an increased allowance, and threatening, if it was not granted, that they would work for the French.

That is where one of the curious features of the situation begins. The French have no work to offer. For loading coke they need only a small number of men, and the gangs are already complete. The labor they want is the skilled labor

Call Middle Class Conference To Organize a World Union

BERNE, April 19 (Associated Press).—An "International Middle Class Conference" has been called for Sept. 18-20 in this city for the purpose of organizing a world federation to defend the bourgeoisie against Socialist or Communist attacks.

A working program for the world federation has already been outlined.

FORMER EXPECTS SUCCESS

Believes Hughes's Conditions to Avoid Committing to League Can Be Met.

GENEVA, April 19 (Associated Press).—Minichiro Adachi, Japanese Minister to Belgium, who is official reporter from the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague to the League of Nations, stated here today that he was engaged in regular communication with Professor Manley O. Hudson of Harvard University Law School, one of the legal experts at the Paris Peace Conference, concerning the details of a plan by which the United States could join the Court without in any way committing itself to membership in the League.

M. Adachi, who is the Japanese representative on the Council of the League, said he was acting on the Court question not as a Japanese diplomat but as an international jurist who had sat in company with Elihu Root at The Hague when the Court was created, and as one desirous of American participation in that world body.

"This is a great international effort for co-operation and conciliation," continued M. Adachi with reference to the Court's work. "In addition to deciding upon September next as the time for electing a successor in the Court's membership to the late Ray Barbosa, the League Council has decided that all candidates should be able to spend several months of the year at The Hague and that a full knowledge of English and French is desirable. Last year the Court sat during 144 days, and its work will inevitably increase in importance and volume."

League Itself Cannot Act.

The League Council, added M. Adachi, could not take up the question of American participation, as this question had not been officially submitted, but the members of the Council were keenly interested in America's decision. He had no doubt whatever, he said, that the conditions laid down by Secretary Hughes for America's joining the Court, could easily be fulfilled and that she could receive the right of voting on the judges without being a member of the League.

The initiative, taken by President Harding toward American membership in the Court, is thought in League quarters here to be responsible for a notable growth in interest throughout America in the work of the League as evidenced by a marked increase in the number of letters of inquiry reaching the Secretariat from the United States and the number of American visitors calling at League headquarters and requesting information on the objects and achievements of the organization.

So great has become the volume of the League's American mail that extra stenographers have been assigned to the handling of the American correspondence, while the stream of American visitors asking information is of such volume that the League officials are already wondering whether they will be able to get away for their vacations this summer.

The American callers say, as a rule, that they desire to be able to answer questions regarding the League when they return home, explaining that President Harding's recommendation as to American membership in the Court has awakened widespread interest.

MACHOLD ASKS SMITH FOR TRANSIT PARLEY; WOULD ADJUST BILLS

Speaker, Predicting Deadlock, Declares Leaders Should Insure Relief to City.

URGES VOTE ON OWNERSHIP

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 19.—Speaker Machold made clear this evening his attitude toward the transportation problem of New York City, predicted a deadlock between the Senate and Assembly on pending transit legislation and called on Governor Smith to arrange a conference with the leaders of the Senate and Assembly with a view to reaching an adjustment.

The Speaker made it clear that he disagreed on the one hand with the position taken by Mayor Hylan and his supporters and, on the other, with the position taken by the Republican organization of New York County in uncompromising opposition to municipal ownership.

Speaker Machold in his statement said:

"In my opinion, the most important problem confronting this session of the Legislature is an adjustment of the transit problem of the City of New York. I have given many weeks to a study of the present situation in regard to it and after discussing it with members of the Legislature I am convinced that the two houses have come to a deadlock concerning it. It is my desire to leave nothing undone to bring about a proper solution, and with that in view I hereby ask Governor Smith, as the leader of the Democratic Party at Albany, to arrange a conference with leaders of the Senate and Assembly for the purpose of determining whether some agreement cannot be reached.

"After careful consideration of the obvious defects and absurdities of the Mayor's program of transit control and the merits of the proposals put forward by the New York Republican County Committee I think it may be safely said that the Assembly will accept the latter with some important modifications, including an extension of the grant of the right of municipal ownership as expressed in the provision in existing law, recapture of lines already built and an application of the plan adopted with considerable success in Detroit.

"Under this plan the people of New York would have the authority to decide at a special election whether they desired to own and operate any or all of their own transit utilities and to furnish service to themselves. If they decided affirmatively, the city might proceed to build new lines with its own money or buy old lines, charge a fare sufficient to cover the costs of operation, including overhead charges, interest requirements, amortisation, funded debt and an amount corresponding to what would be paid to the city in taxes by a private utility corporation, and then would operate without profit.

"By this limitation in the law, the Assembly would protect the people of the five boroughs from any effort on the part of the city administration to ostensibly charge them a five cent fare but in reality to charge them much more through a tax levy imposed on all those who own property within its jurisdiction to make up any deficit caused by extravagant and inefficient methods, a levy that in turn would be passed to every rentpayer in the city.

"In the Walker bill, which embraces the Mayor's plan, it is provided that the commission to be named by the Mayor shall be empowered to increase the subway and surface fares from five cents to a higher rate, this in spite of the fact that both the Mayor and the Governor based their last respective campaigns partly on opposition to an exactly similar provision in the law creating the present Transit Commission which, as is well known, has never been used.

"The report adopts a rigid unalterable opposition to municipal operation. In my judgment, that position is too extreme, as the Mayor's attitude is too extreme on the other. Cities should not go into business ventures such as operating utilities as long as private agencies are doing the work in a reasonably satisfactory manner. At the same time it is apparent that there is a strong tendency toward public operation of utilities that are vital to the

British Railways Cut Rates to Aid Farmers And Promise More if Wages Can Be Reduced

LONDON, April 19.—The minor recommendations in the recent report of the Agricultural Tribunal for the relief of the farmers are being put into effect speedily, although the Government seems disinclined to adopt the more important recommendations of a protective character.

A bill reducing the assessment on agricultural land for taxation purposes having been promised, the railroads in turn are making their contribution to the welfare of the farmers. It was announced tonight that the railway managers had agreed to reduce freight rates on agricultural products to 50 per cent. above the pre-war rates, and on general merchandise to 80 per cent. above. Hitherto these rates have all exceeded the pre-war figures by 75 per cent.

The official statement of the railway managers embodying the railway concessions explains that they will cost the railways £9,000,000 yearly. The railways desired to reduce charges still further, but the wage bills are still 136 per cent. above the pre-war level and wages form two-thirds of the total railway costs. All efforts to negotiate reductions in wages with the railway unions, the statement added, had failed up to the present time, but negotiations were still in progress and if they were successful the railways would be able to make further reductions in freight rates.

Mediation in the farm workers' strike was carried a step further today. A provisional agreement was reached between representatives of the farm owners and the workers which, it is believed, will prove acceptable and bring about a resumption of work next Monday. The terms of the settlement would be 25 shillings for a guaranteed fifty-hour week, and any work in excess of fifty-four hours would be paid for at the rate of 7½ pence an hour.

Free Staters Take Cave Fort in Kerry Cliff; 3 Rebels Fall Into the Sea, 4 Are Captured

DUBLIN, April 19.—There was a sensational ending tonight to the siege of the Irish rebels in the Kerry cave. Two of the besieged men who tried to escape in the darkness were drowned. Lyons, the commander of the cliff fortress, was killed, and four other men were captured. Among those taken prisoner was an Englishman, Walter Stephens of London.

Lyons was being hauled up the cliff over 100 feet high when the rope broke and he fell to the beach, and while trying to escape was shot dead. His body was washed out by the tide and has not yet been recovered. The bodies of the two other drowned rebels were recovered and were hauled up the cliff. The four survivors were also hauled up the cliff and taken to Tralee by the troops.

The besieged cave fighters in the darkness tried to get to an adjoining cave, when the incoming tide caught them.

COUNT IS NOT COMPLETED

Feeling Aroused Over the Repudiated Charge That Mrs. Cook's Son Dodged Draft.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The D. A. R. Congress adjourned at 11 o'clock tonight without any official announcement of the result of the sharply contested election that had been in progress for President General and other national officers.

Mrs. George Maynard Minor, the incumbent President General, after a conference with Mrs. Eva V. M. Bissell of Connecticut, Chairman of the Committee on Tellers, announced at that hour that the ballots were still being counted, with no prospect of the tabulation being completed for several more hours. The congress then adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mrs. Minor said that no official announcement of the election would be made tonight.

With the withdrawal of Mrs. William Cumming Story of New York two tickets remained in the field, one headed by Mrs. O. Wallace W. Hanger of the District of Columbia, and the other by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook of Pennsylvania. There is every indication the election is very close.

When the balloting began at 9 o'clock in the morning, delegates to the Congress were divided by the most bitter factional row that had ever confronted the D. A. R. Although the withdrawal last night of Mrs. W. C. Story narrowed the fight to a contest between Mrs. Hanger and Mrs. Cook, there was no certainty that either of the leading candidates would command enough votes to win on the first ballot, or at all.

Throughout the day the balloting continued, with a long line of women moving toward the polls from early morning until night. During the balloting the confusion bordered so closely on hysteria that the fire and police platoons, detailed for guard duty at Memorial Continental Hall, were asked to aid in preserving order.

The voting delegates had been arranged in a line established by the Marshal appointed by the Congress, but toward 3 o'clock the line broke and the lobby, the historical room, the library and the corridors became jammed with a mass of pushing, tired and hungry delegates endeavoring to move toward the voting booths in irregular mass. After policemen and firemen had been stationed at intervals of ten feet from the main lobby to the polls the line was reformed.

Stir Over Draft Dodging Charge.

Both the Hanger and Cook forces were claiming victory, but it was difficult to gauge the effect of the dramatic withdrawal of Mrs. Story in favor of Mrs. Cook. It was a mooted question all day as to how the withdrawal of Mrs. Story would react on the voting delegates, whether it would stampede votes in favor of Mrs. Cook or place the remaining candidates on equal terms.

There were delegates who were inclined to the belief that Mrs. Story might have actually injured Mrs. Cook's cause by throwing her support to that candidate, and it was a significant feature of the unexpected turn in events that Mrs. Cook offered to divide whatever ballots the retiring New York candidate might have polled with her remaining opponent. The refusal of Mrs. Cook to accept the support of Mrs. Story was instant and unqualified. She arose immediately after Mrs. Story's withdrawal and announced her stand.

In quitting the race, Mrs. Story touched upon attacks which had been made upon Mrs. Cook in a so-called underhand campaign and forced in the open the efforts which had been directed toward charging that her son had been a draft dodger during the war. It then developed that a letter had been in private circulation since last Monday assailing the courage and patriotism of Mrs. Cook's son, Anthony Wayne Cook, and that it had been vigorously denounced by friends of Mrs. Cook, to whose attention it had been brought.

Mrs. Cook's Son Defended.

After the adjournment of the congress last night the Pennsylvania delegation which is supporting Mrs. Cook's candidacy, prepared a statement which was distributed among the delegates and which read in part:

"The entire Pennsylvania delegation joins in calling the attention of the delegates to the present congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution to the fact that an anonymous and libelous letter on a sheet headed 'National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution' signed 'A Prudential Committee' is being circulated for the manifest purpose of injuring the Pennsylvania candidate, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, for President General. This letter questions the patriotism of Mrs. Cook and her family during the late war, the persons responsible for the letter concealing their identity by using the name of a committee, which, if it exists, has no connection with the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

"No further answer to the charges

ONE WITNESS AT INQUIRY

She Calls Corrigan a Woman Hater—Magistrate Fears Wire Tapping.

In face of the denial of the accused policemen and the assertion of Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield that no sane man would believe Mrs. Mary Castro's charge that a detective took a $600 bribe not to arrest her in a liquor raid, Joe Castro, her husband, declared yesterday that he was prepared to corroborate her accusation today under oath.

Against his own inclinations, Castro said, he would appear at the inquiry to back up the testimony of his wife. "I've got a good job," he said, "and I don't like the notoriety of this, but we've started it and we're going to finish it. The story is true, whether they believe it or not."

Castro, a slim young Spanish-American, asserted that he had seen the money passed and noted the amount—$600. At his home, 94 Roosevelt Street, yesterday he related to reporters his version of the raid. He had been served earlier in the day with a subpoena from the Commissioner of Accounts' office, but because he was busy, he said, shipping men for several vessels, he had postponed his appearance until today.

The only witness to appear at Commissioner David Hirshfield's inquiry yesterday was Mrs. Catherine Campbell of 128 West Sixty-seventh Street, who attacked Magistrate Corrigan for his disposition of cases involving cruelty to animals.

Commenting on the failure of the public to come forward in response to Mr. Hirshfield's invitation for witnesses "either for or against the police," Magistrate Corrigan said: "How can Commissioner Hirshfield expect any one to accept his invitation to testify if every witness that appears with charges against the police is abused and browbeaten?"

Prosecutor Gets Record.

The Commissioner sent to Police Commissioner Enright and District Attorney Banton yesterday the stenographic record of the proceedings thus far. "I believe that in every one of these cases perjury was committed," the letter to the District Attorney said. Mr. Hirshfield said that he did not mean by that assertion that every witness had perjured himself, but that in every one of the incidents investigated at least one witness had made false statements under oath.

Mayor Hylan took a hand in the situation yesterday when he addressed a letter to Corporation Counsel Nicholsen ordering the organization of a bureau to investigate cases dismissed by magistrates "so that it may be known whether there was any change in the police officer's testimony or whether the magistrate was derelict in his duty." Magistrate Corrigan's connection with the Zittel case, in which he held Detective Robert McAllister for perjury, was cited for specific action.

Castro was found late yesterday afternoon at his home, 94 Roosevelt Street. He and his wife and their three children moved there soon after the police raid on their Water Street boarding house.

"I am willing to tell everything I know about this case," he said. "I was in the room with my wife and saw everything that happened.

"I had been over to Moe Levy's to get a suit of clothes and an overcoat—I've got them on now. When I got back to the house I found the police there. I asked what was going on, and my wife told me there was a raid. She told me that the police wanted her to give them $1,000, I tell her $1,000—what do you mean—let them go ahead and take the stuff. Finally she said she would give them $600. That was the money I knew was in the safe, the money we were keeping for sailors. I knew that was all she had.

Denies Espionage Charge.

Mrs. Castro was asked about reports that witnesses in the police investigation had been subjected to espionage since their connection with the case. "Why, I don't go anywhere," she said; "I don't do anything. There is nothing for them to watch."

McAllister, it developed yesterday, is still on active duty as a detective. With regard to the charges made in the Castro case and that of Charles Tiernan, who accused him of taking water in a saloon raid and promising whisky in court, it was said that the matter was still pending before Commissioner Hirshfield. The arrest for perjury in connection with the Zittel case, also, has not resulted in any departmental action. The case will come up for hearing before Magistrate Corrigan on May 1.

In his letter to Corporation Counsel Nicholsen, Mayor Hylan asked that a special bureau be formed "with assistants" who are fearless enough to stand up against the powerful influences

Director Canfield Megaphones to Captain of Flagship, but Sees No Liquor.

SIX VESSELS AT ANCHOR

GOELET'S OLD YACHT THERE

British Government Orders It to Remain Until the Consul General Can Visit It and Make Inquiries.

Palmer Canfield, Federal Prohibition Director for New York State, paid a visit yesterday to Rum Row and officially established the existence of the liquor-smuggling armada. Not a bottle was seen, not an aromatic whiff was sniffed, but six ships riding peacefully in the brilliant sunshine, fifteen miles southeast of Ambrose Light, in the opinion of Mr. Canfield, were there neither for sunshine nor peace.

As the result of the visit, it developed that the British Government was interested in the former yacht Istar, flagship of the bootleg fleet. During the trip the Captain of the Istar was instructed to remain in his present anchorage to receive a visit from Gloster Armstrong, British Consul General here. Mr. Armstrong, when asked about his visit to the ship, said that he had no plans at present to make the trip.

Last night the British Embassy in Washington officially admitted that the consul had been instructed to make inquiries about the Istar. Embassy officials were unwilling to say whether the inquiries were to be instituted in line with Great Britain's recently announced willingness to co-operate with America in the rum problem. They were also silent on questions whether this step, the first of its kind by Britain, had been taken on Britain's initiative or by request of the State Department.

100,000 Cases a Year.

Mr. Canfield estimates that the flotilla anchored a trifle more than twelve miles off Red Bank, N. J., together with the remainder of the rum squadron, supplied New York City and vicinity with 100,000 cases of assorted liquors annually. As a rule, about fifteen to twenty ships are loitering off the Jersey shore, but many of them have gone home to restock.

The trip down the bay and out to sea was undertaken so that accurate information about the fleet could be in the possession of Director Canfield. After inspecting the vessels lying off the coast he indicated that elimination of the rum runners was the first essential to drying up New York, intimating that in the job of wiping out the traffic he would ask for the aid of "another Government agency." He refused to disclose whether the agency would be the Navy Department.

The expedition to inspect what some Washington officials have called a "myth" got off from the Battery at 10 o'clock. Aboard the Manhattan with Mr. Canfield were Captain Byron L. Reed, Commandant of the Coast Guard locally and Captain of the port; Assistant United States District Attorney Sanford H. Cohen, Representative Fimanuel Celler, Samuel Wilson of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, and twenty-five newspaper men.

Cutter Starts for the Scene.

The cutter, outward bound to the spot from whence have drifted tales of racing motorboats, bargains with revolvers and armed clashes with pirates, started out under conditions of favoring tide and clear skies. Captain Mike Ryan shot his craft along at a good clip. In thirty minutes the first evidence of the illicit sea traffic hove into sight. The burly little Porpolee came racing into view. The Porpoise was once the champion of the ship-to-shore rum racers, but now is duly enlisted in the prohibition movement. Back of her came two gray-coated motor launches seized yesterday morning as carriers of the fluid contraband. But the Porpoise slid past without a hail and the Manhattan settled down to a steady thump-thump over the miles of water to her destination.

"We have all heard about the 'rock bound' coast of New England," remarked Director Canfield as the Manhattan thumped seaward and rumward, "and we will soon hear of the 'dry bound' coast of New York and New Jersey. The United States is a land of moral courage and strength and the ASBURY PARK, N. J., April 19.—A baby girl prematurely born to Mrs. James Miller, 511 Fifth Avenue, Belmar, N. J., on April 12, and apparently dead at birth, was revived by injections of adrenalin, and is now living and in good health, according to physicians at the Ann May Memorial Hospital in this city.

Officials of the hospital say the child was born twenty-four hours after its mother had been operated on for appendicitis. Dr. James F. Ackerman, the attending physician, found the baby apparently dead. After various attempts to bring about respiration he determined to try adrenalin. Two injections brought temporary heart action, and the third was successful.

COURT THROWS OPEN BUCKETSHOP BOOKS

BANKRUPTS' BULWARK GONE

Case "Analagous to Thief Who Puts Incriminating Statements on Stolen Property."

Judge Julian W. Mack handed down a decision yesterday in the Federal Court by which State prosecutors hereafter can examine the books of bankrupt brokerage firms for evidence of bucketing and other forms of criminal conversion of their customers' funds. District Attorney Banton can now proceed with the investigation of the books of scores of brokerage firms which went into bankruptcy in this city within the last five years with liabilities of more than $150,000,000. In the face of Judge Mack's ruling bankrupts no longer will be able to protest successfully against an invasion of their constitutional rights when a prosecutor seeks to obtain from their books evidences of bucketing and grand larceny.

Judge Mack rendered the decision last evening after a two-hour hearing in his chambers in the Woolworth Building in connection with the bankruptcy investigation of E. M. Fuller & Co., brokers, who failed last June, owing 2,000,000 to customers. Edward M. Fuller is on trial in General Sessions on one of thirteen indictments returned against him for bucketing and larceny.

Fuller's Counsel Put Up Fight.

Counsel for Fuller and his partner, William F. McGee, sought to obtain an order from Judge Mack staying the execution of an order granted in the morning by Harold P. Coffin, Federal Referee in the Fuller bankruptcy, transferring the Fuller books from Samuel Strasbourger, receiver for the firm, to George C. Sprague, the trustee selected by 4,000 creditors.

District Attorney Banton tried to get the books for the Grand Jury investigation of the failure which led to the indictment of Fuller and McGee. Repeated demands made by the prosecutor to Mr. Strasbourger were ignored, and the case is now awaiting decision in the United States Supreme Court on the prosecutor's appeal from the decision of the lower Federal Court that Mr. Strasbourger had pursued the proper course in the matter. William M. Chadbourne and C. F. Smythe, representing the Fuller creditors sided with Carl J. Austrian and Francis L. Kohlman, counsel for the trustee, who have been working for almost a year, to get possession of the books, and called the attention of the receiver to the fact that the injunction obtained by Fuller did not apply to the trustee.

Referee Grants Transfer Order.

The application was vigorously opposed by Arthur Garfield Hays and William Abramson, representing the accused brokers. They asserted that the real purpose behind the application to transfer the books was to deliver them to Assistant District Attorney Hugo Wintner for use in his prosecution of Fuller in the bucketing trial in Judge Nott's part of General Sessions. As soon as Referee Coffin announced that he had signed the order transferring from the receiver to the trustee the books and all the documents seized in Fuller & Co.'s office at 20 Broad Street on the day of the failure, Assistant District Attorney John Caldwell Myers served a subpoena on Trustee Sprague demanding the production of the books at the Fuller trial in General Sessions.

Fuller's lawyers then hurried to Judge Mack's chambers and obtained an order temporarily staying the delivery of the books to the trustee. They were followed by the lawyers for the trustee

Story of Ten Starving Sends Airplane Out Over Lake Michigan, Into Which It Falls

NORTHPORT, Mich., April 19 (Associated Press).—Efforts to rescue the nine men and one woman reported to be starving on South Fox Island, eighteen miles off the mainland in Lake Michigan, were temporarily halted this afternoon when Lieutenant E. C. Whitehead's airplane from Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich., crashed through the ice in Grand Traverse Bay in an attempt to make a landing.

Neither Lieutenant Whitehead nor a newspaper man who accompanied him was injured, although they fell in the water. The plane was not seriously damaged but it was so wedged in the breaking ice that a crew of men was unable to extricate it in time for a flight tonight to Fox Island.

Edward Horn, aged 22, of Suttons Bay, one of the three men who fought their way from the island to Northport, denied at Traverse City today that he had said nine men and a woman were starving to death on the island.

Horn, according to Bayard C. McAlvay, superintendent of the company, carried with him a letter from Nels Ase, foreman of the wood-cutters on the island, dated April 15. The letter, according to McAlvay, is as follows:

"Will write you a few lines to let you know we are still on the island. Well, some of the boys are going across and they have their time. They could have worked another week. In regard to food, I leave it to you. But the last great it has been slim, bans and potatoes, bread and black strap in place of butter. Will start over as soon as possible. The boat is in good shape."

McAlvay said he was unable to account for reports that the men and woman were starving unless there had been an accident or fire on the island. He said he had no report of a disaster.

CHICAGO, April 19.—An hour before sunset tonight an airplane piloted by John Miller left Checkerboard Field and started over Lake Michigan on the first leg of a journey that is expected to end tomorrow on South Fox Island, at the northern end of the lake. The plane carried 200 pounds of food for the nine men and a women who have been isolated on the island by the Spring ice floes.

CRIMINAL CASE MAY FOLLOW

Commission Reports to Harding That High Sugar Prices Are Not Due to Tariff.

The recent rapid rise in the price of raw and refined sugar led yesterday to the filing by the Government of a petition in the United States District Court here for an injunction against the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, Inc., and the New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing Association, Inc. The officers and members of the exchange and association are named in the petition, which Colonel William Hayward, United States District Attorney, said was an effort "to make the gamblers in sugar remove their roulette wheel from the American breakfast table."

The Government asked that the Court direct "that the defendants and each of them be perpetually enjoined from entering into or permitting to be entered into any transactions on said exchange or elsewhere involving or purporting to involve the purchase, sale and delivery of sugar, unless the person purporting to make such sale has in his possession or under his control a supply of sugar adequate to meet the requirements of such transaction, and the person purchasing or purporting to purchase shall in good faith intend to buy and pay for such sugar and accept delivery as soon as same can be made.

It was also asked:

"That defendants and each of them be perpetually enjoined from maintaining and operating and from engaging in the operation or said Exchange and Clearing House in so far as they may be in or purport to deal in sugar, and from establishings maintaining, operating or engaging in the operation of any plan or scheme of like character or designed or intended to establish artificial prices of sugar or to substantially affect prices of sugar by artificial means, or the necessary result of which would be to so establish and affect the prices of sugar.

"That said defendants and each of them be perpetually enjoined from in any manner publishing or making public any price or prices for raw or refined sugar as being or purporting to be the market price of such sugar as established by or observed in transactions on said Exchange, and from attempting to establish the prices named in transactions on said Exchange as the market price of sugar to be observed in bona fide transactions actually involving the purchase, sale and delivery of sugar."

Sugar Market Affected.

There was an immediate effect in the sugar market when news of the Government's action reached there. Liquidation began at once, and sugar options declined from 30 to 73 points from the opening prices. There seemed to be a general opinion that the action of the Government would immediately affect the price of sugar.

The inquiry into sugar transactions was instigated by Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, who, with Colonel Hayward and James M. Beck, Solicitor General, and assistants in the Department of Justice and the District Attorney's office, signed the petition. The petition was based upon the charge that there was a conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law and the tariff act.

The defendants named in the petition were: New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange (Inc.), New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing Association (Inc.), T. S. B. Neilsen, Manuel E. Rionda, Frank C. Russell, C. H. Middendorf, J. H. Walter Lenkau, Justus Ruparti, Louis V. Sterling, William S. Scott, C. H. Stoffregen, August Schlirenberg, E. E. Peabody, E. L. Lueder, G. H. Finlay, Franklin W. Hopkins, John H. Windels, C. B. Stroud, John A. S. Dunn, Hugo E. Carney, William Doyne, R. F. Diercks, Leon Israel, Arthur H. Lamborn, Levis W. Minford in their own right and as representatives of all the members of said New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange (Inc.), and New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing Association (Inc.).

Details of the operation of the Exchange and Clearing House are set forth in the petition to show that only a minute percentage of the transactions are actual sales for delivery, and that as a result the prices are worked up to an artificial level not justified by the amount of raw sugar on the market, which is set at a figure greater than last year.

Cost to the Public.

"Sugar is a prime article of diet and a necessary of life," the petition sets forth. "The annual per capita consumption of sugar in the United States is 102.86 pounds. Because sugar enters so largely into the daily life of the people any artificial increase in the price thereof imposes a severe burden upon each individual citizen. Every advance of 1 cent per pound in the price of refined sugar costs the consumers in the United States approximately $2,000,000 a week.

"Most of the sugar in the United States is refined in this country, and a large part of it comes from Cuba, with which the present proceeding is mainly concerned. Most of the dealings on the Exchange involve raw sugar, the petition states, adding:

"Actually, transactions on the exchange in an overwhelming majority of cases do not involve and are not intended to involve the delivery of the amount of raw sugar purported to be sold thereby. Such transactions are completed on said exchange by matching, ring settlements, or payments of difference and by clearing through defendant clearing association, where settlements are reached by matching, payments of difference, &c., without delivery of the amount of raw sugar stated in the contracts.

"On an average about 75 per cent. of all transactions are cleared through defendant clearing association. Of the total number of contracts cleared through said association in November, 1922, .0018 per cent. were consummated by delivery; of the total contracts cleared through said association in December, 1922, .0022 per cent. were consummated; of the contracts in January, 1923, .0010 per cent.; February, 1923, .0002 per cent.; and March, 1923, .0010 per cent."

Dealings Set Price for Sugar.

Although these dealings result in the actual delivery of very little sugar, the transactions are carefully recorded and set a price for sugar transactions all over the world, the petition sets forth.

"The prices thus established and published are taken by those who own and sell sugar as the basis for prices in actual transactions," the petition states, "and thus it is brought about that the defendant corporations and individuals by their speculations and gambling in sugar for future delivery control the prices of raw sugar paid by the refiner, who purchases it for preparation for consumption; the prices of the wholesaler or jobber, who purchases refined sugar for distribution; the prices of the retailer, who purchases it for direct delivery to the consumer, and the prices paid by millions of consumers throughout the United States.

"The maintenance and operations of defendants' New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange (Inc.) and New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing Association (Inc.), inevitably result in the establishment of prices for raw and refined sugar which are wholly speculative and artificial without proper regard for the conditions which but for said unlawful and uneconomic operations would control prices.

"Said exchange and clearing association serve no legitimate or useful purpose in the marketing in interstate and foreign commerce of the United States of raw and refined sugar. They exist only as a means of contracting and speculating with reference to supplies of sugar which in many cases do not exist and for the purpose of manipulating the price of raw and refined sugar without regard to conditions actually obtaining in the industry and regardless of the law of supply and demand, and solely for illegitimate gambling and speculative profits, to the embitterment of the parties to such operations and frequently to the injury and detriment of those actually engaged in the business of producing and refining sugar, and at all times to the serious injury of the consuming public."

No Shortage of Sugar.

To show that there was no reason because of supply for the increase in the price of sugar the Government petition states that from Feb. 1, 1923, to the time of filing the bill, "the situation of the United States and of the world in the matter of available stocks of raw sugar was more favorable than at any time within the last three years. The production of cane and beet sugar for 1921-22 was approximately 1,000,000 tons greater than in the preceding year, and the estimated production for 1922-23 was 521,000 tons more than for 1921-22, when the total was 17,684,000 tons. The United States Department of Commerce estimates the 1922-23 world production of sugar at 19,511,000 tons, an increase of 1,800,000 tons over 1921-1922."

"There existed during this period no economic justification for a sudden or appreciable increase in the price of raw or refined sugar, or for any increase," the petition states. "The price of raw sugar at New York, May delivery, increased between Feb. 1, 1923, and Feb. 8, 1923, from $3.65 to $4.07 per cwt. Thereafter prices gradually increased from day to day until April 1, 1923, when the peak of $6.97 was reached."

These rapid increases were due to a combination and conspiracy between the Exchange and the association and the officers and members of those corporations, the petition states, which sought to establish artificial and unwarranted prices, and the result has been "an orgy of speculation in raw sugar," based on fictitious sales. Unless the court shall promptly issue an injunction, the petition says, the abnormally high prices will constitute an irreparable public injury.

Colonel Hayward said that the bill was filed after careful investigation by the Department of Justice and United States Attorneys, notably Major David A. L'Esperance and Roger Shale, and after many conferences and consideration by the President and the Cabinet. The importance of the case was indicated, he said, by the fact that not only the Attorney General but Mr. Beck also signed the petition.

Sugar sold at retail in New York yesterday at from 9½ to 10 cents a pound, many of the stores selling it at the lower price, which was established several days ago. A number of the chain stores were selling it at 10 cents.

May Begin Criminal Action.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Criminal prosecutions may follow the sugar injunction suit filed in New York today. The first phase of the Government's action against the alleged sugar conspiracy was completed with institution of the civil injunction proceedings to prevent speculative trading on the New York Sugar Exchange. The criminal phase was held in abeyance, but Acting Attorney General Seymour announced that it was under serious consideration.

Final decision regarding criminal action was said officially to be before Attorney General Daugherty, who is now at Asheville, N. C. He was said to be considering a request upon the Federal Grand Jury in New York for criminal indictment, under the conspiracy provisions of the Sherman act, of the defendants named in today's civil suit.

The Government's action in the New York injunction suit constituted a new and extraordinary legal development of anti-trust prosecutions in its attempt to stop speculation on a commodity exchange, a precedent which, if finally established by the Supreme Court, Government counsel said, might lead to important future expansion of the Sherman law's effect.

It was said it would be novel and important to determine for the future whether the Government has the power to prevent speculation in foodstuffs and also in clothing, prices of which have a tendency to fluctuate abnormally.

Still another line of attack is probable, aimed at the profits of those involved in sugar speculations. Acting Attorney General Seymour said that in the injunction proceedings the Government probably would make an additional prayer to the court, not contained in today's petition, striking at the profits of speculators. It is proposed to ask the court for an order annulling the speculative trades since February and prevent settlements being made between brokers and customers. This also was said to be another unprecedented move in anti-trust litigation.

EXCITEMENT IN SUGAR TRADE.

Refiners and Producers eCnfer and Exchange Prices Slump.

Excitement prevailed in the sugar trade yesterday when the Government suit to stop sugar speculation became known. Hurried conferences were called by officials of the larger producing and refining companies to review the situation and its possible effect on the price of sugar. Many of the larger refining companies have bought heavily of sugar in the open market during the last few months at constantly rising prices, and if the Government investigation causes a reaction, some of the larger companies, it is said, may again find themselves tied up with sugar bought at higher prices.

A sharp break in sugar futures also was witnessed on the Sugar Exchange. The prices for the different months dropped from 50 to 79 points, or from ¼ to little more than ½ cents a pound. There was a slight rally later as a result of short covering, but despite this the market for futures ended the day much below the closing prices on Wednesday. Cuban raw sugar earlier in the day sold at a new high record price for the current year to date, but when futures declined sharply, the market for the spot quickly became unsettled and that trading was virtually suspended. At least no sales of importance were reported during the latter part of the day. The price of refined sugar remained unchanged, the leading refiners quoting the same prices as prevailed on Wednesday.

Other Exchanges Affected.

The break in sugar futures also affected trading on the New York Cotton and New York Stock Exchanges. On the Cotton Exchange, where futures are dealt in principally, traders, as a result of sugar developments, dumped cotton on the market in large blocks. This movement, according to reports from the Exchange floor, was due to the belief that the Government might take similar action against the Cotton Exchange in view of the fact that cotton has advanced considerably over the last year. On the New York Stock Exchange stocks of sugar producing and refining companies were adversely affected by the news, and declines of 1 to 3 points or more occurred in many instances.

C. B. Stroud, Superintendent of the Exchange, early in the day said that he knew nothing of the Government action except what he read on the Wall Street tickers. Soon after the close of business on the Exchange the Board of Managers went into conference with the attorney for the Exchange. It was then announced that the officers of the Exchange had received the papers in the suit. Following the meeting it was stated that a committee had been appointed to attend to the Government litigation.

This committee, which will work in conjunction with W. Mason Smith, attorney, of 25 Broad Street, includes Leopold S. Bache, M. E. Rionda, E. L. Lueder, George W. Lawrence, C. A. Fairchild and F. Diercks.

American Sugar Statement.

Earl D. Babst President of the American Sugar Refining Company, issued a statement in which he said:

"The American Sugar Refining Company is not a member and does not operate on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange. So far as we know, the same is true of all sugar refiners. We, as refiners, cannot provide against a stampede or against a boycott. One is as bad as the other. Sugar comes from the tropics. The great fleet of sugar ships must be kept constantly moving to the refineries. The refineries must give an uninterrupted supply to the country. The movement of sugar must be kept going evenly or there is trouble.

"The housewives of the country are the one bright spot in the present sugar situation. They have not been stampeded. They remember too well the scramble and slump of 1920. Our advices show that the available supply of refined sugar at present in the United States is ample. No one, of course, can foresee the final out-turn of the sugar crops in the tropics, or the amount of sugar that will be consumed in the United States this year. All predictions are speculative.

"If the newspapers and the housewives of the country resist alarming reports, the sugar situation will adjust itself. So, Mrs. Housewife, while the newspapers are printing columns on sugar, too often under scare headlines, it is largely in your power to regulate the whole matter. Don't scramble; don't hoard; don't boycott. Buy your sugar as you need it."

Frank S. Lowry of E. Atkins & Co., representatives of some of the largest out-of-town refiners, said that his organization did not use the New York Sugar Exchange for its operations. He said his firm traded in the actual market, dealing in refined and raw sugar and not in futures. Mr. Lowry said that he knew of no conspiracy to fix sugar prices. In his opinion, he said, nothing can be said about sugar that cannot be said about other commodity exchanges, such as cotton and produce.

SUGAR ADVANCES IN LONDON.

Brokers There Blame Ring in America and Cuba.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 19.—All prices in the Clyde crushed sugar market advanced a shilling per hundredweight yesterday. The market has been rising almost daily for the last three weeks and the latest rise in price was not received with surprise in Mincing Lane. London's sugar market. One of the leading sugar brokers said that the real reason was a shortage of supplies.

"The Chancellor of the Exchequer," he said, "in his speech on Monday indicated that sugar was likely to become dearer, and his speech was read in America with the result that the lead given in the House of Commons was promptly acted upon and America advanced prices. There was in America and Cuba what practically amounted to a ring and in Mincing Lane buyers were tumbling over each other to obtain supplies."

Another broker said the American ring was cutting down supplies to create a big rise in prices and that before the end of the year sugar would be retailing at anything from ninepence to a shilling.

Many makes of jam were increased in price by a penny a pound today because of the higher cost of sugar. A prominent manufacturer in an interview said it was not a case of profiteering, but sheer necessity. The makers were now paying twenty shillings a hundredweight more for sugar than they were two months ago and they would get less than half that amount by raising prices. Inquiry among confectionery manufacturers showed that the price of candies would be raised almost immediately.

'CLEAN BOOKS' BILL NOT LIKELY TO PASS

Democratic Senators Are Weakening in Face of Protests—Another Hearing Demanded.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 19.—The Democratic Senate today showed signs of weakening in the face of the strong demand that is being made for the defeat of the Cotillo-Jesse so-called "Clean Books" bill. Information coming tonight from an authoritative source indicates that there will not be a sufficient number of votes to pass the measure.

Demand was made today by publishers in New York City for another hearing. The hearing held yesterday was so hurriedly arranged, they maintained, that the opposition had no opportunity to make anything like the demonstration of which it is capable or of fully presenting its objections.

Governor Smith, when asked today to comment on the bill and his probable course should the measure reach him, declined to do so. There is every reason to believe, however, that should his influence be sought in the interest of another hearing, he would be prepared to extend every aid he could in that direction.

Members of the Senate are being bombarded with letters and messages, urging them to defeat the bill. Many of these point out that for the Democratic Senate to put this bill through would be inconsistent with the policies and program of their party. The Democratic platform spoke in no uncertain terms on censorships.

One of the principal grounds on which the Miller Administration was attacked during the campaign was its creation of the Moving Picture Censorship Commission. The Democratic Senate has already voted in favor of repealing the Film Censorship act.

GETS $55,000 FOR INJURY

Philadelphian Was Hurt in Train Wreck on Honeymoon.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19. — Louis Kolker, a Philadelphia silk salesman, whose back was broken in a wreck on the Reading Railway at Winslow Junction, N. J., got $55,000 damages today from a jury in the United States District Court. The verdict was the largest award ever made in the Federal courts here for personal injuries. Kolker's wife, who was less seriously injured, got $1,000.

The Kolkers were bound for Atlantic City on their honeymoon when the Reading flier leaped the tracks last July, killing seven persons and injuring fifty-six. They sued the railroad company for a total of $650,000.

FINDS SUGAR PRICE NOT DUE TO TARIFF

Fluctuations Show McCumber-Fordney Act Not Responsible, Commission Says.

REPORTS TO THE PRESIDENT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Federal Government's filing petition for an injunction to end sugar speculations, alleging manipulation of prices, was followed this afternoon by a report to President Harding from the United States Tariff Commission declaring that the increased rates of the McCumber-Fordney tariff act were not responsible for present high prices of sugar.

The commission left with the President charts showing fluctuations in sugar prices during the lower Underwood rates, the Emergency Tariff act of 1921 and the duties now in force, with the view to demonstrating that other conditions were responsible for the unstable market. One of the conclusions presented in the report was that during last February and March, when the sugar prices rose feverishly, the duties imposed by the 1922 tariff were already in effect.

The answer of the Administration, therefore, to allegations that the Fordney-McCumber tariff act caused the present high prices was to institute court action against sugar speculators charging them with fictitious transactions calculated to boost prices. This answer is based upon investigations made by two branches of the Government independent of each other, the Department of Justice and the United States Tariff Commission.

Considered by the Cabinet.

Decision to enter the courts to apply for an injunction against sugar speculators was reached after careful consideration by the President and his Cabinet.

From the start, the investigation has been under the active charge of Acting Attorney General Seymour, who ordered his agents not only to look into the situation in the United States but to visit Cuba, where data having important bearing upon the decision to apply for an injunction were secured.

The Tariff Commission was brought into the situation last March when President Harding, then in Florida, sent telegraphic orders for it to make immediate inquiry into the relation of the sugar tariff to the current prices of that commodity.

In a 6,000-word report the Tariff Commission traced the varying rates of the Underwood, Emergency and Fordney-McCumber acts, together with the fluctuations in sugar prices. It concluded with the following summary:

"In the judgment of the commission this report leads to the following conclusion:

"1. The increase in sugar prices, which began toward the end of January, 1923, carrying the price of raw sugar, f.o.b. Cuba, from 3.163 cents on Jan. 24 to 4 cents on Feb. 3, 5.10 cents on Feb. 20, 5.60 cents on March 14 and 5.85 cents on April 10, and the price of granulated sugar from 6.47 cents on Jan. 31 to 7.15 cents on Feb. 9, 8.58 cents on Feb. 23, 9.11 cents on March 14 and 9.31 cents on April 12, was due to causes not connected with the American tariff. On the rapidly rising sugar market in the United States which was witnessed after Jan. 27 of this year price factors other than the tariff have been controlling.

"2. The evidence which has been considered by the Tariff Commission, including that reviewed in its earlier reports, indicates that the duty on Cuban raw sugars of 20 degrees 1948 cents per pound imposed by the tariff act of 1922 was, during February and March, 1923, and is at the present time included in the wholesale and retail prices of granulated sugar.

"3. The statement that the American price of sugar for the time being includes the duty on sugar is not equivalent to saying that if the tariff were reduced or removed, prices to the consumer would necessarily be lowered by the full amount of the reduction. If the American sugar tariff were reduced or removed, the tendency would be to reduce the domestic production of sugar and to increase the importation of foreign sugar into the United States.

"4. The question of the adequacy or inadequacy of the present tariff rate on sugar, based upon the difference in the cost of production under the flexible provisions of the tariff act of 1922, is not a part of the present inquiry. This question is being investigated by the Tariff Commission and involves careful and extensive examination. The findings of the commission based upon this investigation will be reported as speedily as possible to the President for his consideration and action."

The Democratic National Committee took a hand in the sugar dispute today. In a statement issued by the committee, Senator McKellar of Tennessee attacked the Government's policy and the manipulators of sugar prices. He said in part:

"There is no shortage of sugar in the United States or elsewhere in the world. In 'Facts About Sugar,' March 21, 1923, it is said: 'It is generally agreed by trade authorities that there is no prospect of a sugar shortage in the present year.'

Says President Is in Error.

"The President is quoted as saying that the tariff does not affect the price of sugar and that this is shown by the fact that the tariff in Canada is less and that the price is greater there. To say that the price of an article the production cost of which is three cents or less per pound and the tariff thereon is one and three-quarters cents per pound is not affected by the tariff is making quite a startling statement, to say the least of it. That he is in error does not admit of a doubt. Again the President apparently is in error in his contention that the Canadian tariff on sugar is less than the American tariff. The American tariff on sugar works out 1.76 cents per pound. I have before me a copy of the Sugar Tariff act of Canada of June 8, 1922, in which the lowest duty is two cents per pound and the highest duty 2.30 cents per pound, depending upon degrees of polarization. Refined granulated sugar is quoted in New York at 9.25 to 9.45. Refined granulated sugar is quoted in Canada, at 10.59. The larger Canadian tariff would seem to account fully for the larger Canadian price of sugar.

"I want most respectfully and correctly to make some suggestions to the President which, if followed, in my judgment will break up the sugar corner and restore a normal price for this prime necessity of life.

"First, the President has the authority under the Tariff act of last September to reduce the tariff 50 per cent. This would reduce the price of sugar at least 1 cent a pound.

Trade Commission Act.

"The President can take action against the sugar trusts and gamblers under the Federal Trade Commission act of 1914. The Trade Commission has full power to investigate this situation. It has full power to prevent unfair competition or unlawful trade practices.

"Section 3 of the Clayton Anti-Trust act of 1914 will furnish the President and the Attorney General ample authority to deal with the sugar situation. These sugar people are beyond doubt operating in restraint of trade. They have beyond doubt already created a monopoly. They should be indicted and tried in the courts as by plain law provided. In these three specific acts the President has abundant authority to break this corner in sugar. But he can even go one step further.

"If he will make a public statement that unless the grip of this trust upon sugar was released and prices restored to normal he would go before the Congress at the December session and recommend to Congress that an excess profits tax on sugar dealers be enacted into a law which will recover in largest measure the unfair and unholy profits the sugar trusts and other sugar gamblers are now making, the corporations and trusts would be broken and 'normalcy' in sugar prices—to use the President's own word—would be restored."

FLOGGED TEN A WEEK, SAYS WHIPPING BOSS

Admits He Strapped Tabert, Who Died in Florida Convict Lease Camp.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 19 (Associated Press).—Admission that he was employed as a "whipping boss" was made before the legislative investigating committee today by Walter Hirgenbotham, charged with causing the death of Martin Tabert of North Dakota in the convict lease camp of the Putnam Lumber Company.

Hirgenbotham gave his position as the lumber company as that of "deputy warden, looking after the prisoners and the camp."

"Were you commonly referred to as the whipping boss," he was asked.

"Yes," he replied. He received $45 a month and all family expenses.

"Martin Tabert was working in a section," he testified. "His foreman told me Tabert was not working. He reported him Wednesday and Thursday night. I did not whip him then and on Friday night as I counted the men out of the dining quarters, Tabert was again reported to me. I said, 'call him out.' I got my strap and whipped him. He got up after the whipping and went into the sleeping quarters. The next day he went to work and the guards told me he did fine. Tabert told me he was sick Saturday night. I made convicts bathe him and put him to bed. I sent for the doctor who did not come. I sent for him again and on Monday when I came in from the woods I heard that the doctor had been there."

He denied that he had hit hard or had struck the boy with the butt end of the whip. He admitted he whipped men about every three or four days, about ten a week.

Jess E. Walters, a former guard, testified that he saw the flogging of Tabert, and that Higginbotham gave only ten or twelve lashes and struck "gently."

M. H. Lagrone, Meigs, Ga., former track foreman for the lumber company, testified that Tabert was assigned to his gang with other convicts. "I ordered him whipped three times before he was actually flogged," said Lagrone. "I reported him to be whipped because he got to laying down on the job."

WASHINGTON SENDS WADSWORTH TO LONDON

His Presence Thought Advisable in Case Slight Debt-Refunding Changes Are Made.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Eliot Wadsworth, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, left Paris for London today to talk over final details of the American debt-funding settlement recently negotiated with the British Government. The visit was suggested by Treasury officials in view of informal advices that some slight changes might be desired by the British in the debenture issued under the settlement agreement.

Mr. Wadsworth has been engaged in conferences with representatives of the Allies on payments of the costs of the American Army of Occupation.

While the significance of his trip to London was discounted by Secretary Mellon, it was explained that as secretary of the American commission he could represent it in consulting on such changes as the British Government might seek. There has been no indication that the proposed changes are of great consequence, it being understood that they deal mainly with alteration of language used in the contract terms.

NEW CHAMPION DANCES 90 HOURS, 10 MINUTES

Jane Curry, Cleveland Waitress, Wins Partner's Laurels—Pair Set Couple's Record.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 19.—Completing ninety hours and ten minutes continuous dancing, Miss Jane Curry, a waitress in a local restaurant, walked off the floor of a dancing academy here tonight, the world's champion endurance dancer. When she quit at 9:10 o'clock she had beaten by one hour and fifty-two minutes the record of eighty-eight hours and eighteen minutes established today by Arthur Howard Klein.

Miss Curry starting dancing at 3 A. M. Monday morning with Frank Ward as a partner. They hold the endurance record for couples, dancing together continuously for fifty-seven hours and twenty minutes. Miss Curry continued dancing after Ward dropped out on a physician's advice. Her aim was 100 hours.

The new record eclipses that for women set by Miss Mildred Duvall, who stopped at 5:48 P. M. today. Had she danced 11 minutes longer she would have passed Klein's record, but she was exhausted. Klein holds the men's nonstop record.

need be made; nevertheless, the delegation from Pennsylvania since the receipt of the letter has made a thorough investigation of the record of Anthony Wayne Cook Jr. during the World War. As a result of that investigation we find (1) that Mr. Cook Jr. volunteered for training in the Officers' Training Corps at Yale College in 1917 and trained therein up to the time he was rejected, Oct. 1, 1917, by reason of physical disability; (2) that afterward, on June 3, 1918, he enrolled and after an examination by the examining physicians of the local board was rejected by reason of his same physical disability; (3) that after being rejected by the Officers' Training Corps and the local examining board Mr. Cook Jr. went to Oregon and sought to be inducted into the spruce production service of the Aviation Corps.

"Our investigation shows that all statements and insinuations contained in the letter being circulated against Mrs. Cook and her family are untrue."

While awaiting the report of the election tellers at tonight's session the delegates to the congress were addressed by James M. Beck, Solicitor General of the United States, and by Judge Alton B. Parker of New York. They also heard reports from State regents and of gifts from Cuba, New Mexico, Washington, Idaho, the District of Columbia, Louisiana, Florida, and Kentucky. Mme. Cecil Arden of the Metropolitan Opera Company sang a number of songs.

The afternoon session was given over entirely to reports of educational work, including the annual report of Mrs. Walter C. Roe, who appeared in Indian costume. Miss Martha Berry spoke on the Berry Schools of Georgia, and wore a complete costume of blue homespun and a cloak made by the girls of the school, which was trimmed in angora wool raised by the boys.

Miss Berry gave 8,000 acres of land for this industrial settlement twenty-one years ago and has devoted her life to its development.

The Daughters Own School at Tamassee, S. C., founded and maintained by the society, is filled to its capacity even with the new building just presented by the Daughters of New York at a cost of $13,000. This is a school for the white mountaineers.

WILL RENEW FIGHT FOR SMITH PROGRAM

Assembly Democrats to Focus Responsibility on Speaker Machold for Defeat.

BATTLE OPENS NEXT WEEK

Donohue Will Then Demand Measures Sidetracked in Committee Be Debated on Floor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 19.—Democrats in the Assembly will make another attempt to get action on the floor on measures in Governor Smith's program so far sidetracked in committee. Plans which have been in the making for a considerable time and were perfected at a secret conference held this week became public today. From what was learned it would appear that Democratic strategy from now on contemplates fixing responsibility for defeat of Governor Smith's legislative program personally on Speaker Machold as Chairman of the Committee on Rules, which now is the custodian of all legislation pending in the Assembly.

The battle will open on Tuesday when Assemblyman Cuvillier's pending motion to bring the Dunnigan bill providing for the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law out on the floor for debate will be taken from the table. Under a motion to reconsider the votes by which they failed of passage the Downing bills, repealing the Lusk loyalty test laws will then be taken up and debated a second time, if the Democrats have their way. These measures disposed of, Mr. Donohue or some of his colleagues will make a renewed effort to bring out for debate a dozen Democratic Party measures already disposed of under similar motions, but still alive in the Rules Committee.

The long list of such measures does not include the two constitutional amendments providing for the four-year term for Governor and the Executive budget, which are part of the Governor's reconstruction program. These have already been disposed of adversely by the lower house and can be revived there only if reintroduced in the Senate and transmitted to the Assembly by that body. It is thoroughly understood that these two amendments will be reintroduced in the upper house early next week.

With the possible exception of the repealer for the Lusk laws it is dubious whether the new Democratic offensive will affect the status quo. The prediction here is that Assembly history will merely repeat itself and that the Democratic bills will be committed to the graveyard in the Rules Committee. Even the bill to repeal the Mullan-Gage law, according to the general belief here, will go down to defeat, despite much optimistic talk on the part of certain Democrats at the Capitol.

Democratic leaders are putting in a deal of hard work trying to create an impression that they are seriously interested in the Mullan-Gage Repeal bill, but, with the exception of Assemblyman Cuvillier and a few of the extreme "wets," it is not believed that many will shed tears if the bill is beaten. Certainly no tears will be shed on the second floor of the Capitol Building, where the Executive holds forth.

Assemblymen Donohue and Cuvillier express the belief that seventy-eight or seventy-nine votes can be had for the motion to discharge the Committee on Rules. Seventy-six votes would be necessary for passage. Republicans who have canvassed the situation said tonight that a maximum of seventy-four would vote for bringing the bill out and that if there had been the slightest prospect of a majority supporting the measure the Democratic leaders would never have consented to having the measure debated again with a full Democratic attendance.

Governor Smith, who appeared at his desk for the first time since he closed his up-State reconstruction campaign, said that he was greatly pleased with his reception everywhere and most hopeful regarding the result. He said that Speaker Machold in his address at Rochester last night had missed the point.

"He spoke as though we were proposing legislation," the Governor said. "We are doing nothing of the kind. We are proposing to let the people of the State determine what kind of governmental agencies they desire."

Asked to comment on Speaker Machold's statement that in the Constitutional Convention of 1915 he had opposed the reforms he now advocates and recommending, the Governor said:

"A man who doesn't learn anything in eight years is a bonehead. The fact that I may have opposed some of these things in the past is no argument that they are not right now. I have made mistakes in my life and as I am only human it has taken me a long time to learn. Speaker Machold's speech is no answer to my arguments. The question before the House is not what I said in 1915 but am I right now. What reason can there be to deny the people of the State the right to answer this question?

"Mr. Machold says the people do not want the four-year term. What harm can there be in putting the question up to them for their decision? It is so fundamental that it could be used as a topic for debate in all the public schools between now and the election at which the referendum would be held. If he thinks the propositions would be beaten why doesn't he let them go to a vote? If they are beaten, he knew better what they wanted than I did. But I do believe they want to vote on them."

Sitting as a Committee of the Whole, the Senate today rushed to third reading about one hundred measures without a word of debate. Most of the bills were non-controversial. The Straus-Kaufmann bill, providing for the electrification of the New York Central freight tracks along Riverside Drive and Tenth Avenue to St. John's Park, was advanced to order of final passage, as was the Straus-Rosenman bill, which would eliminate the garbage dumps and coal pockets on Riverside Park.

The Kleinfeld bill, providing for a guard on every subway car, will be up for final action in the Senate next week.

MACHOLD ASKS SMITH FOR TRANSIT PARLEY

welfare of every individual citizen. In view of the tendency I, for one, do not believe that the Republican Party should adopt a King Canute attitude. It should stand for the largest practicable degree of administrative freedom. With the business end of the venture adequately safeguarded, I believe the public should be permitted to say for itself how it wants its utilities operated. As a citizen, I would vote against public operation, but because that is my personal view I should not, as a public official, prevent others from having the opportunity of expressing a contrary opinion.

One thing, however, we will not stand for, and that is to allow the city to rush into unconsidered ventures and pay losses out of the tax budget. Mayor Hylan's entire course on transit relief and his so-called plan shows a complete failure to count the cost. He lays down a chimerical policy that would cost $1,000,000,000 to carry out without, so far as appears, a single reliable engineering estimate. And then, in answer to the Assembly's question, Controller Craig reports that there is not borrowing capacity for what the Mayor proposes. Nor have any estimates been published to show what would be the financial results of public operation or what would be the estimated receipts and disbursements. Imagine a business man going into a venture without counting carefully his first costs and figuring at closely as he could his probable profits or losses.

"If the city administration in New York City is sincere on this question and if the people really want public operation, I think they should be permitted to decide for themselves, but always with the proviso that any given enterprise must be self-sustaining and treated in a businesslike manner. Therefore I am in favor of a bill that will, after a referendum at a special election, permit the putting into effect of the Dretf plan, with provisions for complete and reliable preliminary estimates and for their submission to the Appellate Division for its approval in the same manner that applications for exemptions of self-sustaining rapid transit and dock bonds are now made.

"New transit facilities are badly needed in New York City, which continues to add to itself each year a population greater than that of Syracuse. The housing situation is rendered acute, partly because of the failure of transportation facilities to keep pace with this growth. Bus lines may well assist in relieving the congestion, but the fundamental need is more subways. How they shall be built and regulated is the only question to be decided by the Legislature. The present Transit Commission is empowered to prepare plans and let contracts for new lines with the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of New York City, which must appropriate the money. So not agreed with this provision. In no other city of the State has there been invoked the principle that a State body should regulate the expenditure of money raised and appropriated purely for municipal needs. It is subversive of home rule. The City of New York should construct, own and operate its transportation lines if it wishes to do so and itself spend the $700,000,000 estimated as necessary for the work.

"Regulation of service and capitalization should remain in the hands of the State through the Transit Commission, which the Assembly wishes to retain as a protection to the people as a whole, and the rights which the city has under the franchise agreements should be restored to it. To do otherwise would be to abrogate the principle of public utility regulation established by Governor Hughes.

"Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan have assailed State control through the service commissions and Governor Smith has reversed the position he took when he was Governor before. So far as regulation is concerned, they are wrong. For I take it the people of New York City are not anxious to return to the chaos and graft which prevailed in the relation of municipalities to utility corporations prior to the reforms brought about by Governor Hughes. Home rule and municipal operation should be provided in harmony with the tendency of the times, but with restrictions which will protect the interests of the public, bona fide investors, the municipality and the State."

Raid Near St. Louis Reveals Securities Stolen in Mail Hold-Up—Most Not Negotiable.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 19 (Associated Press).—Nine men were arrested and more than $2,000,000 in securities stolen in the robbery of a mail truck here on April 2 was recovered late today in a raid by Post Office Inspectors and Deputy Sheriffs west of the city.

The loot was found in a bungalow at Richmond Heights, occupied by William F. Doering, 29 years old, a tire salesman, who was taken into custody with Theodore Waterman, aged 28, proprietor of a shoe store in Johnson City, Ill., and William D. Williamson, aged 49, who said he was employed as a yard man by Doering. Six other men were arrested at Clayton.

The raiding party made a systematic search of Doering's residence, and in an old suitcase in the attic discovered most of the loot, consisting of some negotiable securities but mostly unsigned notes of the Federal Land Bank.

Further search revealed a small arsenal—sawed-off shotguns, dynamite fuses, revolvers and automatic shotguns were taken from hiding places.

According to Inspector Reuter, all but $30,000 of the $2,300,000 loot taken in the robbery has been retrieved.

Police Say He Spent His Evenings in Broadway Cabarets and Dance Halls.

After he had heaved ash and garbage cans all day as a driver for the Street Cleaning Department, Albert Fugazy, 27 years old, of 120 Sullivan Street, according to the police frequently put on his evening clothes, rode about in taxicabs, frequented cabarets and danced in the Broadway district.

Last night he was arrested by Detectives Ward, Honan, Dowdell and Ruddy of the Fourth Avenue Precinct, Brooklyn, on a charge of having forged more than $50 worth of checks on the account of Gerald De Sapio, owner of a trucking business at 87 Varick Street, Brooklyn, by whom he was formerly employed.

According to the police, Fugazy passed a check for $4.50, made out in De Sapio's name and drawn on the Greenwich Bank at 360 Broadway, to John J. Sullivan, owner of a hay and feed store at 188 Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn. They allege he passed another check, drawn on the Chatham and Phenix National Bank and bearing De Sapio's name, on Thomas Ward, a metal goods manufacturer at 186 Fifty-eighth Street, Brooklyn.

When De Sapio made complaint the police began the search for Fugazy and found him last night in an apartment at West 100th Street and Columbus Avenue. He is alleged to have confessed stealing De Sapio's check books and having passed several checks. He has a wife and three children, the police say.

He will be arraigned in the Fifth Avenue Court this morning on a charge of forgery and grand larceny.

ARGUE SINKING FUND CASE.

Craig's Demand for Return of Records Will Come Up Today.

Argument upon Controller Craig's application for a court order compelling the return to the Sinking Fund Commission of records now in the possession of James Matthews, who was recently appointed Secretary of the Commission, was adjourned yesterday until 2:30 this afternoon by Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Newburger. At the same time, argument will be had upon Controler Craig's demand that Peter J. Brady, Supervisor of the City Record, should show cause why he should not be compelled to publish the minutes of the commission.

When Assistant Corporation Counsel John Lehman asked for a week's adjournment, Controller Craig, appearing in his own behalf, asserted that speed was necessary, as "the Sinking Fund Commission has been practically out of business pending the decision in both these matters." Mr. Craig added that the Controller had, for the last eighty years, been the party that kept these records, and yet these papers were being withheld.

Mr. Lehman objected to the hearing of the argument before next week on the ground that the regular five days' notice had not as yet expired. Justice Newburger declined to pass upon the objection.

Doctors First to Make Ice

It is reported on authority that the medical fraternity, finding ice such an aid in alleviating fevers, was the first to make ice and to sell its surplus stock to the public in Philadelphia and other cities. The doctors depend yearly more and more upon the therapeutic value of ice. But they no longer have to make it. Many hospitals have their own refrigerating plants, and in the metropolitan district Knickerbocker has 27 plants, making absolutely clean ice from drinking water filtered at extra times, frozen in sanitary containers, and delivered in clean wagons.

French Finance Minister Says Soviets Have Been Outdone in Paper Money Output.

TOTAL DOUBLED IN MONTH

Expects the Mark to Begin Falling out of Sight Any Day if Policy is Continued.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 19.—Finance Minister de Lasteyrie, who returned today from an inspection trip in the Ruhr, declared in an interview this afternoon that the Germans had beat the record of the Bolsheviki for rapidity in putting out paper money, since in one month—March—they had doubled their paper circulation, a feat the Soviets had not equaled.

"The financial situation of the Reich is getting hopeless," he said. "In the second ten days of March the German Government expended 1,559,000,000,000 paper marks and in the third ten days 582,000,000,000. These expenditures are covered by receipts only to the extent of 10 per cent.

"On Jan. 1 the floating debt of the Reich was 1,611,000,000,000; on Feb. 1, 2,245,000,000,000; on March 1, 3,588,000,000,000; on March 10, 4,345,000,000,000; on March 20, 5,800,000,000,000, and on March 31, 6,600,000,000,000 marks. The Germans tried to better their position by a gold loan, but this failed, 50,000,000 gold marks being subscribed instead of the 200,000,000 asked.

"Foodhardy Expenditures."

"They are undertaking foolhardy expenditures to sustain resistance in the Ruhr. They are paying to the industrials the wages paid the workers, and they are paying liberal salaries to the idle. This amounts to hundreds of millions of marks daily. It is evident that the State can continue such a policy and that Germany will wind up in certain disaster if she keeps it up. The mark may start to fall out of sight any day."

M. de Lasteyrie said that in several weeks the effects of the machinery for collecting export taxes in the Ruhr would be seen. He quoted figures to show how this difficult undertaking was getting under way. The taxes on exports levied partly in foreign currencies, he said, amounted from Feb. 1 to Feb. 20 to only 2,340 francs; from Feb. 20 to 28 they brought in 94,000 francs; the 1st to the 10th of March, 213,000 francs, and from the 20th to the 31st of March 432,000 francs. He predicted a continuing increase.

Minister of Public Works Le Trocquer said the daily removal of coke from the Ruhr had progressed from a daily average of 3,500 tons to nearly 9,000 tons, which would reach 10,000 in a few days. Within two weeks, he predicted, the daily deliveries would be 12,000 tons, which was what France got from the Ruhr before the occupation.

Of course coal deliveries are now only about 5,000 tons daily, instead of 25,000. An extra effort to get out coke is explained by the fact that the French need coke worse than they need coal.

Separate Currency Plan Rejected.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, April 19. — M. De Lasteyrie, Minister of Finance, has announced that France has rejected a scheme for introducing a separate currency into the Rhineland and Ruhr based on the French franc.

This measure, which was decided on at the last Brussels conference, was examined by the special commission, but in view of the uncertainty of the present situation it will not be adopted.

"Establishing a currency is the roof of economics; what we need is a foundation," M. Lasteyrie said. "It would be necessary to get the whole budget of the Rhineland into our hands before establishing a currency, and we are not attempting to gain complete financial control of the whole territory."

MGR. LUZIO'S MISSION CAUSES STIR IN DUBLIN

Free State Says He Showed No Credentials and That Visit to Cosgrave Was Not Significant.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, April 19.—The position of Mgr. Luzio in the Free State and his relation to what may be termed the controversy regarding the Government's relations with the defeated republican party and its forces has occasioned much diversity of opinion. The object of his mission was never clearly defined, but The Freeman's Journal told the country yesterday that it was accomplished and that statements that he had a mission to the Government were unfounded.

Newspaper men were informed yesterday evening by Mgr. Luzio's secretary that he came to Ireland as envoy from the Holy See with regular credentials from the Papal Secretary of State entitling him to co-operate as far as he could for the attainment of peace, such co-operation not being intended to lower the standing of the Government, but the stopping of more destruction of life and property.

The Freeman's Journal today did not publish this statement, as it was not in its opinion authoritative enough or over the secretary's signature. The Journal today said:

"A statement intended for anonymous publication, purporting to be a reply to our leading article regarding the visit of Mgr. Luzio, was conveyed to our representative, but as in our judgment the matter is far too serious to be dealt with in anonymous statements, we do not see our way to publish this communication. If any authorised and authoritative statement on the matter reaches us we shall be happy to give it prompt publication."

Today the Government Publicity Department announced:

"Mgr. Luzio was received by President Cosgrave on April 11. The Monsignor presented no credentials. The visit was purely a courtesy visit."

DUBLIN, April 19 (Associated Press).—The Senate made a surprise decision today, 18 votes to 10, that the Government should take no action to procure the Free State's admission to the League of Nations without the consent of both Houses of the Free State Parliament. The decision is considered the more surprising inasmuch as Ireland has been invited by the Economic Commission of the League to participate in the forthcoming international customs conference.

HARDING WILL SPEAK HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Accepts Invitation to Annual Meeting and Luncheon of the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—President Harding has accepted an invitation to deliver an address next Tuesday at the annual meeting in New York of the membership of The Associated Press. He probably will be accompanied by Mrs. Harding, and will leave Washington late Monday night and arrive in New York early Tuesday. His address will be made at the luncheon held in connection with the annual meeting of The Associated Press.

Plans for the visit of Mr. Harding to New York other than the delivery of his address were not disclosed today at the White House, where the acceptance of the invitation was announced, but it is expected that the Presidential party will leave for Washington late Tuesday night. Among those in the President's party will be George B. Christian Jr., his secretary, and Brig. Gen. Chas E. Sawyer, his personal physician.

1,045 Per Cent. German Dvidend.

BERLIN, April 19.—The Kammerich Works, Inc., a Berlin company manufacturing steel and iron products and corrugated lead sheeting, has declared a dividend of 1,045% per cent., breaking all German records for such declarations. The dividend is also unique in that it will be paid on the dollar basis in the Treasury bills recently issued by the Government.

GERMAN LABOR ASKS BORAH FOR HELP

Plea Said to Represent the Views of 12,000,000 Assails the French.

FEAR THE REPUBLIC'S FALL

Ruhr Occupation is Declared to Endanger the Workers' Newly Won Rights.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—That the overthrow of the Hohenzollerns and the establishment of a German republic was in the main the work of the laboring people of Germany, and that the efforts of the working people to block all moves to restore the Hohenzollerns or to establish Bolshevism in Germany are endangered as a result of the French policy toward that nation, is declared in a letter received by Senator Borah today.

The letter, which, it is said, represents the views of 12,000,000 German workers, was transmitted by A. Knoll, Secretary of the General Federation of Trade Unions of Germany.

The reason for the communication, it is set forth, is to make clear to the world, and to the United States in particular, the position of the working classes of Germany in the existing crisis. Senator Borah was selected as the American who was considered by the writers to be in the best position to understand the situation because of his knowledge of and interest "in the problems of the working man."

The workers of Germany, the authors of the document say, were second to the people of no other country in endorsing ex-President Wilson's views on the self-determination of nations, and they interpreted the Wilsonian doctrine according to the American viewpoint. President Wilson's statement that the United States went to war against the German Government and not against the German people is stressed by the writers.

"This clearly expressed desire of the American people," the letter adds, "is being frustrated by the policy of France. The advance of the French into the Ruhr is in an undeniably annexationist spirit and is in violation of the rights of the German nation. This action of the French is cheating America of the fruits of her victory in that it is destroying the aim for which America entered the war."

"The Treaty of Versailles," the letter continues, "contains so many clauses that are actually impossible of fulfillment that it is easy at any time to claim a German 'failure,' and this interpretation of French policy has persuaded the Trade Union of Germany to offer united opposition to the plans of the French."

The danger of the restoration of the monarchy has not passed, it is said, and "it is being nurtured and augmented by the French reparations policy."

"From the armistice up to Sept. 22 last, it is declared, the Germans suffered losses and made payments to France of a total of about 285,000,000,000 marks, and as a result German wealth was actually halved.

Referring to the cost of foreign occupation of German soil, the writers say:

"'From the armistice until April, 1922, Germany paid 3,000,210,000 gold marks. To this must be added such items as lodging, food, heat, light and transport, which in 1922 amounted to twenty-five milliards of paper marks. In addition to the costs of occupation, there are the costs of the Interallied Rhineland Commission, which, according to the agreement of Germany with the Allies, should consist of four persons, but actually embraces 1,300 persons.

SZECHENYI HEARS PRAISE OF HUNGARY

KAHN SEES GREAT FUTURE

Frank A. Vanderlip Says England Has Almost Regained Financial World Supremacy.

The prediction that the ancient Hungarian people, arising in peace like Wotan with his battle-axe, would break through all the barriers thrown around them since the war and march forward to a great destiny was made last night by Otto H. Kahn at a dinner given by the American Hungarian Chamber of Commerce in honor of Count Laszlo Szechenyi, first Ambassador of independent Hungary at the Hotel Astor. Mr. Kahn told of his personal sympathy and admiration for the Hungarian people and of the good-will of America toward Hungary.

Mr. Kahn called the Hungarians a "race to whom Europe owes its deliverance at one time from the barbarians of the Far East," and pointed out that when they were called to arms in the World War they fought chivalrously.

"During all the war," said Mr. Kahn, "you will hear of no Hungarian atrocities. At the end of the war they were promised an honorable peace. You know what that peace has been, with invasion, with indemnity and with the terrible régime of Bela Kun. That the Hungarian people found strength in all those days to pull themselves together is a testimonial to the qualities of these people. A great injustice has been done. And it will be righted, I do not doubt."

Kahn Tells an Opera Story.

"I was in my office this afternoon," he said, "when the telephone rang, and the voice over the wire said:

"'Mr. Kahn, I have great news for you. I have discovered a second Caruso.' I groaned. I have known those Carusos for twenty years. They are very painful.

"My informant told me that the prospective Caruso was young, had a magnificent voice and a fine physique. He insisted that I must hear him at once. Five minutes later the same man called up and said: 'Now, Mr. Kahn, about that young fellow I spoke to you about. I don't know anything about his singing, and I don't want you to hold me responsible. From what I know, I think he did pretty well in vaudeville. He isn't very young—he must be going on 36 or 37, and it's true that he hasn't got such a fine build—he's probably 5 feet. Also you might like to know that one of his shoulders is a little higher than the other and that——"

"'But what did you mean when you said he had a magnificent voice, that he had a superb figure and was young?' I interrupted.

"'That chap's father,' confessed the man on the telephone, 'was one of my best customers, and I had to say what I did because the damn fellow was sitting next to me when I spoke to you the first time.'"

Frank A. Vanderlip, referring to Hungarians, said there were "no people in Europe so like the best of Americans."

"America has come to a position of domination," said Mr. Vanderlip, "but does not dominate. I feel that we have a greater opportunity to play our part not in dominating but in helpfulness. There seems to be a lack of even the will to play the part. We have not been doing our duty in the political arena.

Says America Neglects Opportunity.

"I hold that we have not been seizing our opportunity in any phase of this situation. America has had laid at her feet the opportunity of financial domination—in the good sense—and she has not acted upon that opportunity."

Here Mr. Vanderlip reviewed the enormous gold reserves in the United States, representing more than half the gold of the world, the interest rates, and the financial situation in general, and he then called attention to reports he had read in yesterday's papers concerning the financial situation in England.

"Today's report of the Bank of England," continued Mr. Vanderlip, "shows reserves of less than 20 per cent. and a rate of interest less than 3 per cent. What does that mean? It means that London, the old financial centre of the world, has almost regained her position as financial centre of the world.

"English bankers cannot co-operate with American bankers because their rates are so much lower than ours. They have demonstrated their ability to dominate as we have demonstrated our inability to dominate. We have failed economically to grasp our great opportunity just as we failed politically to grasp our opportunity for great service.

"I am hopeful that America will yet play her part to the end that civilization may be saved—and civilization is in danger."

Reports that Hungary was plotting revenge and "military adventure" were called a "slander" by Count Szechenyi, who asserted that in truth the record of Hungary showed the very opposite.

"Not only has the Allied Military Commission of Control found nothing to substantiate said allegations," declared Count Széchényi, "but Hungary's economic life has been bent on nothing but work and more work. Increase of production and exports, curtailment of the budget and of imports, and stabilization of the country's currency have been the principal aims."

Colonel Michael Friedsam said that American merchants were sending their buyers into Hungary in increasing numbers. He warned the members of the American Hungarian Chamber of Commerce that while they formerly held that their products were supreme in quality, they must now come to recognize the fact that they must produce the goods that American merchants wanted and that American customers would buy.

The other speakers included Irving T. Bush, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York; the Rev. Dr. Sesa Takaro, Morris Cukor and Justice Victor J. Dowling.

TO GIVE FACTS ON LEAGUE.

Non-Partisan Association Establishes an Information Centre.

The League of Nations Non-Partisan Association opened yesterday an information centre at 585 Fifth Avenue. It will be open daily from 11 A. M. to 6 P. M. At 5 o'clock each afternoon there will be speeches by prominent advocates of the League.

F. Louis Slade, Membership Chairman of the association, presided at the meeting. Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw was the principal speaker.

"We must deal with the causes, not the effects, of the present world misfortunes," Mrs. Laidlaw said. "Measures for alleviation are not adequate. We must get at the root of the troubles of the world, and we cannot do it by our present system of international puttering."

of railroad men who are still remaining loyal to the Government, as are almost all organized workmen.

During the past three weeks, the French believe, several thousands of unemployed have come into Ruhr from unoccupied Germany in hope of benefitting from unemployment allowance and possibly getting work under the French. It is these men as much as any who are at the bottom of today's disturbances, and the French are considering measures to prevent any more crossing the frontier.

Among today's rioters the great majority were young lads who grew up during the war and were employed as casual labor outside of union control. They form the numerical strength of the movement which, if not checked at once, is not unlikely to spread from one town to another till the whole of the Ruhr is inflamed.

MULHEIM, April 19.—The Burgomaster, other city officials and detectives, altogether more than 300 persons, are besieged tonight in the Rathaus of Mulheim by Communists.

Detectives from other cities, schupos (green police) from Duisberg and some nationalists are trying to relieve the Rathaus and cut their way through the Communist lines.

It is believed that the present affair is a part of a well-conceived plan for a coup throughout the Ruhr by syndicalists and Communists. Two Russian Bolsheviki addressed 10,000 Communists at Bochum yesterday.

Three men have been killed and forty-two wounded so far in the fighting at Mulheim.

The unemployed tonight are in complete possession of all the strategic points in the town, including the bridge across the Ruhr River. Streets have been barricaded with mattresses, bedsteads, every kind of household furniture and all manner of heavy objects.

Attempts to produce similar results in Vohwinkel were foiled by the firemen of that town, who defended the Rathaus. Order was restored there this evening.

Barricades of Paving Stones.

MULHEIM, April 19.—(Associated Press)— The business section of Mulheim is in the hands of unemployed workers tonight, armed with rifles obtained during the day by looting arms and munition stores.

The mob to the number of about 3,000 have thrown barricades across the principal thoroughfares, using blocks from the streets and bricks from buildings in course of erection.

There have been numerous clashes with the police, and at least three men have been killed and from forty to fifty wounded, according to figures given out by the German Red Cross. This brings the total number of dead since the demonstrations began yesterday up to five.

The Town Hall, with 300 police within, is besieged, and it is expected the men will have to surrender before they receive assistance from the outside. The police effectives are much reduced, and there are no French soldiers in Mulheim.

A delegation of the mob was received by the Burgomaster, who declared that he was unable to grant increased doles unless instructed by the Reich. The delegation decided that the unemployed would await Berlin's decision behind their barricades.

All traffic is at a standstill, and all activities are controlled by the rioters, who are led by members of the Communist Party and are confiscating foodstuffs.

All stores are closed and the owners have barricaded the doors and windows.

BERLIN, April 19.—The Government has ordered reinforcements of Security Police to Mulheim from Duisberg.

According to the German version of the disturbances in Mulheim, Communists and trade unionists are responsible for the trouble and have occupied the centre of the town, barricading all exits.

MARK TO BE BOLSTERED.

Cuno Ready to Adopt "Most Drastic Measures" to Halt Decline.

BERLIN, April 19.—"The Reichsbank yesterday lost its battle of the Marne," the Socialist Deputy, Dr. Hertz, declared in debate today in the Reichstag, on the budget for the Ministry of Economics.

His reference was to the sudden weakening in the mark. He believed the Reichsbank was caught napping, having failed to guard itself against recurring assaults by the industrialists and speculators who, he said, were out of sympathy with the efforts to stabilize the mark.

Replying to the Socialist's criticism, Minister of Economics Johannes Becker announced that the Government did not intend to abandon its support of the mark and would not hesitate to adopt the most drastic measures to halt its further decline.

Representatives of the Government and the directorate of the Reichsbank decided at a conference this morning that the recent policy of bolstering up the mark would be continued.

It was announced after the meeting that, contrary to reports that the Reichsbank would no longer throw foreign currencies onto the market, that action will be continued and other measures will be taken to keep the currency steady. These measures include far-reaching reductions in imports and the imposition of Government control on traffic in foreign currencies.

Dealings in exchange here were so sluggish this morning as to cause surprise, although it was pointed out that the dealers were probably wary lest the Reichsbank immediately exert influence to counteract yesterday's slump. In the early official tradings the dollar was quoted as high as 31,800 marks.

It is stated in some quarters that an attempt is now likely to be made to stabilize the mark in the neighborhood of 30,000 to the dollar.

The Lokal Anzeiger learns in parliamentary circles that 2900,000 in marks were thrown on the London exchange market yesterday. The newspaper says it is not definitely known from what sources the money came, but it assumes that the action was a French manoeuvre designed to interfere with German efforts toward strengthening the mark, as well as to break Germany's resistance.

LONDON, April 19.—Inquiries on the London exchange market with regard to a report printed in the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger brought no confirmation of the alleged dumping of £900,000 in German marks here yesterday. Officials of the exchange ridiculed the report, asserting that it would be impossible to throw such a sum on the market.

The mark this morning was selling at 145,000 to the pound sterling, or 2,000 marks more than yesterday's low.

DRY CHIEF VISITS BOOTLEGGING FLEET

time has come when it must close its doors and water gates to liquor smuggling.

"No longer will tame methods and spiritless activity and pusillanimity be sufficient or acceptable. Uncle Sam has to be a tiger and a bear at the same time. The smugglers smugly exhibit a superquintessence of audacity in setting at naught the one-hundred-year-old laws against smuggling.

"While it is much exaggerated and greatly magnified, it is a grave indictment against the country that there is any smuggling. The people do not realize the menace that it constitutes because story books have always cast an atmosphere of glamor around pirates and smugglers. They forget that it is not merely a violation of the National Prohibition act but of the Internal Revenue laws and custom laws that have existed for upward of a century and are a sacred part of our law structure.

"This smuggling cannot be eliminated with gondolas or canoes. It will require fast and swift eagle-winged boats. The boats must be armed—combatant boats. They must represent speed and force. They must be 'seven league' boats. Then the ocean bandits and the viking smugglers will do like the Arabs—'silently steal away in the night.'

Use of Naval Boats Favored.

"The question whether naval boats should be used cannot be discussed by me with a proper sense of propriety. Apparently, nearly everyone with whom I have talked is favorable to such a course. If the Government is to enforce the law it must be prepared for vigorous operations with an adequate water patrol supplemented by a sufficient land force. Then it will be so dangerous and risky as to be unprofitable and smuggling will cease. The Government must assert itself and its power or it might as well annex the Bahamas, Cuba and the Bermudas. It can be stopped if it is gone about in the right way. When Prohibition is enforced it will crystallize sentiment either for or against Prohibition."

Along about this time the liquor fleet began to loom on the horizon. Strung out with about three-quarters of a mile between each vessel were the six ships—a former yacht, a tramp of the tanker type and four sprightly looking fishing schooners. The fleet was drawn up in bottle formation, like a crescent with the tips pointing in toward the Jersey shore. Far off on the other side of the Manhattan the Highlands jutted dimly into the blue haze.

Not a single motor launch was in evidence at first view, for the dry officials' visit had been widely heralded and wireless messages had duly notified the fleet of the program. And the six ships rocked as innocently in the long sea swells as six old ladies in as many rocking chairs.

Director Canfield was aft when the first of the rum ships came up directly ahead. With binoculars glued to his eyes Mr. Canfield was diligently looking the fleet over while a movie man ground out the film and the shutter of a camera clicked. All hands aboard the Manhattan prepared to parley with the gently rolling stranger, but the cutter sheered off and headed for one of the schooners.

Man on Schooner Is Silent.

She proved to be the Katherine M., a two-sticker out of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, and as the Manhattan drifted over against her a squat, comfortably fat man with his elbows leaning on the rail calmly surveyed the visitors. He was smoking a short briar and after deliberately looking the cutter over from stem to stern, permitting himself a deliberate survey of the party aboard, he removed the briar but disdained to reply to questions and the Manhattan chugged slowly around the stern and discovered something.

Moored to the shore side of the Katherine M. was a twenty-foot motor boat. The bow had the label K 12208, and it didn't need two glances to determine that the K12208 was decidedly new, from her $1,000 Sterling engine of great power to the shining coat of battleship gray. Two men were tinkering over the engine. One was a huge Swede in oilskins and hip-length red rubber boots. The second was a little chap, almost lost in his boots, but he was also very busy over the engine. He glanced up with a pleasant grin as the Manhattan hove into sight and Captain Ryan climbed to the bow of his craft for a "talk."

"We're lobster fishermen and we got a new boat," said the smaller man. "Last night we decided to give her a try out and the engine broke down and this ship picked us up."

"Sure you haven't any Scotch aboard?" said Captain Ryan, who then ordered the Swede to turn over a pile of life preservers at his feet and to dislodge several pine boards resting against the side of the K 12208. Nothing was found.

"Nope," remarked the Swede," we got no Scotch; we bane yust broke down. We going home yust as soon we fix engine."

"Be sure you do," cautioned Captain Ryan, signalling for the go-ahead," because we got some boats further up and they're keeping a pretty sharp lookout."

Right ahead in the path of the cutter came the Catherine Mary, a two-masted schooner out of Nassau, N. P., and the three men idling on her decks stood like mummies at the rail as the Manhattan went past slowly. Their only response to efforts to induce conversation was a series of protracted stares.

Just as silent were the decks of the schooner Mary O'Conner of Nassau when the inspection party came within hail. The shouts of the Manhattan's crew served only to arouse a small black dog, who raced wildly over the coils of rope and barked furiously. The decks of this ship had a number of long wooden boxes, painted bright red. Captain Ryan did not think these contained gasoline or water.

3,000-Ton Ship Sighted.

Her high sides rising above the cutter, came the biggest of the present rum-runners—the steamship Warszawa of London. This is a vessel of 3,000 tons, a British "tramp" of the tanker type.

Swinging away from the Warszawa the cutter encountered the fifth ship, the Lunenburg schooner M. M. Gardner, with eight men lounging on the deck. She was seized a year ago by the crew of the Manhattan, who charged that the Gardner was peddling Scotch whisky. After being towed to Port Newark she was released when the Treasury Department ruled against seizures outside the three-mile limit.

"Any Scotch?" was the question put to those aboard her, and the answer by a sailor sporting a vivid green tam o'shanter was "No Sco'ch."

Pointing the nose of the cutter toward New York the path was laid for the flagship of the fleet. She is the British yacht Istar, a trim-looking ship with Glasgow as her home port. She was constructed in 1906 and was once the private yacht of Robert Goelet. She is 250 feet over all and speedy. As the Manhattan neared her it became apparent that much of her former spick and spanness had departed. The paint was flaking from her sides in great blistering patches, and she had a general back-alley appearance. Wireless was suspended from her masts, and as the cutter bore down on her the radio operator of the Istar dashed out of his cabin and hustled aft to the skipper with a message.

The Manhattan ranged in close and twenty-two of the yacht's crew, almost all in neat high uniforms, came to the rails. The master of the Istar, a stocky man, with a very red face, stood aft with a tall officer, either the first mate or purser, by his side.

Ordered to Stay at Anchor.

Captain Reed on the Manhattan took the long megaphone and hailed the Istar.

"How long have you been here?"

"Three weeks, sir," replied the first mate with a neat salute.

"Well," said Captain Reed, "stay here for a couple of days longer. The British Consul wants to come down and inspect you."

"Aye, aye!" came the answer, with a smile.

When Gloster Armstrong, British Consul General, was asked about the implied visit to the rum fleet last night he said:

"I have made no arrangements to visit rum ships off the Jersey shore and at the moment I have no intention of doing so. The British Government and the Consulate here are anxious to co-operate in every legitimate way with the American prohibition officials, but I am not planning a visit to the rum fleet."

After Captain Reed had relinquished the megaphone, Director Canfield took it and asked if he might go aboard the Istar, and the skipper promptly extended a cordial invitation. He refused to permit reporters to accompany Mr. Canfield, and the latter, after talking to Captain Reed, decided not to visit the ship. He resumed his megaphonic conversation and the first mate, in order to hear better, climbed into the bow of the Istar.

"What's your cargo?" shouted Canfield.

"Lemonade," blithely responded the mate.

"How many men in your crew?"

"Fifty-three, sir."

"Would you like another," shouted a reporter.

"Certainly, come aboard."

"How many cases have you aboard now?" asked Mr. Canfield.

The figure on the bow doubled up in mirth.

"Now, now," came the reply, "there's some questions you must not ask."

"We hear you had 16,000 cases aboard yesterday, is that so?"

"Nope," said the mate.

"Could you tell us if you have any Scotch aboard?"

"I could," said the imperturable mate, "but I wouldn't."

"How's business been?" inquired the prohibition director.

"Rather slack."

Canfield on Objects of Visit.

"The first object of the visit," said Mr. Canfield on the return, "was to ascertain and give to the public accurate information as to the measure and degree of smuggling operations and activities on the waters and along the coasts contiguous to New York City. Second, it was to emphasize the necessity to take adequate means and proper measures to successfully combat it. Third, it was to use the information with information already obtained as a basis to formulate a practical plan of operation to eliminate the smuggling or to reduce it to a minimum. Personally I have an abiding faith in that the present situation will be met in an aggressive and combative manner, and that the real job of stopping smuggling will be delegated to some agency of the Government that proper equipment for water operation, supplemented by a land force, will be provided so that the situation can be met as the United States Government ought to meet it.

"It is an absolute necessity to have an adequate water patrol. We ought to be able to reduce liquor smuggling to the same proportions as the smuggling of Chinese or narcotics. As I visualize it, these boats out here are partners with the real smugglers, the persons who operate between ship and shore. As I visualize it, they are boldly and brazenly, although outside the twelve-mile limit, plucking at the heart and soul of our Constitution like so many ocean buzzards.

"There's only one thing that will stop smuggling and that is a gun of sizable size. One thing better than that is two guns."

British Embassy on the Istar.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—It was stated at the British Embassy here tonight that the British Consul General at New York had been instructed to get into touch with one of the ships of the alleged rum fleet off the New Jersey coast and obtain information concerning it which the British Government desired. The ship in question is said to be the Istar.

Whether the British Embassy is taking this action in connection with the announced plan for co-operation between the British Government and the United States to fight the smuggling of liquor into this country is a matter which representatives of the British Government here are unwilling to discuss. Such, however, is believed to be the situation.

The information supplied at the Embassy was to the effect that the British Government desired certain information concerning the vessel and was making this effort to obtain it. There was no comment whether this was being sought at the request of the United States or upon the initiative of the British.

So far as is known here, this is the first time the British Government has taken such a step, under similar circumstances since the discussions between the two Governments about the smuggling of liquor into the United States from vessels under British registry and the possibility of co-operation to stop it.

the same time join the League of Nations, but whether that is done or not we must take independent action with reference to the World Court. For the court was set up by a protocol which is distinct from the covenant of the League. If the United States should now join the League we could sign and ratify the protocol without the necessity for reservations.

"The adhesion with the reservations framed by Secretary Hughes will accomplish pretty much the same result so far as the court is concerned. The important thing is that the court should have the prestige and authority which American support will give it. As an incidental America must pay a fair share of the expenses, and we very properly ask to be permitted to participate in voting in the Council and Assembly of the League when these bodies act as the electoral bodies named in the court.

"The court has now been in existence for two years. It represents almost completely in its details the realization of what the American Government has stood for since the first Hague conferences suggested in 1898. We have now sitting on the court one of our foremost international lawyers, John Bassett Moore. He has already taken part in the four decisions which have been handed down. He is there, however, not by virtue of action by the American Government, but by the suffrage of the fifty-two Governments of the League of Nations.

"The Court has three cases pending now, in addition to the four questions on which it has given advisory opinions. These cases are nationality decrees of Tunis and Morocco, the freedom of the Kiel Canal and the protection of the German minority in Poland.

Sees Efforts to Confuse.

"Some newspapers are trying to confuse the situation by distorting the relations between the court and the League. It is true that the statute of the court was drawn by the Council and Assembly of the League. It is also true that the expenses are now paid out of the Treasury of the League and find a separate place in the League's budget. It is also true that the Judges are elected by the Assembly and Council of the League. But the existence of the court depends on an independent treaty now signed by forty-eight States and ratified by thirty-five. This forms no part of the structure of the League itself and gives the court a very independent position.

"Fortunately, the world has escaped the impasse of 1917 on the failure of efforts to establish the court at that time, through having in existence the bodies of the League of Nations, which represents a successful compromise between political dogma of State equality on the one hand and the hegemony of the big powers on the other hand.

"Then the attack comes from a different quarter because the Court has not complete compulsory jurisdiction. Senator Borah, for example, says it is not a real international court because it has no power to summon any State against which a complaint may be made. But when in 1920 the problem was being discussed in connection with setting up of the Court and when the influence of the United States might have been thrown in Senator Borah was entirely silent and was indeed advocating complete abstention on the part of this country. It is therefore a little surprising that he is now condemning the Council and Assembly of the League for not having gone further in 1920.

"But as the situation stands today the court does have a great deal of compulsory jurisdiction. Fifteen states have ratified the optional clause giving the court jurisdiction of all disputes arising between them. Moreover, a number of general international treaties containing clauses of compulsory jurisdiction in interpretation of application of the treaties have been made."

Hudson Was Adviser to Wilson.

Professor Manley Ottmer Hudson of the Harvard Law School, an authority on international law, attended the Peace Conference at Paris in 1919 and served later as a member of the legal section of the League Secretariat at Geneva. He was one of Woodrow Wilson's expert advisers at the Peace Conference and an advocate of the League of Nations.

Irreconcilable members of the Republican Party in Congress are said to insist that Professor Hudson is the originator of the Administration's court plan, but this is denied. Professor Hudson was attached to the office of the Solicitor of the State Department under the Wilson Administration in 1917. He assisted in the governmental inquiry into the terms of peace instituted by Mr. Wilson prior to the Peace Conference and served as special assistant to the Department of State during parts of 1918 and 1919.

At Paris he served, while attached to the law division of the American commission, on the Conference Commission on Ports, Waterways and Railways, the Commission on New States and Protection of Minorities and the Commission on the Reply to the German Counter-Proposals. In addition to his other duties, Professor Hudson was legal adviser to the International Labor Conference which met in Washington in 1919 and at Genoa in 1920.

He is known as a supporter of the entrance of the United States into the Permanent Court of International Justice and recently said he could not see how any one who genuinely believes in the extension of the judicial process in international affairs could refuse to support President Harding's proposal.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Administration officials would not comment tonight on the news dispatch from Geneva stating that the reporter for The World had stated he was in correspondence with Professor Manley Hudson of Harvard on a plan whereby the United States might join the Court without being committed to the League.

Professor Hudson has written various articles on the subject. Current reports that he had something to do with the preparation of the Harding plan for the conditional entry of the United States into the Court was declared baseless today.

RUSSIAN REDS SPLIT ON ECONOMIC POLICY

Zinovieff and Radek Oppose Plan to Separate Commerce From Party Control.

WANT A DEFINITE PROGRAM

Lenin's Incapacity Makes Fixed Policy by Whole Party Imperative, They Assert.

MOSCOW, April 19 (Associated Press).—G. S. Zinovieff, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Third Internationale, told the Communist Party Congress today that the condition of Russia's domestic and international affairs would not permit bringing the dictatorship of the proletariat to an end for at least ten years.

At the present time, he added, with Premier Lenin lost to active leadership because of illness, it was extremely important that the party adopt a decisive program.

"In the past," he said, "indefinite programs might not have been harmful, for then there was a man who could interpret them in the name of the party, and we knew he would be right. Now, when he is absent, everything must be clear."

M. Zinovieff invited those within the party who were dissatisfied with the present organization to form other parties.

"If you have good platforms for the creation of other parties," he said, "then the road is open for you."

A previous speech by Leonid Krassin, Soviet Foreign Trade Commissar, suggesting that the party separate politics from business and not interfere with the work of the experts in the rehabilitation of industry, was roundly scored by M. Zinovieff, Karl Radek and others, who characterized it as a Menshevik utterance. (The Mensheviki, or Minimalists, are the less radical wing of the Russian Social Democratic Party, who accomplished the first Russian revolution in March 1917. Kerensky belonged to this party.)

From extracts of their speeches as printed in the newspaper Isvestia it appears that M. Krassin, M. Ossinski, Vice Minister of Agriculture, and M. Larin take the stand that the party should not mix in the commercial re-establishment of Russia, while Zinovieff and Radek insist that any important direction of even commercial affairs without the control of the party might open the door to the enemies of the Soviets.

Communists declare that these differences on tactical problems cannot be considered as evidence of a party split, in view of the freedom of speech which always obtains at the party congresses. It is obvious, however, that two important currents of opinion exist.

Leo Kameneff, President of the Moscow Soviet, in a conciliatory speech disagreed with M. Krassin's viewpoint, but told the congress in effect that the party would be a dead one if there were no differences in its ranks. He was glad, he added, that Krassin had been so frank.

CIVIL TRIAL FOR MONK.

Case of Slayer of Metropolitan Taken From Extraordinary Court.

WARSAW, April 19 (Polish Telegraph Agency).—The trial of the Monk Smaragd, assassin of Metropolitan George of the Eastern Orthodox Church of Poland, has been referred to the ordinary civil courts after three days of hearings before the Extraordinary Court.

The fact that Smaragd is believed to be of unsound mind, coupled with his admission that the crime was the result of personal animosity and dissatisfaction with the Metropolitan's conduct of Church affairs, removed the case from the jurisdiction of the Extraordinary Court, which considers only political cases.

The prosecutor had demanded that the death sentence be imposed by the Extraordinary Court.

MASSINGHAM TO QUIT AS EDITOR OF NATION

British Organ Will Change to Control of a Group of Which J. M. Keynes Is Chairman.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 19.—The retirement of H. W. Massingham at the end of the month from the editorship of The Nation marks the disappearance, for the time at least, of one of the strong personal forces of London journalism and an inevitable change in the periodical itself. It has been purchased by a company of which J. M. Keynes, author of "The Economic Consequences of Peace," is Chairman, and W. T. Layton, editor of the Economist, one of the Directors. It is to be edited by H. D. Henderson, Fellow of Clare College, Cambridge, and recognized as an authority on industrial problems.

It is announced that The Nation will champion the principles of the young Liberal school, which may be defined as a combination of the Liberalism of the Manchester Guardian with the views of the vigorous Cambridge school of economists. This will not, of course, be a violent change from the policy of The Nation under Mr. Massingham, but in the future it will represent the opinions not of one man but of a group, and it can hardly fail to lose something of its present individuality.

It may perhaps gain something by being in closer touch with the realities of practical politics, but a good deal of regret is expressed, even by those who had little sympathy with him, that Mr. Massingham is losing an organ for the expression of his advanced idealism.

HOPES TO AVERT NAVY STRIKE

Machinists' Union Leader Confers With Denby on Wage Reduction.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Although machinists at the Newport, R. I., torpedo station have voted to strike in protest against proposed wage reductions, W. H. Johnston, President of the International Association of Machinists, said today that the union's general officers were hopeful of averting a walkout.

Mr. Johnston put the complaint of the men today before Secretary Denby and indications were that the negotiations might be continued for several days. In the meantime machinists in the Government service will not stop work without approval of the international organization.

"We have never had an authorized strike on naval operations and don't anticipate that there will be one," Mr. Johnston said. "The situation is raised by new wage awards of the navy which result in reducing the present scale paid our members at Boston, Newport, Norfolk and Charleston. On the Pacific Coast the new scale gave some increases. In protesting to Secretary Denby today I pointed out that with the wage scales in general tending upward the Government could not afford to make reductions. Secretary Denby promised me that the matter would be given his consideration and we hope for a revision of the wage board awards."

and for th creditors and Judge Mack announced that he would hear argument in the afternoon on the application of Fuller's lawyers to have Referee Coffin's order set aside to grant an injunction to prevent the books from getting to District Attorney Banton.

When the hearing was opened in Judge Mack's chambers, Carl J. Austrian for the Trustee and Mr. Chadbourne and Mr. Smythe for the creditors, argued that Referee Coffin had a right to take the books and other Fuller documents from the Receiver and turn them over to the Trustee, and did conceal the fact that the purpose of the move was to permit the District Attorney to examine them for evidence to be used in Fuller's trial. Mr. Hays renewed his objections, and when Mr. Myers arose to reply, Judge Mack said, "There is no necessity for further argument, Mr. Myers," and then, calling his stenographer, dictated the following decision:

"I am entirely clear that the intimations of the Harris case, although not the express decision, are against any right of the bankrupt to have any limitation placed upon the possession or use of his books by the trustee, and I feel it to be my clear duty to follow these intimations rather than earlier decisions in the lower court. I may be influenced in this by my own clear conviction, a conviction of many years' standing, that there is no Constitutional right under the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to possession of property containing incriminating matter where there no longer is title in the person having possession.

"It seems to me that anybody who places incriminating statements on property which does not belong to him cannot resist the right of the owner of that property to re-obtain it, and I know of no method by which he can, as a condition to yielding up the wrongful possession, insist upon the erasures of any incriminating statements or upon some protection against the only subsequent use against him. And similarly, a man who puts incriminating statements on his own property, whether it be books or any other kind of chattels, does so with the knowledge that the title to that property may, by process of law, be taken from him; that following the loss of the title, there necessarily will follow the loss and the right of possession, and that when that time comes the retention and possession are as wrongful as if the possession had been originally wrongfully acquired. His situation then is analogous to that of a thief who puts incriminating statements on the stolen property.

Title to Bankrupt's Books Passes.

"Every person is bound to know that under the Bankruptcy act, should he become bankrupt, title to his books and papers will pass eventually to the trustee. If, with this knowledge, he makes incriminating statements on these papers, the title to which he is chargeable with knowing will pass to the trustee, he does so, in my judgment, at his peril.

"But, on broader lines than these, it seems to me that the intimations of the Supreme Court are—and I believe properly are—that the turning over of the possession of these books is not a giving of evidence within the Constitutional protection.

"In the Harris case the bankrupt resisted the limitation put upon the order requiring him to deliver possession to the receiver as not broad enough to secure him in all of his constitutional rights; and as the Supreme Court said, if he had the constitutional rights that he claimed, it was not broad enough, because it did not afford him protection against the use of the incriminating statements that might be found in his books as a basis for securing other evidence; whereas the constitutional protection of not giving incriminating testimony would protect one from furnishing testimony which would be the basis of further evidence that might be incriminating.

"I am of the opinion, therefore, that the ruling of the Referee was right; the petition to revise must be dismissed.

"Application is made to me for a stay of this order so as to furnish opportunity for appeal. If the result of my order would be to do irreparable damage pending the appeal, I should grant the stay, because in my judgment it is highly desirable that the specific question here raised be taken as promptly as possible for final determination by the Supreme Court. But I cannot see that irreparable damage is done. In the Harris case the Supreme Court refused protection against the use of the books as a basis for obtaining further information. At the present time that is the only use that could be said to damage the bankrupt, and I feel bound by the ruling of the Supreme Court so far as that use is concerned.

"As to the use of the books themselves as evidence in any criminal proceedings, whether before the Grand Jury or on the trial, if such use under the Constitution is violative of their Constitutional rights, the defendants will be able, by proper objection, eventually to secure all of the protection that they are justly entitled to in this respect. If it is not a violation of their Constitutional rights, then they cannot be damaged by it, and it is highly important, in the interest of justice, that the opportunity should be given to the State authorities, at their risk as to a subsequent overruling of their views as to the propriety of this use, that the use itself be permitted.

"Therefore the motion for a stay is denied."

As Judge Mack finished the dictation, Mr. Hays interjected, "Don't say the word 'denied,' your honor. As a last grasp I would like to ask you to defer the use of the word until tomorrow. I want to look up the law on several questions dealt with in your decision." Judge Mack smiled and said:

"The application for a stay is denied."

Expects Books This Morning.

Assistant District Attorney Myers said that he expected to receive the books from Trustee Sprague this morning, and that they would be taken at once to District Attorney Banton's office where his staff would examine them with a view to obtaining evidence needed in the Fuller trial.

J. Harold Braid, formerly a member of the brokerage firm of Braid & Vogel, was the principal witness called by Assistant District Attorney Wintner at yesterday's session of Fuller's trial. He told the jury that he was a member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange when he was introduced to Fuller on May 1, 1922, by Manager McCue of Fuller's office.

"What did Fuller say to you?" asked Mr. Wintner.

"He offered me $2 per 100 shares for the use of my name in making stock transactions," the witness answered, "the prices for the sales and purchases to be taken from the stock ticker tape and the orders to be backdated in that way. I told him that I thought $2 a hundred too little, that it should be $5, but he insisted on $2, saying it was merely a matter of bookkeeping. That was finally agreed upon."

Braid added that each week thereafter E. M. Fuller & Co. would send him a list of shares charged as bought and sold through him, and that Fuller & Co. would include a check, known as the "difference check," with the balance always in favor of Braid & Vogel. He explained to the jury that he always deposited this check to Account 9 in the bank in which Braid & Vogel kept their funds.

Another witness was Albert Biehman, who was called for E. M. Fuller & Co. He said that he was in charge of the receiving, executing and reporting of orders. Mr. Wintner asked him to reveal a conversation he had with McCue, the manager, about the middle of April, 1922, when the brokerage firm was in a flourishing financial condition.

"McCue said to me," replied Biehman, "You are not to actually execute the large orders, but to take the price from the tape and make a report to the customer, and you will be given the name of the broker through whom the transaction is to be consummated later in the day."

"McCue told me that this was not to be generally known about the office, and it was a private matter between him and me. I acted on those instructions, and from time to time various names of brokers were supplied to me, among them Braid and McKenna & King."

The trial will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

ORIGINAL DESIGNS IN GIRLS' DRESSES

A dress that has been especially planned and designed to meet the requirements of girls from 8 to 14 years is made in straight, simple lines in a light tan shade of flannel. The round neck, short sleeves and belt of this dress are prettily trimmed with green rings through which run brown ribbons.

A very smart little dress for girls from 6 to 10 years is made of flannel in an apricot shade. A contrasting flannel trimming around the neck, short sleeves and carried down the side from the neck to the hem adds to the effectiveness of this very simple model that hangs freely from the neck.

We have designed an appropriate hat to be worn with each of these dresses.

For wear on the warmer spring days and later on at fashionable summer resorts we present complete assortments of dainty washable dresses for girls.

CASTRO SAYS HE SAW POLICE TAKE $600

Cites Kittel Case.

"If I am informed correctly Magistrate Corrigan directed a man by the name Kittel, who is well known in certain circles in the city, to prefer charges against a police officer, and I am further informed he transferred the case to be heard by him in another court in the Bronx, where he will be sitting on the adjourned day. This officer is entitled to his day in court and Magistrate Corrigan should not have had this case transferred to another court where he will be sitting, and in all fairness to the police officer should not hear this case. When this case comes up before Magistrate Corrigan ask that it be transferred back to the court from where it was transferred so that some other magistrate can hear same who cannot be charged with bias. If this is refused by Magistrate Corrigan then waive examination so that the case may go before some other tribunal."

Magistrate Corrigan said yesterday that he had asked the New York Telephone Company to investigate to determine whether his telephone wire at his home, 3 East Tenth Street, had been tapped. "A number of my friends," he said, "informed me last night when they called up on the telephone that the connection did not sound right and they believed that my wire had been tapped. They took the matter so seriously that I placed some credence in their beliefs and asked for an investigation."

Asked whether he would present any more information to Commissioner Hirshfield, Magistrate Corrigan said: "The letter that Commissioner Hirshfield wrote me is not the kind to require any answer. I have not said I do not intend to answer it. But if the Commissioner is really anxious to have more information I can suggest one or two more lines along which he can pursue his investigation if he wants to.

"He might try to find out why the police make such a marked difference between hotels on the one hand and restaurants and cabarets on the other in the enforcement of the Mullan-Gage law. In restaurants policemen go around watching the guests, who are mostly New York people, to see whether they are breaking the law. In the hotels, where these who break the law are chiefly from out of town, there are no policemen. He might find out why this is."

When the Commissioner began his hearing yesterday he announced that he intended to "go to the bottom" of the charges made by Mrs. Castro. He said that two persons had volunteered as witnesses—Mrs. Campbell and a man named Stone, who did not appear. Mrs. Campbell was then placed on the stand.

She testified that she had done volunteer work for various animal societies and that she had brought many cases into Magistrates' Courts. Magistrate Corrigan, she said, had always treated her with "the greatest discourtesy in every way." In every one of the cases of cruelty to animals that she had presented to Magistrate Corrigan, she said, fines or imprisonment should have resulted. Instead, she asserted, he dismissed them all. Asked why Magistrate Corrigan should have treated her in the way she described, she said: "Because he is a woman hater."

"I am very much obliged to you for coming here and telling me this," said Commissioner Hirshfield at the conclusion of her testimony. "I hope that other patriotic citizens will do the same."

CUVILLIER AFTER HIRSHFIELD.

Calls for Inquiry With a View to Abolishing Commissioner's Job.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 19.—Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, author of the bill to investigate the effect of the Mullan-Gage law and its enforcement by police departments, public prosecutors and other peace officers throughout the State, offered an amendment to this measure in the lower house today which would include within the scope of the proposed investigation whether the office of Commissioner of Accounts in New York City should remain, or be scrapped. He said the farcical and undignified official conduct of Commissioner of Accounts David Hirschfield had prompted him to amend his bill.

Mr. Cuvillier has received invitations from five Grand Juries in New York City to tell what he knows about systematic bootlegging carried on by the Police Department. He said tonight that he would ignore them all. He added that a wealth of material had come to him in letters from all sorts and conditions of men who had been subjected to oppression by the New York police.

PHILADELPHIA GIVES BANDITS LONG TERMS

Buffalo Man and an Accomplice Are Sentenced to 35 and 20 Years Maximum, Respectively.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 19.—The wave of hold-ups in Philadelphia in which unemployed young men have been going around in stolen automobiles and robbing individuals, stores and paymasters, with frequent shootings, was reflected in the Criminal Court today when Judge Monaghan sentenced James L. West of Buffalo, N. Y., to from 26 years 6 months to 35 years in the penitentiary. Frank Martskey of this city, convicted with West of four robberies, was sentenced to from 12 years 6 months to 20 years.

The pair were arrested for holding up the manager of a chain cigar store. They pleaded guilty. They were placed on trial for three other robberies and convicted.

While they were being tried the police announced they had received confessions from a number of men under arrest here and in Atlantic City for holding up and killing John C. Emgable, Vice President of a contracting company, while he was returning from a bank with a payroll of $2,500 here last Friday.

Lord & Taylor

FIFTH AVENUE

TELEPHONE FITZROY 1900

There is no mistaking the preference of this season's fashions for the straight silhouette. Sketched below are three distinct types that testify to its vogue—coat, suit and frock—each sketching a slim outline in its own way.

Misses' Frocks $59.50

Sponsor the Vanishing Sleeve

Misses' Twill Coats $49.50

New Jacquettes $35—Made of fascinating Rodier fabric, tying with a ribbon sash. Other jacquettes in embroidered silk, $49.50 and $59.50

Strictly Tailored and Braid Trimmed

One of the definite style notes seen on the Avenue these spring days is the two-piece suit of very simple line—sketched above center—depending for its smartness upon perfect cut and tasteful choice of its only trimming, a binding of braid.

Navy blue, black, tan. Tying over the hip with a crepe de Chine bow. Other two-piece twill suits, $49.50 to $195

THIRD FLOOR

Paris Sends Novelties

Gorgeous stones with names suggesting Arabian Night tales are here from Paris in necklaces, pendants and earrings, all marvellously cut and mounted. One necklace of uncanny fascination is black coral, each bead studded with silver; another is of crystal interspersed with lapis. For luck the Parisienne wears jewelry made from elephant's hair, cunningly wrought with gold and mounted with semi-precious stones.

Feather fans show a riot of color—coque, coque and ostrich or a new combination, goose and ostrich. Spangled fans, fans of sandal wood, carved and delicately painted.

Women's Coats $65

Fashion Twill on Slender Lines

Sketched above is one of our newest styles of women's twill coats. A long slim model, whose length and slimness are accentuated by the clever stitching under the arms. Aside from the stitching, the graceful crush collar and long flat panels from the pockets, its straight unbroken line is quite unadorned. Tan, navy blue and black, silk lined throughout. Other women's twill coats, $59.50 to $125

New Blouse and Skirt of Linen

Overblouses appear here in their newest and most spring-like version, developed of handkerchief linen in delicate shades of blue, green, orchid, maize, as well as white. Two equally charming styles, one with Peter Pan collar and embroidered motif on collar and blouse, the other with long collar and smart cuff of white embroidered linen, $6.95

White Linen Skirts—Plaited with a fairly wide plait, to launder easily, and made on soft belts to fit snugly and comfortably around the hips—to complete a practical costume for sports wear, $9.75

THIRD FLOOR

The Correct Hat $18.50

For the Mature Woman

The hat of unfailing correctness—simple in line and in trimming—the hat for women who prefer one type, with slight variations, to the constant shifting of each season's new fashions. Such is the hat sketched, representative of a large assortment in our Millinery Department.

Wreaths of flowers in restrained colorings, wings and feathers are the trimmings used on these hats, most of them small, some rolling slightly from the face, others with straight brims.

FOURTH FLOOR

Wrap-Around Corsets $6.95

A panel back, straight and flat, conforms to the slim silhouette of the season. Two sections of heavy surgical elastic set in the side and an excellent quality of silk broche and binding of satin ribbon. Reasons why this wrap-around is a favorite.

A Silk Bandeau 95c—Made of a soft yet durable silk with an elastic inset in the back where the bandeau hooks. An excellent value.

SECOND FLOOR

Marabou Boas $10.95

Lovely and becoming, proportioned like a fox scarf but lighter in weight. The flowing ends of self color crepe de Chine give a touch of swirling grace to one's costume. Colors, natural grey, taupe, castor and black. And the vogue for soft scarves extends to ostrich boas as well. These are deep and softly curled. Grey, taupe, navy, tan, black and black and white mixtures, $5.95

Smart Duplex Gloves

These gloves, from the best known manufacturers, have the splendid wearing qualities of the famous duplex fabric; the cut and stitching resembles that of the best leather gloves; and, indeed, they are quite as soft and pliable as suede or chamois. Our display embraces the newest spring colors in short, slip-on and twelve button length, and the popular strap gauntlet. $1 to $3.75

Step First Up the Avenue

At the Ritz and Pierre's or at Shetry's, you see many colored kid shoes these days and the color you see most is red—the style, the sandal with cut-outs and low heel such as that sketched below. Twill suits and frocks find no more charming note of color than this. Kid sandals are also shown in blue and green.

15 ON TRIAL IN CAIRO FOR MANY OUTRAGES

COVER PERIOD OF 15 MONTHS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 19.—A sensational case involving the murders and attempted murders of several Englishmen and others in Egypt during the last fifteen months began this morning, being resumed from April 5, when the case was formerly opened. There are fifteen accused, all Egyptians. They are being tried by a British military court.

At the opening of the prosecution's case this morning the prosecutor told a lurid story of desperate crimes committed in cold blood among British soldiers and British officials, apparently at random, though, in a few instances, the victims were deliberately selected.

The thread of the story runs intermittently through the years since the spring of 1919, when Egypt was in revolt against the British.

A Sheik from the great Moslem University at Cairo was induced from a ferocity still intense to join a society whose avowed object was the murder of Englishmen. A boy induced his companions to join him in an adventure, and as probationers they were appointed as spies in an office of the Liberal Party. A few months later they were instructed to murder the Liberal Party's Secretary. They took a bomb and went to his house, but their nerve failed at the last moment and the attempt was not made. But a little later a bomb, believed to be the same, was thrown at an anti-Egyptian Pasha by a man believed to be one of those who went to the Liberal Secretary's house to assassinate him.

That boy was in the dock this morning. He is still a youngster and his face seemed too weak to stamp him as an international desperado.

In 1920 the authorities arrested numerous Egyptians alleged to be members of a vengeance society. Most of them were condemned to lengthy terms. Three of the accused in today's case are alleged to have sworn vengeance on the four Sheiks whose evidence helped to condemn the members of the vengeance society.

The prosecutor related how witnesses would come to say how the three accused invited the quartet of Sheiks to tea and put poison in the beverage. But evidently the dose was too small, as the victims after severe illness recovered.

On the same day as the poison was put in the Sheiks' tea two of the accused are alleged to have gone man hunting and to have shot a man. This was on Nov. 30, 1920, and the murder gang retired to obscurity. But early in 1922 they were ready, with their plans well advanced, and the society's membership increased.

The prosecutor stated that witnesses would come to say how on Feb. 18, 1922, two of the accused shot Aldred Brown in the centre of Cairo. How on March 11, 1922, after a warning they attempted to murder an official. How on April 16, 1922, three of the accused took a stand at the Cairo Station square ready to shoot any British soldiers who came along. How they shot two British soldiers. How on May 24 one of the accused murdered a high British officer in Egyptian police in cold blood. How on May 27, 1922, three of them dashed an Egyptian to death in cold blood with an iron bar because they believed he had warned one of their victims. How on July 15, 1922, three of them attempted to murder Lieutenant Colonel Piggott from ambush. How on August 12, 1922, five of them attempted to murder a British official in the Ministry of Agriculture and murdered him in his room by a volley from ambush.

The prosecutor's case was not finished when the court rose today. The case is arousing much interest among all communities, as the outrages of which these Egyptians are accused had been a sensational feature of Egyptian life since early in 1922, and the fact that the assailants always escaped left the British community, particularly, in fear of sudden death from invisible assailants.

MOREHOUSE KLANSMEN SURRENDER TO SHERIFF

Dr. McKoin Remains in Baltimore—Complaints Made of Hooded Prowlers.

BASTROP, La., April 19 (Associated Press).—All but six of the Morehouse Parish citizens named in bills of information filed here yesterday by District Attorney Garrett, as a result of the operations of hooded bands last year, surrendered to Sheriff Carpenter today and furnished bonds in the nominal sums required.

Those who did not give themselves up were Dr. B. M. McKoin, now in Baltimore; Ed Ivy, travelling out of Natchez, Miss.; Laurie Calhoun, who is near Brownsville, Texas, and three known only as Cox, McIntosh and Eldridge. As the Clerk of Court is not certain which men are wanted, there being many of those names in the parish, he has not issued warrants.

No plans for trial of the defendants have been made, but it is believed the cases will be called at the next term of the District Court in October.

Among those who surrendered were Captain J. K. Skipwith, Exalted Cyclops of the Morehouse Ku Klux Klan, and his son, Smith Stevenson, Fred Higginbotham and Newt Gray.

District Attorney Garrett is investigating complains made by the Bastrop Pulp and Paper Company that hooded men have been prowling about the company premises at Bastrop and that workmen have been intimidated. One report was that a man in a hood and mask with a shotgun over his shoulder had been prowling about the plant for several nights. The Morehouse Ku Klux Klan has offered a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons wearing the regalia of the organization found trespassing.

MURPHY DISPUTES HARTOG TESTIMONY

Testifies That Glucose Promoter Asked for Money, Not Influence.

CAUSES LAUGH IN COURT

Recalls Washington Was Then Democratic, but Adds "It Wasn't to Me, Though."

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, denied yesterday that Louis M. Hartog, whom he is suing to recover $175,000 invested in a war-time glucose transaction, had told him that he did not want Mr. Murphy to advance any money, but only wanted his influence to get a supply of glucose. "Why no," Mr. Murphy replied, when asked if Mr. Hartog sought his influence when introduced by James J. Hines, a Tammany Assembly district leader; "he wanted money."

Mr. Murphy, who was called as a witness in rebuttal at the trial of his suit before Justice Vernon M. Davis and a jury in Supreme Court, denied much of the testimony of Mr. Hartog. As on his first appearance on the stand on Tuesday, he was an imperturbable witness, and this time caused several laughs by his repartee of the thrusts of Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mr. Hartog, in cross-examination.

Asked by Mr. Steuer if he had known that Arthur J. Baldwin, his personal attorney, was going to Washington to see officials of the Food Administration soon after Mr. Hartog had approached him, Mr. Murphy replied that he thought Mr. Baldwin had told him.

"Did he tell you that he had arranged for a supply of glucose when he returned?" Mr. Steuer asked.

"No, I don't think he told me anything about it when he returned," Mr. Murphy said.

Murphy Feigns Forgetfulness.

"The Administration to Washington was Democratic in 1918, wasn't it?" asked Mr. Steuer.

"Was it?" Mr. Murphy countered, as though surprised. "Perhaps it was." the Tammany leader continued after a general titter had died down in the courtroom. "It wasn't to me though. I didn't get much out of it."

"Well," replied Mr. Murphy slowly, "they called it that."

Mr. Murphy admitted that there were many Democratic Congressmen in Washington at the time and that he had many friends among them.

Questioned concerning Mr. Hartog's testimony, Mr. Murphy denied that he had told either Mr. Baldwin or Mr. Hartog that he had brought about the appointment of the receivers of the building in East Twenty-second Street acquired by Hartog's company or that Mr. Baldwin had suggested in the presence of Mr. Hartog that income tax legislation would take 90 per cent. of the prospective profits of the glucose transaction.

He denied that Mr. Baldwin had told him he was receiving a commission on glucose from Mr. Hartog, as testified by Baldwin. "I never said that to Mr. Baldwin," Mr. Murphy said in contradiction to the testimony of his personal attorney, when a part of the latter's testimony was read to him. "I don't know where Mr. Baldwin got that."

Mr. Murphy denied that he had told John A. McCarthy to go into business with Hartog, after he had decided to withdraw because Hartog's business was making too much money, and said that he had left the details of his withdrawal from the business entirely with Mr. Baldwin.

Mr. Murphy was the last witness, and adjournment was taken until today, when the opposing attorneys will sum up and the case will go to the jury.

Deny Hartog Testimony.

Before Mr. Murphy's testimony both Mr. Baldwin and Mr. McCarthy denied parts of Mr. Hartog's testimony. Mr. Baldwin denied that Mr. Murphy had suggested that he get in touch with Morgan J. O'Brien for the purpose of forming a contract with officials of the Corn Products Company, from which Hartog wished to obtain more glucose. He denied that Mr. Murphy had said that he had brought about the appointment of the receivers of the East Twenty-second Street buildings.

Mr. Baldwin denied, with particular emphasis Mr. Hartog's assertion that he had said that the Corn Products Company had sought to have Mr. Murphy use his influence to obtain certain favors. Cross-examined by Mr. Steuer, Mr. Baldwin admitted that he had had some talk with Mr. Hartog about the Staten Island garbage disposal plant, in which Hartog said Baldwin told him the Corn Products people were interested and wanted to save. Mr. Baldwin said that he had not mentioned the Corn Products Company to Mr. Bedford, its President, in this connection. Mr. Baldwin explained a seeming discrepancy between his testimony at this trial and that before the Grand Jury by saying that he had subsequently corrected his Grand Jury testimony by saying that a talk he had about the Staten Island garbage disposal plant was with the receiver for the plant and not with Mr. Bedford. He said that Mr. Bedford was one of the principal holders of bonds o fthe garbage plant.

Mr. Baldwin again denied that he had written the initials "J. A. Mc.," supposed to stand for John H. McCarthy, on a memorandum of agreement, under which "J. A. Mc." was to take a share in Hartog's business, identical with that owned by Murphy.

McCarthy denied that he had criticised the contract Mr. Baldwin had drawn, particularly calling for the investment of money by Mr. Murphy, and had said to Mr. Baldwin, "Well, you've certainly made a mess of things."

James J. Hines testified that, although a Director of the corporation which Baldwin and Hartog organized under the name of the North Kensington Refinery, he had never attended any meetings. He said he had signed a notice of an increase of capital stock, but could remember no details.

FUAD SIGNS CONSTITUTION.

Egyptian Had Previously Held Out for Absolute Power.

CAIRO, April 19.—The difficulties over the Egyptian Constitution have been settled and King Fuad tonight signed the Constitution. It already had been approved by the Egyptian Cabinet and meets with the British objection to the inclusion of the Sudan in Egypt.

A Cairo dispatch last Tuesday said that, in consequence of King Fuad's insistence on the inclusion in the draft of the Constitution of clauses making him virtually an absolute monarch, the relations between him and his Cabinet were rapidly approaching a crisis. King Fuad, the dispatch added, apparently aimed at becoming temporal and spiritual head of the country. It was declared that the newspapers spoke openly of a revolt in event of the King having his own way.

Smith Respites Two Murderers.

ALBANY, April 19.—Thomas H. Kindlen and Thomas Lester of this city, awaiting the death sentence at Sing Sing for the murder of Charles Juknos, a confectioner, in November, 1921, today received a respite from Governor Smith. A third defendant, Floyd H. Mann, will be placed on trial Monday for alleged share in the slaying. The Governor, according to his usual custom, granted the respites until the cases of all the defendants should have been decided.

CUBA PLANTER FILES $500,000 LOVE SUIT

LAWYER IS SUING COUPLE

Declares He Loaned Them $50,000 and That They Squandered the Money.

Warren McConihe, lawyer, of 522 Fifth Avenue, who lives at 309 Park Avenue, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday for $500,000 by Julio Sorzano de Jorrin, sugar planter of Havana, for alienating the affections of Mrs. de Jorrin, daughter of Robert W. Foster of St. Louis, Circuit Judge there from 1902 to 1909. Mrs. de Jorrin is now in Paris.

Mr. McConihe obtained an order from Justice O'Malley yesterday to compel de Jorrin to file a bond of $250 for costs on the ground that he is a resident of Cuba. In asking for the bond Mr. McConihe said he had an unsatisfied judgment for more than $50,000 against de Jorrin and his wife, and that he had tried to collect it without success. "The plaintiff told me some years ago," said Mr. McConihe in his petition, "that he resided in Havana, was not a citizen of the United States and never would be." Mr. McConihe added that he had "a good and valid defense upon the merits to this cause of action."

Mr. McConihe made public at his office last night a copy of the complaint, which states that de Jorrin and Miss Foster were married at Newport, R. I., Nov. 23, 1915, and until May, 1919, were living happily together as man and wife. De Jorrin says that between March and May, 1919, "the defendant, knowing these facts, maliciously planned and undertook to alienate the affections of plaintiff's wife."

Th lawyer said last night that he did not believe either de Jorrin or his wife would come to this country to prosecute the suit. If they do, he said, they will be served with orders of arrest signed a year ago by Supreme Court Justice Whitaker adjudging them in contempt for failing to testify before trial in the Supreme Court in the suits brought against them by Mr. McConihe to recover money alleged to have been obtained by fraud and misrepresentations. Another action is pending against the de Jorrins, he said, but he would not disclose the details.

In one suit Mr. McConihe asked for $3,233 advanced to Mme. de Jorrin and in the other he sued the husband and wife for $40,000 obtained from him in the Spring of 1919.

When the Jorrins were married the husband was 38 years old and his wife was 26. Mr. McConihe said that Mme. Jorrin told him her husband was in "dire financial straits," and needed $43,000 to prevent his sugar plantations from being taken from his in foreclosure proceedings. The lawyer says that de Jorrin after receiving the $40,000 "had bought expensive fighting cocks, was playing the races for large sums, and was gambling recklessly."

FIVE BURNED TO DEATH IN LYNN APARTMENTS

Some Tenants, Cut Off by Smoke, Jump From Windows —Building Destroyed.

LYNN, Mass., April 19.—Five persons were killed in a fire which destroyed the Essex Castle, a five-story brick apartment house on Ellis Street, in the centre of the city, early today. Many occupants sustained burns and other injuries. The known dead are Frank Tozier, George Philpot, Mrs. Antoinette Hanlon, Miss Margaret J. Nutter and Harry Fairchild.

The fire started on one of the lower floors and almost immediately the interior of the building burst into flames. The 150 persons living in the 49 suites were quickly aroused, some by the crackling of the flames and some by the warning cries of other occupants. A few were able to make their way down the stairways before these were cut off by fire and smoke, many jumped from windows and others were taken down ladders by the firemen.

BELLEVUE AS TEACHER.

Dr. McGrath Wants to Make It Greatest Medical Centre.

Speaking at a dinner in his honor last night at the Hotel Commodore, at which there were more than 800 guests, Dr. John J. McGrath, the new President of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, predicted that Bellevue would develop into the greatest medical teaching centre in the world.

Dr. McGrath said that Bellevue was the oldest hospital in the United States and had its origin in an alms house established in 1658 when the city had a population of 1,000. This institution was located in the vicinity of Broad and Beaver Streets.

A larger building, finished in 1796, was erected on the north side of Chambers Street. In these early days the struggling city was visited almost annually by an epidemic of yellow fever and the hospital was largely employed as a pest-house.

"In 1794 a site was acquired for isolation of yellow fever patients. This comprised a portion of Kip's Bay Farm, about six acres. The building standing upon this plot was the first to be called Bellevue Hospital. A new almshouse, which served as a penitentiary and workhouse as well, erected upon this site and first occupied in April, 1816, was the present Bellevue Hospital and contained two hospital pavilions.

"We have a daily census in the Bellevue system of 3,000 to 4,000 patients occupying beds in the hospitals. There is a daily average attendance of 2,000 to 3,000 in the out-patient departments of these hospitals. A multitude of 2,000 to 3,000 anxious relatives and friends visit the sick in the wards of the hospitals daily.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 19.—A message from Palestine states that the Palestine Government has decided to prosecute a number of Arabs accused of attempting to incite the people to boycott the elections.

The message adds that the decision has had a sequel in a resolution by the Nationalist Party to boycott "this non-representative Parliament which the Government is trying to foist upon us."

Undertakers Strike in France.

PARIS, April 19.—The French Undertakers' Union has called a general strike throughout the country to support the wage demands of its members in the Paris suburbs, who for the past month have sought an increase of 5 francs a day. The City of Paris is not affected by the strike order, inasmuch as undertaking here is a municipal monopoly.

Bilbo's Term in Jail Is Reduced.

OXFORD, Miss., April 19.—Judge Edwin R. Holmes has reduced to ten days the thirty-day jail sentence imposed on Theodore G. Bilbo, former Governor of Mississippi, for contempt of court. The Judge also eliminated the $100 fine which he had imposed.

IT seems to be universally accepted that It Costs Money to be Fashionable.

Yet it is noticeable how many women who patronize Oppenheim, Collins & Co. contrive both To Keep Within Their Means and Still Keep in Step With Style.

THOUGHT

SAID an important man to a friend: "How do you account for the fact that The American Magazine has increased in circulation from 400,000 to more than 1,900,000?"

Said the friend:

"It grows because it provokes thought. I find myself in each number, my problems, my obstacles, my plans. Invariably there is something by which I can strengthen and test my own thinking."

Here is an example of what this man had in mind. In the May number, now on sale, one of the foremost executives in America gives these six tests which he applies in his measurement of men:

1. Do you do little things well?

No man can be more damaging in an office than a would-be executive who, in his reach for larger things, despises and neglects the smaller responsibilities confided to his care.

2. Have you learned the meaning of order as to time and place?

Napoleon fought his earlier and most brilliant battles against forces far superior to his own. But he always arrived a little before the opposing generals expected him.

3. Do you do first things first?

Work is constantly delayed because some well-meaning person is busy on Operation Number 20, when he should have started and finished Number 1.

4. How do you use your leisure?

"If I can know what a man does on trains," says this executive, "and in the free hours of his evenings, I can give a pretty good guess as to where he is going and how likely he is to arrive."

5. Have you intensity?

Unless every man you go to see is stirred, even if only a little, by the energy and magnetism you bring into his office, it is doubtful if you will create much of a stir in any position you want to fill.

6. Do you take advantage of momentum?

Suppose you win a little recognition, a little success. Then is the crucial time. There are moments when a month is worth a decade—if a man who has been pushing hard knows how to push a little harder.

THERE ARE more than twenty-five other features in this May number; H. G. Wells is here and Mary Pickford; Gelett Burgess and Dr. Frank Crane.

But the six tests which are reprinted above represent something which you and I and all the 1,900,000 buyers of The American Magazine can look for in every number and never fail to find.

It is the stimulus, the interest and the power, the mighty and uncommon advantage, that we gain from looking deep into the minds of people who have lived well.

Have you noticed the ever upward trend of men's clothing prices toward the epochal figures reached during the recent war days? We are speaking of pure woolen garments, of course. One reason, to be sure, is the increase in woolen prices, but this by no means justifies a repetition of war day prices.

That this is true, we call your attention to our prices. A material point admittedly is the fact that we are manufacturers—saving you the profit the retail dealer would have to add to our prices. Still another is our very low overhead expense—maintaining only our regular upstairs factory quarters as a salesroom instead of the customarily expensive ground floor showroom.

But above all this, we believe in giving the public an absolutely square deal—have fought out and won on this issue against the bitterest opposition, as you will recall—and now the least we can ask is your co-operation—encouragement in a cause that is your fight to maintain normalcy in clothing prices as much as ours—even more so!

YANKS ON RAMPAGE, DEFEAT SOX EASILY

BUSH GETS FINE SUPPORT

Allows Only Six Hits Despite Lack of Control—Ferguson Is Driven From Mound.

The Yankees smashed into the Red Sox at full speed in one inning yesterday, scored seven runs and won their second straight game of the still youthful season in the still youthful stadium on the banks of the Harlem. The score was 8 to 2.

If the Giants hadn't made the Yankees clear out of the Polo Grounds and if the Yanks hadn't built a park of their own and if the left field in said park weren't so long and spacious, Babe Ruth would have had another homer yesterday. All these "ifs" kept the slugger away from a homer, and he had to be content with a mere three-bagger, which started a lot of trouble, but won't look nearly as imposing in the official records.

The Babe's drive in the sixth inning would have landed in the left field seats at the Polo Grounds. But it happened to be aimed at the point where the length, and all the ball did was to land on the cinder running track and then bound away to the edge of the bleachers. Before Joe Harris overtook the pill, Ruth had done some noble legging around the bases, but he got no further than third. In most parks that would have been recorded as a full-fledged homer.

However, as said before, the swat did plenty of damage. It started the Yanks off on a gorgeous seven-run rally which decided the ball game. Before the rain of base hits had ended Alex Ferguson, the Boston pitcher, was far away from the mound, and George Murray was in there trying to do his stuff under difficulties.

Crowd of 10,000 at Game.

Ten thousand people came up to look at the new stadium and they were completely swallowed up in the depths of the big stand. Looking at the crowd and then at the wide expanse of vacant seats, you might have guessed that 3,000 or 4,000 were there.

All the clamor and color of opening day were only memories yesterday. The umpires had to throw out the first ball themselves. The American flag was pulled up by as humble a personage as the groundkeeper, and there was no band to play the national anthem while the flag was going up. The only parade was the one that the Yanks staged around the bases in the sixth.

But it was quite a procession at that. Ruth headed the line of march by blasting his triple out to the track in deep left. There was a ball which was hit as fully as hard as the Babe's historical homer on Wednesday. It rose rapidly, winged along like a frightened bird and sailed away over Harris's head, although the Boston left fielder was playing deep back at the edge of the track. After hitting the cinders the ball rolled on and on, and Harris recovered it nearly under the shadow of the bleachers.

The Yanks took this as a signal that there was something doing. Pipp rolled softly to McMillan, but was safe when "Silent Mack" fumbled the ball. Ruth wisely held his base and scored when Meusel lofted a short single into right. Schang balked for a gunfire for a moment by striking out, but Ward lined a hefty drive to right which Collins broke down and held to a single, each of the runners advancing a base.

Scott's Single Scores Two.

With the sacks full Scott singled over second, scoring Pipp and Meusel. Bush hit to centre, and Ward came home, while Ferguson strolled off the mound at the beck and call of Peerless Leader Frank Chance. On came George Murray, who walked Wilie Pipp, filling the bases. Dugan's pop to McMillan cleared the air for the Bostonians, but Murray was afraid of Ruth and passed him by, forcing Scott over the plate. Pipp battered a hot one straight through Murray's feet, and two more runs pattered across. Meusel, the twelfth batter of the inning, ended it all by rolling to McMillan.

Chance gave the Yanks a dose of ex-Yankee pitching. He started Ferguson and then rushed Murray to the rescue. After Reichle had hit for Smiling George in the eighth, our old friend Lefty O'Doul wheeled onto the hill and threw his southpaw slants at the Hugmen. It was a very clubby getting all the Yanks and the little ex-Yanks together. Seven of the twelve Boston athletes once drew their salaries from Ruppert and Huston. But you can hardly blame Chance for that. Everywhere he looks the place is entirely cluttered up with Yankee discards.

As far as that goes, it was a former Bostonian, Joe Bush, who did the pitching for the Yanks, and he did it neatly and smoothly. Joe was a little shy on control and got into one or two jams, but good support and his own fine pitching pulled him out. He allowed only six hits and wasn't scored on except in the seventh and ninth.

A double steal gave the Sox their first tally in the seventh. Joe Harris singled to centre as a starter, and Burns did the same to left. As McMillan fanned, Harris stole third and Burns second, the former scoring when Shanks grounded out to Pipp. Devormer's pop to Ward left Burns stranded on third.

Sox Get Run in Ninth.

The second run was a gift. Skinner began the ninth with a single to centre. He stole second without the Yanks molesting him and moved along to third after Harris had hoisted to Ward. When Burns prodded a hit between Dugan and Scott, Skinner scored, and then Shanks struck out to end the game.

A couple of Boston errors gave the Hugmen a one-run start in the fourth. Dugan singled and Ruth walked, but when Pipp tried to sacrifice, Devormer snatched up the pill and caught Dugan at third. Flushed with this signal success, Devormer tried to slay Pipp while the latter was enjoying a quiet little doze in the neighborhood of first base. Unfortunately, George Burns muffed the throw just as he was leaping in for the execution, and Ruth sprinted to third on the error. Seeing the ball still rolling, the Bambino hastened home and would have been out by yards if Devormer hadn't dropped the ball in all the excitement.

Ruth had a perfect batting average until he stepped to the plate in the ninth and rolled tenderly to O'Doul. Previous to that the slugger had pounded out a single and a triple and drawn two passes. His single was a line drive that would have smoked and sizzled if it hadn't been such a chilly day. The Babe got tremendous ovations every time he came up, and if he had only hit a homer with the bases full in the sixth, everything would have been forgiven.

CLEVELAND, April 19.—Although Cleveland made eight errors this afternoon, it won from Chicago again, 6 to 5, the game going eleven innings. A single by Myatt and doubles by Pinch-Hitter Gardner and Jamieson sent across the tying and winning runs. Leverette of Chicago was hit much harder than the Cleveland pitchers.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—Philadelphia made it two straight from Washington here, today, winning, 4 to 2.

Caught at the Plate.

The Yankees fielded well, but by far the best play was Dugan's stop and throw on Fewster's grounder in the third. Shanks, on third at the time, hastened for the plate at full speed, but Jumping Joey threw with both feet off the ground and made a beautiful toss to Schang.

You've read all about the first single, first run and other "firsts" in the new stadium, but the first "boner" goes to Bob Meusel. Robert doubled handsomely to left in the second but overlooked the trifling formality of touching first base and was declared null and void when Fewster called attention to the oversight.

The consensus of opinion was that Dugan is not the worst third baseman in the league.

Waite Hoyt is due to pitch today.

Up to the sixth inning Devormer had the only two hits off Bush. Bullet Joe was no mean clouter himself. He smacked out three singles in four tries.

Everett Scott had an excellent chance to rest his weary limbs and his delicate ankle. He had only one chance in the field. Yesterday's game was No. 989 in the world's greatest string.

So far the Yankee pitching has been nothing to complain of. Nine hits and three runs for the enemy in two games is something in these days of baseball.

GIANTS VICTORIOUS IN TWO CONTESTS

BLUME SHOWS GOOD FORM

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 19.—Patriots' Day passed off very pleasantly for the Giants, who defeated the Braves this morning and again this afternoon. The score of both games was 4 to 3. The afternoon game, which drew to Braves Field the largest baseball crowd it has seen in years, was a real thriller, the champions finally defeating Rube Marquard, who started very much as though he were going to humble them. In this game Jess Barnes faced the Braves at the outset, but was taken out in the second inning, Clinton Blume succeeding him and keeping the Braves in check for the remainder of the afternoon. A home run by Irish Meusel was the feature of the Giants' assault on Marquard.

Art Nehf started the morning game for the champions, pitching against Larry Benton, who was sent to Boston by the Giants last summer in the deal for Hughie McQuillan. Nehf demonstrated that he still is off form, for, after starting brilliantly, he tired rapidly, losing a two-run lead which his mates had grabbed for him. However, the Giants battled gamely and came from behind in the ninth inning, scoring two runs and winning the game.

Barnes began the Braves' half of the second inning of the afternoon game by walking Bagwell, after which Conlon singled to centre. Groh made a wide peg to Kelly on Ford's grounder and the bases were loaded. Barnes then walked Gowdy, forcing Bagwell over the plate, and McGraw promptly withdrew him. Blume then threw Marquard out on a twisting hopper down the first-base line, Conlon scoring. Powell hit to Frisch, who threw Ford out at the plate. Powell, rounding first base, was doubled up before he could get back, Snyder making a snap throw to Kelly.

Braves Score in Fifth.

The Braves made a run in the fifth inning, and in the same inning the Giants executed a freak double play, in the making of which they received some aid in the way of stupid base running by the Braves. Powell walked and Southworth reached first base on a fumble by Bancroft. Boeckel singled to left, Powell scoring and Southworth stopping at second. McInnis filed to Meusel and Boeckel doubled to the right field bleachers. Southworth hesitated at second, fearing that the ball would be caught, and then started for the plate with Boeckel rapidly overtaking him. Young threw to Frisch, who relayed the ball to Snyder as the two Braves came charging down the third base line only a few feet apart. Snyder tagged Southworth, stepped back, lunged forward again and tagged Boeckel.

The Giants fell upon Marquard heavily in the sixth inning and tied the score. Frisch led off by beating out a bunt which he dragged down the first base line, and Meusel hit to the fence in right centre for a home run. Young followed with a drive to the same territory for three bases. Young remained at the far corner when Kelly was thrown out by Boeckel, but scored when Cunningham singled to right.

The game was won by the Giants in the ninth. Cunningham opened with a single to centre and Snyder's out put him on second. He went to third when McInnis fumbled Blume's grounder, and scored on Bancroft's sacrifice fly to Southworth.

In the morning game Benton held the Giants off for the five innings, allowing only two hits in that time, but in the sixth the Giants scored two runs. Frisch singled to left and Meusel tripled to right, Frisch scoring. Young grounded to McInnis, Meusel remaining at third, and Kelly walked. Meusel did not try to score on O'Connell's line drive to Southworth, but romped home when Gaston singled to left.

Bancroft's Error Costly.

Nehf, who didn't allow a hit for four innings, yielded two in the Braves' half of the fifth, another in the sixth and one more in the seventh, but kept out of trouble. In the eighth an error by Bancroft started him reeling and the Braves gathered three runs and took the lead. Bancroft fumbled a grounder by Nixon, who batted for Ford. O'Neil hit to Frisch, who also fumbled. Frank recovered in time to force Nixon, but Groh got a double play, batting Boeckel Benton, walked and Gibson ran for him. Powell singled to centre, scoring O'Neil and sending Gibson to third. Southworth forced Powell, Groh to Frisch, Gibson clinging to third. Boeckel brought Gibson in with a run to centre. McInnis singled to left, scoring Southworth, but Boeckel was nailed at the plate on Groh's relay of Meusel's throw to Gaston.

Trailing by one run when they went to bat against Genewich in the ninth, the Giants lost no time going to the front again. Earl Smith batted for Nehf and singled to right. He then withdrew to let Shinners run for him. Bancroft also singled to right and Genewich was replaced by Cooney. Groh tried to sacrifice, but raised a pop foul over the third base line which Cooney caught. Frisch smashed the ball at Boeckel, who almost sliced off his head in a vain attempt to knock it down and get the batter. With the bases filled Cooney let go a wild pitch on which Shinners scored. Conlon then threw out Meusel, but Bancroft scored on the play.

Heavy Demand for Tickets To Giants' Opener Thursday

Tickets for reserved seats and boxes for the Giants' first home game of the season with the Boston Braves at the Polo Grounds next Thursday were placed on sale for the first time yesterday. Officials of the club have announced that the demand for tickets has been unusually heavy. Quite a few of the pasteboards were disposed of yesterday, but many are still obtainable. The tickets can be obtained at the headquarters of the club at 15 West Forty-fourth Street. The Polo Grounds will have seating accommodations for 45,000 fans next Thursday, and it is expected that one of the largest crowds that have ever seen the Giants open their home season will be on hand. The champions will make their first appearance in a regular game in this city this season when they play the Robins at Ebbets Field tomorrow. All of the reserved seats for Sunday's game at the Brooklyn park have already been sold.

BEARS AGAIN LOSE TO ROCHESTER CLUB

Make Good Start, but Are Beaten by 13 to 3—Fist Fight Marks Contest.

NEWARK, N. J., April 19.—The Newark Bears lost a slugging match here this afternoon to the Rochester club by 13 to 3. It was the second game of the series and the second defeat for the home club.

The Bears started off well by scoring once in the first after holding Rochester scoreless. Altenberg walked, went to second on Sheridan's out and scored on See's drive to right. Rochester came back in the third and scored three runs.

A fist fight between Mickey Devine, manager and catcher of the Bears, and Maury Archdeacon, the fastest baserunner in the International League, occurred in the third inning, when Archdeacon, attempting to score, was nipped at the plate. He thought Devine had blocked the plate, and swung a right hook to Devine's face. They pummeled each other for several minutes before being separated.

In this inning hits by Archdeacon, Pitt and Barnes and a passed ball accounted for the three runs. Newark got another in the fourth and the last in the eighth, when Billy Zitman smashed the ball over the left field fence for a home run.

Rochester started a scoring spree again in the sixth and made four runs. Two singles, two bases on balls and an error caused the damage.

Ring Fans Johnston and Schliebner With Bases Filled in the Ninth Inning.

Jimmy Ring, the big Philly pitcher, thwarted the ninth inning rally staged by the Robins at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon by striking out Jimmy Johnston and Fred Schliebner with the bases filled, and the Philadelphians won by a score of 5 to 3. Uncle Robbie's team came to bat in the ninth with the count at 5 to 1, and the Flatbush club attempted to duplicate its performance of the previous day. A brace of errors by Heine Sand, the high-priced Quaker shortstop recruit, a single by Hank DeBerry and a passed ball gave the Robins two runs, but there the rally ended. About 3,000 persons witnessed the contest.

Art Fletcher's team reached Dazzy Vance for eight hits in the seven innings he worked. Al Mamaux, who pitched after Bailey had batted for Vance in the seventh, allowed one hit in two frames. The Robins collected six safeties off Ring. Curt Walker, the Phillies' left fielder, was the hitting star of the afternoon, making a perfect record. In his four times at bat he pounded out two doubles and two singles, scoring runs on both of the two-baggers.

The Phillies began scoring in the first inning. Goldie Rapp, the first batter, drew a pass and advanced on Holke's single to centre. He reached third when Holke was thrown out on Williams's roller to Olson and then ambled home on the first of Walker's two doubles. The Phillies collected three more tallies in the third inning. Williams and Walker singled to right and Cliff Lee was passed intentionally by Vance. Heine Sand allowed Robbie's pitcher that he had made a slight error in judgment, for he smashed out a triple to deep centre that brought home the three runners. Philadelphia made another run in the seventh inning when Williams came home from first base on Walker's double to centre.

Andy High's triple—a long clout along the third base line—brought Barber across the plate in the sixth inning with the Robins' first run. It was in the ninth inning, however, that the Robins did the most damage. DeBerry opened the inning with a single to left. Neis came to bat for Mamaux and Sand fumbled his roller. Both runners were safe, and Stewart was sent in to run for DeBerry. Olson was walked, filling the bases with none out.

Ring, after pitching three straight balls to Johnston, tightened up and struck him out. Tom Griffith grounded to Sand, but the shortstop again made an error in fielding the ball and Stewart scored. With Wheat at bat, Henline allowed a pitched ball to get by and Neis brought home the second run. Wheat walked, again filling the bases, but Schliebner struck out, and Barber ended the inning when he grounded out to Sand.

DE MAR AGAIN WINS HISTORIC MARATHON

Frank Zuna, Millrose A. A. Star, Finishes Second—Wallie Carlson is Third.

BOSTON, April 19 (Associated Press). The legs, the head and the heart of Clarence H. De Mar of Melrose are still the best of those embodied in the country's long distance runners. The man of thirty-five years, who, as a soldier back from the wars, surprised sports followers last year by winning the American marathon road race in record time, eleven years after his first success in the event, won it again today. His time of 2 hours, 23 minutes, 47 3-5 seconds, set no new mark, but it was nearly two minutes faster than that of the runner-up, Frank Zuna of the Millrose A. A., New York, and his victory established him as the only man in the twenty-seven years history of this race to win it three times.

Today's was a contest in which veterans triumphed. Five of the first eleven men were previous winners, and most of those well placed have been running for years. Zuna won in 1921; Carl W. A. Linder, Boston A. A., in 1919; William J. Kennedy, Port Chester, N. Y., in 1917, and Edouard Fabre, of Montreal, in 1915.

Wallie Carlson of Chicago, brother of Fritz who won in 1913, was third, and Albert P. Michelson of Stamford, Conn., who contested the lead with others and then with De Mar for nearly half of the twenty-five miles, was fourth. After Gunnar Nilson and Nestor Erickson of New York, team mates of the Finnish-American A. C., had finished fifth and sixth, there came plodding home Carl W. A. Linder of the Boston A. A., victor in 1919, and Old Bill Kennedy of Port Chester, N. Y., who led the way in 1917.

De Mar Runs Heady Race.

De Mar's was a victory of stamina, speed and judgment in which he plodded along in fourth place for eight miles, then moved into second place chasing Michelson, the pace maker, until he overtook him at the half-way mark in Wellesley.

But Michelson, always fast in the first stages of these races, overhauled him with a sprint shortly afterward and De Mar coasted along in his dust for a few miles until they had passed the reservoir checking station in Newton. It was there he started his successful sprint last year, and it was there he sprinted to win again today. In a mile or two Michelson was left behind, and De Mar was alone in front, striding through streets lined by thousands.

Zuna, behind him, had run a race well within his powers but not so well judged. For half the race Zuna was content with sixth or seventh place. Then he decided to stretch his stride and went up to third seven miles from the finish, where he was about five minutes behind the leaders. Fresh as a daisy, he was running at his best from that time on, while De Mar, in distress, it seemed soon after the start, was laboring. But Zuna was unable to approach nearer than 750 yards of the leader.

Runners Aid Science.

The element of scientific research was added to the Marathon today for the first time when, after the regular examination of the entrants by physicians named by the authorities in charge of the race, physicians from the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital were permitted to make the runners subjects of investigation—largely in an effort to learn whether the strain of the great race is harmful to the participants.

At the Ashland starting place physicians examined the men, noting their heart action especially, and at the finish the exhausted men were examined carefully and X-ray photographs were taken of the heart of each. Then the men were permitted to rest for several hours until their physical condition was again normal, and a second set of photographs was taken for comparison.

The medical conclusions to be drawn from a study of the data collected today will not be known for several days.

The winner ran the last five miles of his race on his left heel and right toes. As he reached the Lake Street reservoir an automobile crowded his accompanying bicycle in towards him and it caught his right heel, tearing it from his shoe. Then a blister developed on his left foot, and when the veteran reached the finish his gait was rather odd, and he was apparently very tired.

Honored by Legion Post.

A half hour later in the Boston A. A. Gymnasium he was eating ice cream and drinking pop with enthusiasm, surrounded by men of the Melrose Post, American Legion, who paraded to the finish and waited, with banners flying, to see their favorite win. De Mar ran under the colors of the post.

Discussing the race, the winner remarked that the test had not hurt him in any way and that he was sure he would be able to make a good showing in the Olympic if the opportunity came. Another Marathon will be run here before the next Olympic, and De Mar said he would probably run again.

De Mar never ran a poor race. In his five starts in the American Marathon he finished second and third besides his three wins. It has been his custom never to enter a race unless in fit condition.

Edouard Fabre, the snowshoe runner from the North country, who came in eleventh, the last of five former winners, refused to stop running when he broke the tape. He maintained his closing sprint right into the clubhouse, up two flights of stairs, through the gymnasium to a lunch counter at the further end, and only ended when he grasped a large bowl of pea soup and raised it with both hands to his lips.

His Meal Interrupted.

The officials whose duty it was to check in the runners as they reached the club house then corralled him at the lunch counter and led him back to the scales.

Heart Bad, Runs 25 Miles For a 'Little Exercise'

BOSTON, April 19 (Associated Press).—William J. Kennedy of Port Chester, N. Y., a gray-haired bricklayer who comes to Boston for the annual Marathon, usually riding brakebeams, was washed by one physician before the start of the 25-mile race this afternoon that he should not run. There was a murmur to his heart, the physician said. Bill said he felt right and would race. He did. And when he finished the race, taking eighth place, the murmur had disappeared. "I needed a little exercise," was his comment.

[By The Associated Press.]

A commission of women college physical education directors which, as an integral part of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, purposes to control competitive athletics for women in the United States and to promote physical training for girls in every institution, has been appointed by Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

Organization of the commission was completed at a conference attended by representatives of more than fifty of the leading educational institutions in the country for women. It grew out of a meeting held in Washington two weeks ago by Mrs. Hoover at the suggestion of the N. A. F.

Miss Blanche Trilling, Director of Physical Education for Women at the University of Wisconsin, was named Chairman of the commission. Other members are Dr. J. Anna Morris of the University of Minnesota; Miss Helen Trout, Teachers' College, Columbia University; Miss Agnes Wayman, Barnard College; Miss Helen McKinstry, Central Y. W. C. A., New York; Miss Ethel Perrin, Assistant Director of Health Education, City of Detroit; Miss Louise S. French, Assistant State Superintendent of Physical Education of Massachusetts.

The commission will act in an advisory capacity with the executive committee of the N. A. F. until it is officially taken into Federation membership.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—Georgetown University opened its outdoor track season by defeating the University of Pittsburgh in a dual meet here this afternoon by the score of 83 to 34. Georgetown made a clean sweep in the one mile run and the 440 yards runs.

Captain Connolly, holder of the intercollegiate title, broke the new varsity field and South Atlantic records when he won the mile in 4:23 2-5, lowering the former mark by one-fifth of a second. Connolly never was pushed and won with ease. Marsters and Brooks, both of Georgetown, took second and third, respectively.

The hardest fought race of the day was the two-mile run, in which Corbett of Pittsburgh and Helme of Georgetown battled all the way. In the final sprint to the tape Corbett won from Helme by a few feet.

N. Y. FIVE WINS TITLE.

East Side Y. M. C. A. Defeats Syracuse for State Championship.

The East Side Y. M. C. A. basketball team won the New York State championship for association teams last night when it defeated the Syracuse University Y. M. C. A. five on the east side court by the close score of 26 to 21. The east side team had won the championship of the lower section of the State, and the Syracuse aggregation of the upper section.

The local team outplayed its opponents by a greater margin than is indicated by the score, the Syracuse five was not in its best form, and showed nothing like the clever passing that the east side quintet put up. Miller and Gassman stood out especially on the winning team for their floor work, the former in addition, guarding exceptionally well and the latter outjumping his man at centre. Lesson, left forward on the up-State five, was the outstanding star of the game.

Princeton Matmen Name New York City Boy Captain.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 19.—Princeton's heavyweight wrestler, Harvey C. Emery of New York City, will lead the Tigers on the mat next Winter, it was announced today. He is also a member of the track and football teams and will be graduated in June, 1924.

Emery won his varsity track letter last Spring in the hammer and discus events. During his freshman year he played on the class football team and was a member of the first year track team.

DESCAMPS ACCEPTS OFFER.

Conditionally Agrees to Carpentier-McTigue Bout Here.

PARIS, April 19.—Francois Descamps tonight cabled acceptance of an offer from Tex Rickard to match Georges Carpentier in a bout against Mike McTigue, who recently defeated Battling Siki, the conqueror of Carpentier.

Descamps's acceptance of the offer is conditional on Carpentier defeating Marcel Nilles, the French heavyweight, in their bout on May 6, and Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight, in their fight in June. Should Carpentier be returned victorious in both these events it is considered likely that a bout between Carpentier and McTigue might be staged in New York July 4.

MULDOON WILL ASK MASS. FOR RESPITE

Boxing Head to Request Stay of Suspension for Johnson and Fulton.

There is little likelihood of a break between the New York and Massachusetts Boxing Commissions as a result of the latter's action in indefinitely suspending Floyd Johnson and Fred Fulton for their failure to appear in a twelve-round bout at the Arena A. C. of Boston last Monday night. This was the opinion expressed yesterday by Chairman William Muldoon of the New York State Athletic Commission. It had been rumored that the New York Commission would not concur in the action taken by the Massachusetts body and that a break in the friendly relations of the two bodies would result.

"I do not anticipate any such action," said Mr. Muldoon. "The New York Commission will request the Massachusetts Commission to grant a respite of thirty days which would permit Johnson to go through with his bout with Jess Willard on May 19 at the Yankee Stadium for the benefit of the Milk Fund. I believe the Massachusetts Commission will grant our request. I know that if the conditions were reversed the New York Commission would grand such a request.

"Because the Milk Fund is a worthy charity it is the aim of the New York State Commission to do all in its power to aid in the successful promotion of the event. It has been quite a task thus far and evidently the end is not yet, but we are working hard to make the event a pronounced success and I am convinced that it will be. We have tried to keep all of the principals out of trouble. I feel sure that this latest complication will be straightened out satisfactorily."

It was learned yesterday that the New Jersey Commission has arranged to hold a meeting on Tuesday, the day after the Johnson-Fulton bout at the Arena A. C. of Jersey City, and that the Massachusetts Commission will be invited to have a representative present at the meeting to try to amicably adjust the actions of the two commissions—one in suspending Johnson and Fulton and the other in permitting the bout to take place as scheduled. It was said by one who is close to boxing affairs in New Jersey that there would be no break in the friendly relations of the two boxing bodies.

The advance sale of seats for the bout has been extremely heavy and club officials yesterday declared that a crowd of 20,000 is expected to see the rival heavyweights in action.

Fred Fulton, who had been doing his training at Stillman's Gymnasium, has moved his quarters to the Commonwealth Sporting Club. Johnson also has been working out at Stillman's and Fulton was not satisfied with this arrangement. After the change had been effected it became known for the first time that Fulton had purchased an old health farm just outside his home in Rochester, Minn., and that for three months before coming to this city he had been working there. Chopping trees and helping to build a bungalow was a part of his daily routine. He also did quite a little work in a gymnasium on the farm.

JOHNSON REINSTATED BY NEW JERSEY BODY

Commission Lifts Boxer's Suspension—Will Not Concur With Massachusetts.

TRENTON, N. J., April 19.—Newton A. K. Burbee, head of the New Jersey Boxing Commission, today formally reinstated Floyd Johnson, the heavyweight pugilist, and his manager, Charles Cook, who were suspended when they refused to abide by the contract providing for a boxing contest in Jersey City last Monday night between Johnson and Fred Fulton.

Johnson and Cook refused to go through with the contest because William Muldoon, Chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, forbade the match after the contract had been signed, on the ground that Johnson might be injured or otherwise made less attractive as an opponent for Jess Willard, whom he is matched to fight on May 12 in New York for the benefit of the Milk Fund.

Allan Trimble, Secretary of the New Jersey Commission, declared that no heed will be paid by the New Jersey authorities to the suspension of Johnson, Cook, Fulton and Fulton's manager, James Johnston, by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission. Trimble issued the following statement:

"Yesterday I received a telegram notifying the New Jersey Boxing Commission that the Massachusetts Boxing Commission has indefinitely suspended Floyd Johnson, Charles Cook, Fred Fulton and his manager, Jimmie Johnston, for their failure to keep their contract with the Arena A. C. of Boston. I immediately took the matter up with Commissioner Burbee and see no reason why the New Jersey Commission should concur in this latest request, as the Massachusetts Commission took no part when we had this matter under discussion with the New York Boxing Commission."

WILLARD TO ARRIVE IN CITY TOMORROW

Ex-Champion Coming From Missouri Camp to Finish Training for Johnson Bout.

Jess Willard, who will meet Floyd Johnson in one of the two featured fifteen-round bouts for the benefit of the Milk Fund at the Yankee Stadium on May 12, will arrive here tomorrow from Excelsior Springs, Mo. Tex Rickard, who is promoting the affair, received a telegram from Ray Archer, Willard's business representative, stating that the former heavyweight champion would arrive on the Twentieth Century Limited from Chicago and that he would go immediately to Yonkers to finish his training for the bout.

Jack Skelly, the old-time featherweight, invited Jess to use the spacious gymnasium of the Columbus Sporting Club in Yonkers, and Willard accepted, because it will afford him a chance to do a great deal of work in the open country near by. Willard is reported to be in excellent condition. It is said that the big fellow is many pounds lighter than when he lost the championship to Jack Dempsey at Toledo in 1919. His condition has been the cause of great satisfaction in his training camp.

Jack McAuliffe 2d is expected to arrive today from Detroit. He is scheduled to box Luis Angel Firpo fifteen rounds on the same program with Willard and Johnson. McAuliffe has been working in Detroit and is said to be in fine shape. He will conclude his preparation for the bout in the Madison Square Garden gymnasium. Firpo is planning to leave for Jimmy De Forest's open-air gymnasium at Allenhurst, N. J., before the end of the week. He will conclude his training there. De Forest has been in charge of the South American's preparation and his work has been entirely satisfactory to date.

Jack Kearns Says Dempsey Will Defend Title July 4

CHICAGO, April 19.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will positively defend his title July 4, his manager, Jack Kearns, announced in a telegram received here today. The opponent remains to be decided, Kearns said. Kearns, who is in Los Angeles, telegraphed he had not closed with Tom Gibbons, the St. Paul heavyweight, for Shelby, Mont., on July 4, but negotiations were pending, and he planned to meet Mike Collins, representing the Montana promoters, here next week to consider the offer. "I shall leave here Friday for Chicago and New York to negotiate with New York, New Jersey and Cleveland promoters, as well as Mike Collins in Chicago," Kearns said. Tom McGinnity, a Cleveland promoter, is negotiating for a Dempsey-Gibbons match.

Mathews by a score of 175 to 130, but lost his second match to Joseph R. Johann by a score of 71 to 175. These two games completed Steinbugler's schedule in the final round. He won two matches and lost three. Joseph Blaisdel also has completed his string with five straight defeats. By winning last night Johann advanced to a tie for first place with Louis A. Servatius and John Low. Each of these three players has won three matches and lost one. The three leaders will be seen in action tonight, when the tournament may be decided. Johann will play Mathews and Servatius will tackle Low.

Ranked as a Class B player under the rating of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players, Johann played Class A billiards. He completed his string of 175 points in fourteen innings for an average of 12 7-14. He made high runs of 48, 43, 27 and 23. Steinbugler's average in this game was 5 1-14 and his high run 19. # VERMONT HANDS ELIS FIRST HOME DEFEAT

Victors Put Over Final Tally in Eighth Inning to Win, 4 Runs to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 19.—The Yale nine suffered its first defeat of the season on its home field today when Vermont shoved the odd tally across in the eighth inning, winning 4 to 3. The game was a typically cold weather contest, covering nearly three hours and disclosing uneven fielding sandwiched between the brilliant fielding of Duba, O'Hearn and Kelley. Although Don Ross passed six of the Green Mountaineers, he was effective. The Eli fielding was at its best when the paths were occupied.

BLAZES WINS AGAIN ON MARYLAND TRACK

BROOKHOLT RUNS SECOND

Hildur Sulks in Pinch and Is Third—Only Two Favorites Score at Havre de Grace.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 19.—Blazes, the six-year-old son of Wrack-Blazing Star, which carried off the Harford Handicap on the first day of the meeting of the Harford Agricultural and Breeders' Association and won $3,390 for his owner, J. S. Cosden, this afternoon won the Aero Handicap, the feature event on the card, and thereby added the sum of $1,300 to his owner's bankroll. Blazes did not have the field to beat that he did in the Harford, in which he trimmed Walter Salmon's Careful by a neck and old Exterminator by that much and a length.

Only six went to the post in the Aero Handicap, and Kummer sent Blazes out from the rise of the barrier. He set a fast pace all the way and shook off Commander J. K. L. Ross's Hildur in the stretch run, the latter having been next to the pace all through up to the final strides. Brookholt, the Audley Farm entry, gained steadily on the leading pair and finished fast in the middle of the track, nipping Hildur by a head for the place money. Hildur sulked and refused to finish game. Pegasus, stablemate of Brookholt, led the three others home, eight lengths behind Hildur.

Hildur was the favorite in the betting at 5 to 4, with the Audley Farm entry coupled as second choice at about 5 to 2. Blazes was third choice at a trifle longer price, paying $7.40 to $2 in the mutuels.

Favorites were not fortunate this afternoon, only two of the public's choices rewarding their fanciers. In the Everglades Purse, fifth on the card, Top Sergeant, hold at a little less than 2 to 1, finished next to last in sixth place. The winner was G. C. Winfrey's Pastoral Swain, which had failed in two attempts at Bowie. The gelded son of Cotin was held at nearly 13 to 1, paying the nice sum of $27.70 to $3 in the mutuels.

Seven went to the post, and Pastoral Swain, from third position, moved up stoutly rounding the far turn. He hung on gamely during the final drive, lasting just long enough to stall off Eulalia, which came around the leaders entering the homestretch and finished fast, only a head back of Pastoral Swain. It was a blanket finish, for Valor was beaten for the place money by only a neck, having saved ground all the way.

In the Lansdowne Steeplechase, the second event of the meeting through the field, the Cosden silks were again to the fore, Gold Foyle, which was making his first start of the season, bringing an even $1,000 to the stable's coffers. Eight came out for the journey of about two miles over the short course and six stood up. Transport, unseated Rowan early in the race, parting company with his jockey at the fifth fence. Air Tan fell at the thirteenth fence.

HUNTER WILL MEET VOSHELL IN FINAL

Former Defeats Mathey and Latter Beats Shafer in Greenbrier Tennis Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 19.—Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle defeated Dean Mathey of New York and S. Howard Voshell of Brooklyn defeated G. Carlton Shafer of Philadelphia in spectacular semi-final round matches of the men's singles in the Greenbrier Tennis Club's annual invitation tournament today.

Hunter, who is former national indoor and present Florida State titleholder, won his first set with Mathey, who is a former first ten man and ex-Western doubles champion, in typical cannonade fashion. He picked off aces through speed of service and kept his opponent on the defense with terrific drives.

In the second set Mathey managed to dig up Hunter's drives in fine shape, and while he was content for the most part to merely return them he would gradually work his way up to the net and win his points in the air or force Hunter to drive into the nets.

In the final set Hunter recovered the dazzling accuracy that he had shown in the first set, and although Mathey continually made astounding recoveries he was worn off his ground half of the time handling Hunter's high-bounding drives. Hunter took the set and match by scores of 6—4, 3—6, 6—2.

In the match between S. Howard Voshell, former indoor champion and first ten star, and G. Carlton Shafer, former North and South champion, the gallery of several hundred spectators witnessed some perfect tennis.

Both players were very evenly matched. In the third set, with games three-all, the score hung at deuce for half a dozen times. Then Voshell picked off two aces on his service and the turning point had been reached.

Miss Helen Gilleaudeau of Mamaroneck, new North and South champion and No. 6 woman player of the United States, blanked Mrs. Bronson Batcheler of the West Side Tennis Club, 6—0, 6—0.

The summaries:

Men's Singles, Semi-Final Round—S. H. Voshell defeated G. C. Shafer, 6—3, 5—7, 6—3; F. T. Hunter defeated Dean Mathey, 6—4, 3—6, 6—4.

Men's Doubles, Second Round—S. H. Voshell and Dean Mather defeated A. D. Chaffee and G. H. Gil, 6—0, 6—1; F. T. Hunter and B. C. Wright defeated F. B. Hawk and R. W. Seabury, 6—4, 6—3.

Women's Doubles, Semi-Final Round—Mrs. D. F. Briggs and Mrs. T. H. Sohst defeated Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. B. Batcheler, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3; Mrs. DeForest Candee and Miss H. Gilleaudeau defeated Mrs. R. L. Wood and Mrs. C. McWilliams, 6—2, 6—1.

AMBER CREST WINS T. L. LEEMING CUP

Amber Crest, the chestnut gelding owned by Mortimer B. Fuller, which provided one of the sensations of the Brooklyn Horse Show last year, won the President Thomas L. Leeming Trophy for saddle horses last night in the third session of the thirty-first annual holding of the event at the Riding and Driving Club. Amber Crest took the blue in spite of the fact that both Winona, the bay mare owned by Miss Clara S. Peck of Brooklyn, which won the cup last year, and Cherokee Princess, the chestnut mare owned by Miss Janet MacKay of the same city, which was reserve in 1922, were entered for the cup. Winona could get but fourth in the class and Cherokee Princess took third place. The red went to Sun King, the chestnut gelding belonging to George Crouch.

Down East, the famous gelding owned by Miss Becky Lanier, took the blue ribbon in the Corinthian class, open to all hunters. Miss Lanier also took second prize in this event with her chestnut gelding Bowling Green and rode both of her winning mounts. Dixie, another entry of the winning exhibitor, created a bit of excitement in the ring when, after completing the six jumps called for, it refused to stop and took three more turns over the chart. A plucky stable groom threw himself in front of the animal, when he saw that the rider, Miss Lanier, was unable to bring the animal to a stop, and pulled the horse down by the bridle. Miss Lanier was caught in the heap, but no one was injured.

Silvercrest, Miss Lanier's famous gray gelding, which was counted on as certain to place, was a fourth entry in the class, but could not be shown. The animal was injured yesterday when the van in which it was being brought from Long Island overturned. Silvercrest, was not seriously injured, but was in no condition to be exhibited in the ring last night.

Another accident marked this event when Sandy, the bay gelding owned by M. J. Devaney, stopped abruptly at the first barrier and threw the rider, John D. Davis. Davis got to his feet quickly and continued in the ring, to be awarded fourth prize amid the plaudits of the spectators.

The attendance last night was the largest so far this week. Every box and the entire standing room about the large arena was filled. The crowd, too, was an enthusiastic one, and liberally applauded many of the events. The judges on several occasions had considerable difficulty in picking the winners of the blue ribbons, and in some instances the contestants were compelled to perform at great length before final decision could be reached. The good natured rivalry that exists between many of the women riders was evidenced during some of the events.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 19.—The British Government has excelled in breeding race horses in recent years, Sir Robert Sanders, Minister of Agriculture, announced to the House of Commons tonight. The Government last year headed the list of winning breeders, and even led that redoubtable sportsman, Lord Derby, Secretary for War. Twenty-five of the Government horses won forty-two races and £12,000. The Government scored victories in the St. Legar, Liverpool Cup, Derby Cup and Prince of Wales Stakes at Newmarket last year. This year a Government-bred horse has already won the Lincoln Handicap. These winners are the product of the stud which Lord Wavertree presented to the nation in 1916. The Government runs the stud, but stops there, selling the yearlings to regular race-horse owners.

KNIGHT LEADS FIELD IN LINWOOD TOURNEY

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 19.—Fred W. Knight, famed as "the marathon golfer" of the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club, Philadelphia, won the eighteen hole qualifying round of the first spring invitation golf tournament of the Linwood Country Club today. His card to top the list of more than 200 players from all over the East was 79. The scores were only mediocre, the golfers being bothered by the high winds, while the strangeness of the new links also worked a handship. There were only approximately—forty golfers who went under 100.

A. C. Gregson of Lido, in the metropolitan district, and Ray Stevens of Lake Placid, were up in the first sixteen. The visitors are tied at 83. Thomas B. Wootton, club champion of the Atlantic City Country Club, broke through with a neat 84, as did Fred Plum of Atlantic City, holder of many trophies for trap shooting and a member of the last Olympic team.

Ray Stevens, the young Lake Placid stalwart, who trains for his golf by skiing, glided over the last nine in a highly inspirational 39. He took 44 to go out. No less than seven pars were made by the Lake Placid entry on the indoming trip, his total being just two over theoretical perfection for the home-coming journey.

Knight's card with par follows:

CLEVELAND, April 19.—Frank J. Marshall, the United States chess champion, for the first time took the lead in his match with Edward Lasker of Chicago today, by winning the tenth game at the City Club of Cleveland. Marshall had the white side of a queen's pawn opening and won in thirty-eight moves after five hours of play.

Lasker was not in good form, and at times played weakly. He was visibly suffering from severe pain as the result of a minor operation he underwent Wednesday. The challenger is recovering, however, and hopes to be able to go on with the match. The eleventh game is scheduled to be played at the Cleveland Athletic Club tomorrow. E. E. Stearns, former Yale player, acted as referee. The score to date is Marshall 4, Lasker 3, drawn 3.

Ninth Game Hard Fought.

Although drawn after sixty-three moves, the ninth game of the chess championship match between Frank J. Marshall of New York and Edward Lasker of Chicago at the City Club of Cleveland was one of the most stubbornly contested of the series thus far. Lasker, with the white pieces, once more resorted to the queen's gambit which Marshall declined, the play following along entirely new lines. Lasker succeeded in retaining the initiative throughout and appeared to have a slight advantage when he doubled his opponent's QB pawn. Marshall, however, kept his rival at bay successfully in the ending, wherein both had two rooks and six pawns.

The score:

BUSINESS HOPES AND DOUBTS.

A little while ago there was much controversy over the imminent "inflation" of trade, prices and credit which it was the business of the Federal Reserve to check. More recently the discussion took the turn of definite warnings by well-known bankers and business men against overdoing the business expansion. There have been numerous public utterances of this nature in the past few days.

They indicate an interesting business situation. Not often in this country's history has so remarkable a recovery as that of the last three months occurred at that season of the year. The usual experience is for a decrease in activity after the "Christmas trade" has been completed. Merchants and manufacturers rest on their oars, so to speak, and wait for later months to determine the course of the year's business. So far has this year to date departed from the tradition that, as shown by recent statements, not only have all branches of production, trade and consumption increased as compared with any part of 1922, but the month of March or the beginning of April saw the country's output of iron and steel exceeding all precedent in our history, building construction at a high monthly record, purchase of cotton by our textile mills and volume of their production similarly beyond all previous monthly figures, and freight transported over the railways greater in quantity than it had ever before been, except in the busy Autumn months of a few recent years.

In itself, the fact of a vigorous recovery two years or so after the break-down of 1920 is neither mysterious nor unprecedented. Most people know that even the passing of all previous records in certain lines of production and transportation has been a familiar sequel to the severe depression and drastic curtailment of production and consumption which immediately followed our great financial crises. After them, as on the present occasion, the abruptness and rapidity of the recovery resulted from discovery that production had fallen far below normal consumption and that, with the credit situation rectified and the continuous fall in prices checked, there was actually lost ground to be made up. Usually the process of "record-breaking" has lasted on such occasions only until supply and demand were again in equilibrium.

The unusual activity of the end-of-Winter season may have been a consequence of the holding back of productive activities last Autumn by the coal and railway strikes. If so, what we have lately been observing was a deferred movement both of production and consumption which, but for those disturbances, might have been completed in 1922. People are now beginning to understand, from the testimony of competent authorities such as Mr. BARNES and Secretary HOOVER, that even Europe shared in the recent industrial recovery and for precisely the same reason as existed in the United States. Even before the Ruhr blockade caused special demands on other steel markets, England's monthly production of steel had reached the pre-war average, and her total steel output of 1922 exceeded the previous year by 60 per cent. In France last year's steel production ran 45 per cent. above 1921 and nearly equaled 1913, although Alsace-Lorraine is now a factor. French coal production, by a recent report of the Miners' Association, increased 10 per cent. over 1921. A similar showing of recovery may be found in Italy, Belgium and even in many States of Central Europe.

It is only in the United States, however, that the pace of recovery has become spectacular. That was natural enough when our own business community is almost the only one not confronted with the handicap of currency depreciation, political uncertainty or unbalanced budgets. The rapidity of our own trade expansion nevertheless inspired the recent discussion of an immediate and emphatic raising of the Reserve Bank rediscount rate in order to escape another 1920, and now occasions warnings by responsible bankers and business men in regard to the danger of "forcing the pace." Yet these very discussions and warnings have served to bring out evidence that the business community is under none of the illusions which in 1919 plunged every market into the rashest kind of speculation.

The business men of 1923 are at any rate not financing an unprecedentedly large export trade by extending long credits indiscriminately to foreign buyers. The merchants are not sending out personal notices that customers who do not buy now will have to pay 25 per cent. higher prices a few months hence. The private banks are not clamoring at the Federal Reserve for rediscount of their own loans in prodigious sums. On the whole, it is a calm, self-possessed and indeed somewhat skeptical community which watches the present stage of the "business boom."

If this mood seems unreal or its existence doubtful to many who remember the extravagances into which our business men plunged in 1919 and 1920, it will be in point to recall the fact, well established in financial history, that a business community does not repeat such a blunder on such a scale while the memory of its consequences is fresh in mind. Usually it is when a long stretch of time has elapsed—when, so to say, a new generation has grown up in finance and industry, to whom the older episode is only vague tradition—that illusion and reckless experiment are likely to be the order of the day again.

ENJOLNING NATURE.

The high price of sugar is at present world wide. There are complaints about it, and jokes about it, in France. In England it has been thrust into the debate on the budget, the demand of the Labor Party being that the duty on sugar be reduced. In refusing to reduce it the Chancellor of the Exchequer gave it as his belief that the extraordinary rise in the price of sugar is due to the prospect of a shortage in the supply. After referring to the disappointing Cuban crop, he said that the production of beet sugar in Europe was certain to be stimulated by the high prices, so that by the turn of the year "there should be cheaper world sugar."

This sounds like a rational explanation. But whatever the British Government may think about it, our own Government knows better. It holds that the high price of sugar is due to excessive and wicked speculation on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange and the New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing Association, and has accordingly filed a bill in equity praying that a permanent injunction against transactions in sugar by either of those organizations shall be issued. In support of its application to the court the Government maintains that most of the dealings on the sugar exchanges are purely speculative, the actual delivery of sugar on future contracts being so small as to be negligible. The Government asserts that it is solely the "orgy in speculation in raw sugar" which has driven up the price to the consumer.

By this proceeding many questions are raised. Some are questions of law, some of political expediency, but the most important ones are questions of fact. If the British Chancellor of the Exchequer is right, it is not speculation which the Government is seeking to enjoin, but nature. Not simply in New York, but all over the world, it has been believed by growers, importers and refiners of sugar that the supply is not equal to the demand. From that belief has sprung the rapid advance in price. This may have been somewhat heightened by speculation; but for the larger part of it the facts of the trade, as they are understood by the leaders of the trade, have been responsible.

In any such upward movement it is inevitable that there should be a great deal of buying and selling which is wholly speculative. But the speculation follows the facts, or what are believed to be the facts. The "gamblers" on the sugar exchanges are in reality but so many flies on the wheel which is turned, not by them, but by economic forces. It may also be true that speculators in New York have had a certain advantage in the existence of higher tariff duties on sugar. If these men were manipulating a "corner" in sugar, they would be helped to the extent that the tariff rates save them from having to buy at once the sugar that might be offered them from the East Indies or from Europe at their artificially high price. But in the end everything will turn on the accuracy of the statistics regarding the supply of sugar. Those of our Department of Commerce imply adequate stocks. The British and French figures assert a shortage. If there is an actual and temporary shortage, the Government's injunction, to be effective, ought to be directed against the soil of Cuba for having suffered from the drought and having failed to yield the expected crop.

THE STATE PARK PLAN

For Governor SMITH's message on the State parks generations to come will have reason to be grateful if its recommendations get translated into law and continuing appropriations. President ROOSEVELT and Governor PINCHOT, the traditional conservationists, could not have made a stronger or more orderly plea for the open spaces, for forest playgrounds and for the protection of trees, the sources of water supply and of wild life, than has been made by this graduate of Oliver Street and Fulton Market.

As to his scheme of financing, it seems that he has taken the only practicable course that is open to the State. The erection of certain hospital and institutional buildings for the care of the sick—mentally, physically or morally sick—cannot in all conscience be postponed. If the earlier proposed plan of submitting to the people the question of the issue of fifteen millions of State park bonds were adopted, then the bond issue for institutional purposes would have to be postponed. After the Ward's Island disaster, no one could think of letting the recreational needs of the children of the State take precedence of the safety of the State's wards.

The Governor makes suggestion of a way out—one that will permit the State to do its duty both to those who must have institutional care and to those who need the health-giving of the out-of-doors. With the appropriations which he suggests the initial steps can be taken to carry through the unified park program of the Committee on State Park Plan to which THE TIMES has already given cordial support—a program that has been improved by extending its "blue line" to include those shores of Lake George fronting the one hundred and twenty-two islands in the lake which the State now owns. It is a program which when completed will give the Empire State a unified park system and the entire urban populations of the State access to its forests and lakes, the strength of its hills, and even the "freedom that is on its mountains."

BRIDGING THE HUDSON.

The plans for Hudson River bridges south of Albany come thick and fast. The growing pressure for better communication between New York City and suburban New Jersey, and across the river above the city line as far north as Poughkeepsie, reflects a feeling that conditions of vehicular transportation have become intolerable. The latest bridge project, a span between Anthony's Nose and Fort Clinton, where the Hudson is less than three-quarters of a mile wide, was authorized by a legislative act of March 31, 1922, and an act of Congress approved May 25, 1922. The plan is for a suspension bridge with a single span 150 feet above high water to carry a roadway 88 feet wide, and on each side of it a five-foot sidewalk for pedestrians. It is estimated that 5,000 motor vehicles could pass over this bridge in an hour—welcome news to the owners of touring cars, who often have to wait tediously their turn at ferry entrances to get over the river. It is an old complaint that "there is no highway bridge across the Hudson south of Albany."

In December there was a dinner at Poughkeepsie to hear reports about a proposal to build a vehicular traffic bridge a short distance south of the railroad bridge. The latter had been a disappointment to the people on both sides of the river. The original charter, granted to the Poughkeepsie Bridge Company on May 11, 1873, provided for "the passage and transportation of passengers, railroad trains, teams, vehicles, cattle, horses, sheep, swine and other merchandise and property." The company failed after the panic of 1873. A new act, effective June 25, 1887, limited the business of the bridge to transportation of railroad trains, passengers, merchandise and property." Nevertheless, the Legislature on April 16, 1891, authorized the construction of a footpath over the bridge. A suit eliminated this accommodation. Again the Legislature, in 1893, sought to have a footway grafted on the railroad bridge, but nothing came of it. In 1907 the Public Service Commission directed the Central New England Railroad Company to do something for pedestrians. The company went to the courts and was upheld in its refusal.

By that time motor traffic had become a problem, and agitation began for a State-built vehicular traffic bridge. THEODORE PRATT and Colonel GOETHALS were engaged in 1922 to report upon the project. Colonel GOETHALS had blueprints prepared showing a bridge with four piers in the river and long viaduct approaches. The estimated cost, exclusive of land, easements and interest during construction, was $4,898,976. Mr. PRATT said in his report that "at present the only outlet from this district is the Central of New England Railroad, or long hauls to the West Shore Railroad with rehandling." The economic and commercial value of a vehicular traffic bridge at a point midway between New York and Albany he dealt with exhaustively. He maintained that "along the central part of the river" bridges would be practicable only at Crum Point, four miles above Poughkeepsie; at Poughkeepsie itself, and "at a point in Bear Mountain Reservation opposite Anthony's Nose." At Crum Point the neighborhood was such that "a bridge here would start nowhere and end nowhere." A Bear Mountain-Anthony's Nose bridge would serve only recreational purposes. But surely they are important enough to justify construction.

Within the limits of the City of New York there is the massive enterprise of a bridge to Weehawken, for which the approval of Congress has been sought; and the West Fifty-seventh Street bridge, designed by GUSTAV LINDENTHAL to have a capacity of twenty lines of vehicular traffic and twelve railroad tracks. Speaking in the House of Representatives about the Weehawken project, Mr. ACKERMAN of New Jersey said that it would be "the most stupendous engineering work yet undertaken, surpassing in that respect, and also in final cost, the Panama Canal." These New York City bridges appeal powerfully to the imagination. Compared with them the Fort Clinton-Anthony's Nose span and the Poughkeepsie four-pier, high-above-tide bridge are simple and cheap. It is most desirable that a Hudson bridge be completed as an example and precedent. But financing must come first.

THE WATCH ON LEGISLATION.

For the next two weeks the crush of bills at Albany struggling for enactment before the Legislature adjourns will be terrific. This will demand incessant vigilance on the part of those who are anxious to prevent dubious or harmful measures from slipping through. There will be plenty of people on guard in behalf of legislative proposals that affect private interest; but there will be need of many watchers to head off bills which threaten to do injury to the public.

Several pending measures of this kind seek to amend in questionable ways the Tenement House law. One such would allow the conversion of three-story dwelling houses into apartments, with sanitary provisions that are inadequate and would not be permitted by the existing statute. Another would confer on the Tenement House Commissioner unrestricted discretion in permitting departures from the strict letter of the law. These proposals naturally disturb and alarm those who for years have been giving time and labor to the better housing of the tenement population of this city. The Tenement House Committee of the Charity Organization Society is making strong protest, especially against the bill to allow the Tenement House Commissioner unlimited discretion in administering the law. This would be, it is argued, in disregard of the teaching of experience and of the wise practice slowly built up, and could only be thought of as a serious impairment of the safeguards now established by law.

MAKING COMMUNISM CLEAR.

The meeting of the Russian Communist Congress in Moscow yesterday seems to have resembled the sessions of our Board of Estimate. ZINOVIEFF told the brethren that they would have to adopt a clear and decisive program. In times past, it appears, this was not necessary. While LENIN was able to attend to business "indefinite programs might not have been harmful, for there was a man who could interpret them in the name of the party. Now, when he is absent, "everything must be clear."

LENIN, the Great Interpreter, was always able to explain that the "retreat to capitalism" was really a normal part of Communist development predetermined by ineluctable historical forces, and not at all inconsistent with fundamental dogmas. No wonder the brethren miss this master theologian to whom the fact of capitalism is wholly reconcilable with theoretical communism, just as the fact of oligarchic rule was reconcilable with the theory of the rule of the working masses. Now everything must be plain; and the task of making it so is enough to keep a committee busy for the next six months. For clarity, in Russia, will mean the admission that things are not what they seem; and only LENIN, so far, has been able to make the mass of the party swallow that and like it.

Meanwhile, KRASSIN had made the innocent suggestion that politics and business be kept apart, and that the Communist party as such should not interfere with the business men who were trying to put Russia on a paying basis. If LENIN had been there, this brutal proposal would never have been made, at least in this form. He could have found a formula that would have kept the party out of business without admitting it. But without LENIN things are in danger of becoming clear. KRASSIN, who stands for things as they are, was shouted down as a Menshevik—a heretic. ZINOVIEFF came near reading him out of the party. But it appears that it was not mere dogmatic scruples that led other leaders to reject the proposal to let the business men alone; it was the fear that if the party didn't control business the door would be opened for "enemies of the Soviets." Better close the door to business than open it to members of the opposition; never mind whether Russia comes back or not, so long as we keep the jobs. Whether or not anything else is clear, this is clear—that the men on top in Russia are not going to let go.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Delighting to Honor. Our Government has discovered two ways of showing its appreciation of business men who freely gave their services to it during the war. One is to indict them. The other is to bestow upon them Distinguished Service Medals. To receive the latter is the happier fate of Mr. BARUCH and several of his associates on the War Industries Board.

In conferring them the other day, Secretary WEEKS declared that the work done by these men is really inseparable, in its general effect, from that performed by uniformed officers. Hence, although the general rule is against giving that particular medal to civilians, he had made an exception in their favor. Such a course, we believe, was urged upon Secretary BAKER before the Wilson Administration ended. Nothing was done then, but now a deserved though belated recognition is given for what was truly a patriotic service and sacrifice during the stress of war.

It is not probable that any objection will be raised by military men. Under modern conditions war calls upon all classes in the nation to put forth supreme efforts, and those who spend themselves on work to supply the sinews of war are not to be marked off sharply from the soldiers and sailors who do the actual fighting.

The Post Office Air Service. The Post Office Air Service is the true pioneer of civil aviation. What army flying does for civil aviation is inconsiderable. It it were not for the work of the mail aviators the prospects for commercial aeronautics would be far from bright.

Since the inauguration of the mail service in 1918 the number of miles flown is 5,281,823. No less than 2,000,000 miles now stand to the credit of the aerial mail carriers in a year's work. It seems only yesterday that heads were shaken over continuing the service in the Winter months. The airplane might be available when winds were not high and the weather propitious, but there could be no flying in the blast, in downpours of rain and when snow whirled through the air.

Besides, there was the margin of safety. Flying would be interrupted by accidents. Mails must be carried on time. How could the personnel be kept up? Well, the record shows that on more than a third of the scheduled trips the aviators have had to pilot their machines through rain, snow, hail and even fog. In 1922 the percentage of performance, that is to say of completed trips, had risen to 95.52.

Forced landings decreased from 1,473 in 1921 to 573 in 1922. Ten weeks of Summer service showed 100 per cent. of performance. Last year 60,000,000 letters were delivered. The cost is still high compared with that of the railway and the motor car, but steadily decreasing. There is no dearth of pilots. With careful inspection of motors and fabric the airplane is safe enough in the hands of trained men.

Another Record Smashed. The record for attendance at baseball games has taken a leap almost as long and as sudden as that for non-stop dancing. That 74,200 people crowded into the new Yankee Stadium on a day so uncomfortable as Wednesday, with thousands more turned away, is pretty clear proof that the maximum of baseball crowds in large cities is limited only by the physical necessity of putting the stands within sight of play. Every world's series game played in New York would probably draw 75,000 if there were stands to hold so many; and the same might be said of Chicago and Boston, at least. Of course this great Stadium will be filled only a few times a year, but it will make a considerable difference in the receipts of the club—and of visiting clubs as well—that on those special occasions an extra 35,000 or so can be packed in instead of being turned away.

If the New York clubs should both happen to win again, the combined capacity of the stands for the two teams will be 130,000—almost twice as many as could have been entertained at any previous world's series. This will mean that many who now never try to go to a world's series game because they have no hope of getting in will go uptown and take the chance. It ought to mean, also, a lowering of the prices; whether it will is another matter.

The intrepid Arctic explorers who ventured into the frozen northland of the Bronx on Wednesday saw a good if not an exciting ball game, with Mr. SHAWKEY doing his stuff in the best mid-season manner; they also saw that without which the dedication of this new temple of gymnastic would have been incomplete; a home run by Mr. RUTH. This was more than a mere home run, more than a fitting climax to a great day; for in Mr. RUTH's reported state of mind it must have cheered him up considerably to make a home run in the first game of the season.

Hogs Is Hogs. Staten Islanders are not alone in suffering from the expanding disposition of "seat hogs." Wherever there are seats or benches of limited size—and what seats are not just a little too small?—there are persons anxious to take up more acreage than is theirs in equity. The defiant lady who barricades herself with bundles and the angry man who tries to look stout so as to disincline even a thin man from sitting beside him are as familiar on suburban trains and even on the Fifth Avenue buses as on the Staten Island ferries.

There will, therefore, be general approval of the order of the Commissioner of Plant and Structures that the seat hogs on the ferries be kept within bounds. Cynics may, indeed, remark that seat hogs cannot be decreed out of existence. Not even Mr. WHALEN's injunction to passengers to "be less bashful in making seat hogs move up" will be more than a temporary stimulus to courageous action on the part of citizens brought alongside specimens of this particular breed of animal. There sometimes lurks in the beady eye of these grasping creatures a ferociousness which turns aside all but the callous. Who has not sat down beside one only to be persistently forced to occupy less than his rightful share of the seat? With some, neither acts nor words are effective. To the average person, therefore, life seems too short to make the struggle worth while. Everything, of course, should be done to discourage seat hogs, on the Staten Island ferries and elsewhere, but Commissioner WHALEN should not forget that hogs is hogs, and that their nature cannot be changed by an order, even if it emanates from no less an authority than the Mayor himself.

RADICAL SCHOOL REFORMS.

Mother Would Teach Girls More Athletics and Homemaking.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have a daughter in high school. I find that during the last two years she has studied English, written and oral; German, Latin, biology, drawing, music, physical training, hygiene, algebra, in none of which she has failed to pass her examinations. She gets up about 6 every morning and studies, and on her return, after eating her dinner, begins again. I do not think that she is a stupid girl and she seems in some ways to be above the average. Why it is necessary for her to do this I think can readily be explained by the number of subjects which, it seems, she must carry.

From all that I can learn about the public schools of our city they are all overcrowded, and the teachers—some of them, at least—underpaid. It seems a pity that it is so, if so, and I believe it to be true in most instances. Of course I can't make any suggestions because my ideas would be hooted, I know. If I had my way every child would be taught to do many things—to swim and to know every muscle in the body, and as much as possible about keeping that body clean and in good physical morale. I'd have them doing trapeze acts and setting-up exercises until they were hot, and then have them take a plunge in cold water, after which I'd teach them to be electricians, upholsterers, carpenters, and the girls every step of housekeeping and homemaking. After that I'd spe that every girl knew all about babies, where they come from and why, and what to do with them after they do come.

The girls of today certainly don't get any training in the most important things of life, it seems to me. This book education is being overdone. A little more respect for the simple things of life might be introduced. In connection with the schools should be a training school for mothers, where they are taught to sew, to make every kind of garment worn by children from birth on. Instead of teaching children the long process of writing I would have every child using a typewriter first. They should learn their letters from the typewriter. They should be taught shorthand before longhand. Give them something from the beginning that is going to be of service. Why spend years of teaching things that have to be learned all over in another way before one is able to make a living?

I have a friend who graduated from Bryn Mawr; is a B. A. and a linguist—an unusually clever girl. But after graduating and having all this knowledge she had to take a business course to learn shorthand and typewriting in order to know something for which she could actually demand and receive a living wage. Nothing which she had acquired in college furnished her with the equipment necessary for sustenance.

After having taught these children shorthand and typewriting and all the athletics I could manage, and at least one trade perfectly, if any time was left I would then introduce some of the subjects which are now simply crammed into them. A girl I know who is a student at Barnard, for one subject is taking Ancient French Literature. That girl is going to have a try and make her own living upon graduating unless she can find some man to marry her and support her. Can you tell me how Ancient French Literature is going to be of service in that effort? I confess I am puzzled beyond words by the entire scheme of education.

Restricted Immigration.

Whether we shall admit plenty of immigrants, and so gain common labor, is not necessarily to be decided upon the lines you specify in today's editorial, arguing against Judge Gary's views, as the "short" and the "long" view. There is also the longer view. If restricted immigration is to bring Southern negroes in great numbers North, as you indicate, not much is gained for the North in assimilability. But the problem is not to be solved as a local one or upon temporary considerations only. The future is involved, and that requires the longest view. This view has so far been entirely ignored. The vast educated middle class in the United States long since reached the point where to reproduce most numerously it requires a certain amount of service, nurse maids and common labor. The crux of the immigration problem is not whether immigrants we can now get will supply future citizens of Northern or Southern European blood. It is whether by the shutting off of servants and common labor the future supply of good American citizens of the old stock is not dried up much faster than it could possibly be diluted by immigration.

The pioneer days are past and few farmers' wives are now willing to do their own work, help work the farm and raise ten children unaided. Increase in the cost of living decreases reproduction of population by the class most worth reproducing. We cannot have, in this matter, what we may wish, but only a choice the facts allow. Here is where the political tyro, the half-thinker and the amateur theorist are prone to err. They fail to see all the facts. They do not realize they are trammeled by them. They think the choice open is between the facts they see and the ideal, and accordingly, as they think, select the latter. If is with that amount of science that our problems have in the past been solved in favor of the ideal by "the country as a whole." The results are known to all. The salvation of the country has been that under our institutions few root problems were submitted to it. In restricting immigration as it has, however, an unthinking Congress unwittingly voted greatly to encourage race suicide.

This was not only, as Judge Gary has so cogently pointed out, the most powerful blow ever inflicted upon our economic prosperity. It was unpatriotic. It put the axe to the root of America. It will be equally unimportant to dead and unborn Americans whether the America of the future is inhabited by the descendants of immigrants of Northern or Southern European blood.

A Critic Criticised.

Referring to your criticism in this morning's paper of General Pershing's advice to army officers as to the writing of their reports, we are moved to ask if by any chance the critic himself was nodding when he wrote the paragraph touching upon the General's recommendations of "brevity and conciseness." "Tautology" and "pleonasm" are not exactly synonymous, but their use can scarcely be said to contribute to brevity.

THE DARK HOUSE.

And watched for a light;
But never has so much as a candle
Broken the night.

And prayed for a sign
But never has a voice from within Answered mine.

In sorrow and fear;
Would they be so silent, who have entered,
If they could hear?

Though nothing else await me in the dark house
The night I go up the stair,
I shall learn if it is empty,
Or if they are there.

GERMAN CARDINAL GREETED.

City Officially Welcomes the Archbishop of Munich.

Michael Cardinal Rittar von Faulhaber, Archbishop of Munich, arrived yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner Bayern. He was welcomed at Quarantine and at the pier by Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, on behalf of the city and by many of the Catholic clergy and laity. From the pier at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street the Cardinal was driven to the archepiscopal residence at Fiftieth Street and Madison Avenue. A detail of motorcycle policemen escorted him through the city.

As the Bayern started from Quarantine the city's official welcoming boat, the Macon, came alongside with flags fluttering in the strong wind, and her delegation cheering from the rail. The Macon followed the Bayern up the North River, the music of the band on board sometimes drowning the cheers of the welcoming delegation.

The Cardinal expressed a desire to see New York harbor and he stood on deck until the Bayern reached its pier. Occasionally he lifted his broad-brimmed soft hat to those who greeted him from the Macon.

"The mission of a bishop is a mission of peace and I have come on this mission," he said. "I am anxious to meet the American people and thank them for what they have done and still are doing for the stricken people, especially for the poor children of my own country."

The first to welcome him when the steamer reached her pier were the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Joseph P. Dineen and the Rev. Stephen Donohue, who represented Archbishop Hayes. The Cardinal was escorted to the reception room on the pier where he was formally welcomed by Mr. Hulbert as the representative of the Mayor.

Mr. Hulbert greeted the Cardinal as an "ambassador of the Almighty," one bringing the good will of the German people. The Cardinal responded briefly. What America has done for Europe, he said, is a "golden leaf in history."

"No man," he said, "is able to grasp fully the greatness of the help of the United States. My voyage is not in the way of a political or propaganda nature. It is only a voyage bringing a message of thanks."

Cardinal von Faulhaber is the first German Cardinal to visit this country. He was created Cardinal after peace was declared, receiving the red hat a year ago last month.

WANTS A FIGHTING CHURCH.

Archbishop Curley Tells Women Catholics Have Too Much Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 19.—"The greatest work the Church has to do today is to broaden its outlook and get the fighting spirit," declared Archbishop Curley in a vigorous address at the annual meeting of the Baltimore Archdiocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women today.

Making a strong appeal for a "large organization of women in the Catholic Church, the Archbishop said:

"If you want peace, go to a cemetery. There has been too much peace in the Church. When a Church becomes too peaceful there is something wrong with the Church.

"The objects and principles planned by our far-visioned forefathers for this country will not be brought about by armies or navies but by education.

"There is another evil facing this country which a strong organization of Catholic women can do much to avert. America stands first in establishing and maintaining the principles of divorce. No country can exist long under these conditions without feeling the heavy hand of God. In this respect only the principles of the Catholic religion can save America."

Father Ryan said:

"We are not against the Oregon law solely because it hurts the Catholics. We are against it because it is un-American and unconstitutional. The public schools in this country will never be efficient, because they do not teach religion. If religion is taken from the schools of America it will sound the death knell of education in this country. Let it be understood that the Catholic schools are 100 per cent. American."

$25 TO SEE DUCHESS PASS.

High Prices for Seats Along Duke of York's Bridal Route Thursday.

LONDON, April 19 (Associated Press).—Reserved seats from which to watch the Duke of York and his bride as they go back to Buckingham Palace from the altar of Westminster Abbey next Thursday are about as expensive as places at a world's championship boxing match. Bleachers to accommodate 1,500 spectators have been put up across the street from the Abbey, and each sitting rents for five guineas. A guinea, these days, is the equivalent of about $5.

Occupants of buildings along the route the bridal pair will travel are already leasing window space for the wedding day.

It is necessary to go back more than 650 years in the records of Westminster Abbey to find a parallel to the ceremony which will take place there when the Duke is married to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon.

The last time a son of a reigning king married a commoner in the Abbey was in 1269, when Edmund Crouchback was wedded to Aveline of Lancaster, daughter of the Duke of Albemarle.

An interesting feature rising out of the fact that the Duke's bride will not go to her marriage from a royal palace will be the dispatching by the King of the royal coach to the home of Lady Elizabeth, in Bruton Street. In this vehicle, the bride, suitably escorted, and attired in a Florentine gown of ivory chiffon moire, will drive to the Abbey, accompanied by her father, the Earl of Strathmore.

When the coach arrives the bridal procession will enter the Abbey, preceded by the choir, which will sing "Lead Us, Heavenly Father, Lead Us." As the bride and bridegroom take their places in front of the altar, the Dean of Windsor will read the exhortation, after which the Archbishop of Canterbury will perform the actual marriage service, uniting "Albert Frederick Arthur George and Elizabeth Angela Marguerite."

Immediately after this part of the ceremony the choir will sing "God Be Merciful Unto Us and Bless Us." The Archbishop will then deliver the address, which will be followed by the hymn, "Praise, My Soul, the King of Heaven." Next will be sung the first verse of the national anthem, and immediately after it the choir will render the anthem, "Beloved, Let Us Love One Another," which was composed especially for Princess Mary's wedding. The Mendelssohn march will conclude the service.

OFFICIALS AID MOTHER'S DAY

Government Orders Flags Flown—Men in Service to Write Home.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—Official distinction has been lent to Mother's Day observance this year by the promise of Government officials to co-operate with Miss Anne Jarvis, President and founder of the Mother's Day Association, it was announced today. The day will be observed on the second Sunday in May.

Secretary of War Weeks, in a communication to Miss Jarvis, said: "Instructions for the observance of Mother's Day, similar to those of last year, are being issued." These instructions will call for the display of the American Flag on all public buildings, schools, homes, and all suitable places. In addition, all soldiers, sailors and marines in the service of the United States will be urged to write home to their mothers.

Letters have also been received from John T. Axton, Chief of Chaplains, Washington, D. C., and Governor E. P. Pollock, of Tutuila, American Samoa, pledging their aid in assuring a proper observance of the day.

LASKER REJECTS OFFER FOR VESSELS

$100,000 EACH FOR 3 SHIPS

Men Plead for a Chance to Prove That They Can Operate at a Profit.

The offer of $300,000 for the three Shipping Board vessels, the Pomona, the Hanley and the Hannawa, made by the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, was rejected by A. D. Lasker, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, in a letter to the association, which yesterday made public the text of the communication. The offer made by the association, Mr. Lasker asserts, was approximately only one-third the lowest sale price announced by the Shipping Board for the vessels in question. The Marine Engineers Beneficial Association in beginning negotiations for the ships said it hoped to buy a fleet of the vessels for the transatlantic and lake trade. Chairman Lasker's letter follows:

"Marine Engineers Beneficial Association,
"29 Park Place, N. Y. City.
"Gentlemen:

"I have for acknowledgement your communication of April 12 indicating that you are prepared to purchase from the board the steamers Hanley, Hannawa and Pomona for the sum of $100,000 each.

"The board's minimum price for steel cargo vessels of the type mentioned is the equivalent of $30 per deadweight ton, and as the offer indicated equals less than $10 per deadweight ton, obviously it cannot be considered favorably.

"If you will submit an offer equaling the board's minimum price, the matter will be given immediate consideration.

"Very truly yours,
"A. D. LASKER,
"Chairman."

Replying to Chairman Lasker the Association last night sent him a letter calling Mr. Lasker's attention to the 1,200 vessels the Shipping Board has been unable to sell at the rates demanded; and further reminding him that 300 of those ships were being operated under conditions which Mr. Lasker is said to have described as "vicious." The association said that 900 of the shipping vessels were lying idle, at great expense to the Government, and maintained that its offer could be accepted without weakening any policy of the United States Shipping Board. The letter said in part:

"Our offer to purchase three vessels certainly is not an ordinary offer and should not be classified with other offers. We men want to prove to you, to the Administration and to the American public that American vessels can be operated profitably notwithstanding the so-called high standard of American wages on ships, which has been continually made the excuse for damning the American vessels, as being the reason for the inability to operate American vessels in competition on account of higher wages of the men.

"As a matter of fact, the very fact that we offer you cash for vessels should convince operators and their bankers that vessels do have a value, since, judging from the current newspaper articles on the subject, it appears that American vessels are nothing but a liability, and every owner and operator and the Shipping Board all are losing money. Now, if we men can prove that these vessels do not have to lose money, the board's vessels will become assets, and we therefore render you a service that nobody else has offered to you.

"I regret to say there is a feeling among the men that the board may not wish to sell vessels to us, since the pressure of the steamship owners and operators upon the board would be tremendous to prevent the board to sell to us, as they do not wish to have us prove the fact that American vessels can be operated without being handicapped by reasons of the wages paid the navigating officers, the seamen and last, but not least, the marine engineers.

"You will please accept from us our assurance that we men want nothing more or less than as near as many of our men employed as possible, and if the ship owners and operators purchase vessels they have the best of our cooperation in their vessels, but if they do not purchase vessels and the American merchant marine is allowed to be whittled and dwindled down by layups and a meandering management the result will be that we men will be disfranchised from working at our calling and the eventual outcome will be no real merchant marine for the United States and a horrible waste of a national asset.

"We know that you yourself are doing your best to avoid this very condition and we merely wish to help you and we want your co-operation to bring about the result that we all are asking for.

"There is one thing we wish to point out to you: Vessels owned and operated by the Marine Engineers and Associated Marine Workers will always be available for the army or navy service without asking Uncle Sam to pay profiteering rates.

"The licensed officers, navigating officers as well as marine engineers, and merchant marine men of the United States were practically never spoken of during the war, although we men served faithfully 100 per cent. under the colors; and now we men are entitled to this opportunity to operate vessels and show the American public that we know how and that there is no necessity of scraping American vessels."

SEES MORE RESPECT FOR WOMEN ABROAD

GUEST AT RECEPTION HERE

Back From Her Home on the Riviera to Work for Women's National Party.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who has returned to this country from her French home on the Riviera, where she spent the Winter, to work for the National Woman's Party, of which she is President, says that she considers that the status of the French women and of European women in general is better than that of the American. Mrs. Belmont said this in an interview at the New York City branch of the party, 38 East Forty-ninth Street, where a reception was given in her honor yesterday.

"I saw a French man hand over all his money to his wife and I did not understand and I asked what it meant," she said. "The man said that his wife always took charge of the money, that she would see that it was properly spent, that nothing was wasted and that something was saved. If he kept it, he might spend some of it carelessly, but the wife never would. You would not find an American man doing that; but, then, perhaps the American women are not worthy of it; they might not be so careful and saving. Women assist their husbands in business in France and they always take care of the money. French women have always done it.

"French women are not as much interested in the advancement of women as we, for they have already so many privileges and are so much respected. A French woman as well as the husband must give her consent before her children are married, and she has equal rights with the children in her husband's estate. The older a French woman is, the more she is respected, and her opinion is considered of value. Her children respect her as no children respect their parents over here. And there are no flappers in France," she added.

Speaking of what she considered a different atmosphere toward women in America Mrs. Belmont said:

"You begin to feel humiliated the minute you get into this country. When you go through the customs you have to sign all sorts and kinds of papers, and then they don't believe anything you have said and tear your trunks all to pieces. I don't know why you have to sign anything at all.

"All Europe is in a terrible condition. People who come from Germany say that among the middle classes they are actually selling their clothes for food. No, there is no unemployment in France. There have left as many men that they have not enough to carry on. They have not as many as they need in the Ruhr. There were a great many people in France who objected to the country going into Germany, but I don't see what else France could do. Germany had no intention of paying and has no intention of paying. If any one owed me anything and wouldn't pay, I would go and try to get it."

At the reception yesterday Mrs. Marcus M. Marks, Chairman of the City Committee, made the address of welcome. There was no formal speechmaking.

A resolution was unanimously passed protesting against the unjust sex discrimination in taking the names of women in a recent dance hall on Riverside Drive while the "men were shooed off without having their names and addresses in the daily papers.

Present at the reception were Mrs. Stephen Pell, Mrs. Osgood Pell, Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, Mrs. Dunlevy Milbank, Mrs. John Winters Brannan, Mrs. Alfred Rossin, Mrs. John Jay White, Countess de Castelvecchio, Mrs. William May Wright, Mrs. John Rogers Jr. and Mrs. Robert Adamson.

MRS. MacKAY GETS DIVORCE.

Mother Confirms Report of Decree in Reno a Month Ago.

Friends in New York learned yesterday that more than a month ago Mrs. Vida Dodge MacKay obtained a divorce from Stewart G. MacKay of this city in Reno, where she established a residence so quietly that few if any of her friends knew that there had been a rift in the marital affairs of the couple, whose marriage in this city in April of last year was a social event.

Both Mr. MacKay and Mrs. Washington Dodge, mother of Mrs. MacKay, last night confirmed the report that a decree had been granted on the ground of cruelty. The suit was not contested. Mrs. Dodge said that the couple "just were not happy together," and that her daughter "just simply got a divorce." Both Mrs. Dodge and her daughter are at the Hotel Plaza.

Mrs. Dodge said they expected to make their home in San Francisco. After the death of Dr. Washington Dodge of San Francisco, Mrs. Dodge and her daughter lived in New York until the latter's marriage last year. Mrs. MacKay is the daughter of M. La Fontaine, a Paris broker, from whom she inherited a large fortune a short time before her marriage. MacKay is the son of the late Donald Sage MacKay. He was graduated from Williams College a year before his marriage.

'ANDY' M'DONALD DIES, GOV. SMITH'S OLD 'PAL'

Detective Sergeant, Who Was Body Guard, Succumbs Suddenly at 50 Years.

Detective Sergeant Andrew McDonald, for forty-one years a "pal" of Governor Alfred E. Smith, and who was the Governor's personal bodyguard on visits to this city, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday morning in his home at 346 Union Street, Brooklyn. McDonald was with the Governor at the opening of the Yankees' baseball stadium on Wednesday afternoon, and was the last man to shake hands with the State's Chief Executive when he started for the Capitol in Albany that night.

When word of the detective's death reached Governor Smith in Albany later in the day he said: "Andy and I were pals since 1882. His death is a personal loss to me."

McDonald might have been a power in Tammany circles in the old Fourth Ward, on the lower east side, where he was born fifty years ago, had it not been for his boyhood craving to be a policeman. He was one of a group of young men who got behind "Big Tom" Foley when the latter, more than twenty years ago, decided to wrest the Tammany leadership of his district, which is in the shadow of the Brooklyn Bridge, from the late Patrick J. Divver.

He and Smith were considered leaders of the group, and it has repeatedly been said that it was not a little through "Andy" McDonald's influence that his boyhood chum was selected a few years after Foley became leader as the representative of the district in the Assembly. "Andy" saw Smith steadily rise in political power, but, although they were together most of the time that Smith was not in Albany, McDonald shooed off suggestions that he quit the police force and accept remunerative public office.

He was appointed to the police force on Aug. 1, 1899, and a few years later became a detective. He was assigned to detective work in various parts of the city, but invariably managed to meet his friend when he came down from Albany for the week-end, and this practice kept up even when Smith became Speaker of the Assembly, and after that Sheriff of New York, President of the Board of Aldermen and eventually Governor.

McDonald was promoted to the rank of first grade detective on Nov. 16, 1918. He was attached to the Wall Street detective squad at the time. His promotion came after he had received meritorious recognition from the Police Commissioner for capturing a band of thieves who had organized to rob messengers employed by banks and brokerage firms in the district.

McDonald was born in Cherry, near Catharine Street, on March 30, 1875. He and Governor Smith were schoolmates in old St. James Parochial School at James Street and New Bowery. When he was graduated he engaged in business in the vicinity of Fulton Fish Market, where Governor Smith first found employment at the age of 13.

When he returned home on Wednesday night he gave no intimation to his wife Mary that he was in ill health. He retired immediately, but when he arose yesterday morning and walked into the dining room of his apartment he collapsed. Mrs. McDonald summoned Dr. Sylvester J. McNamara from his home across the street, and the detective died half an hour after his arrival.

CAPT. EDW. THOMPSON DIES IN HIS 80TH YEAR

Former Law Publisher Was the Sole Surviving Member of the Famous Rassapeague Club.

Captain Edward Thompson, former head of the Thompson Law Publishing Company and for fifty years a resident of Northport, L. I., died at his home in Bayshore, L. I., Wednesday. He was in his eightieth year. Mr. Thompson came to this country from Ireland as a stowaway when he was 7 years old. For several years he worked at various jobs in and around New York and eventually went into the publishing business. Among his activities was that of oyster growing, and he frequently operated in real estate.

Schley, had died with the exception of Mr. Thompson. He then acquired title to the club and continued to patronize it as the sole member.

Mr. Thompson had been village President of Northport and a Director of the bank there. He was at one time a member of the State Fisheries Commission. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. M. Blair Wallis, wife of the President of the Edward Thompson Company. # MORRISON ATTACKS GARY'S LABOR VIEWS

Declares Big Industrial Employers Would Flood Country With Cheap Labor.

Secretary of A. F. of L. Praises Non-Partisan Activity—Attacks Foster's League.

Criticising Judge Elbert H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation, and other large employers of labor, as desiring great masses of labor at their own price, and the importation of millions of workers from other countries to reduce the wages of American workingmen, Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor yesterday declared that the Federation was absolutely opposed to the large corporations "exploiting the workers here or elsewhere."

Addressing the convention of the United Matters of North America at the Broadway Central Hotel, Mr. Morrison said:

"A few days ago you read the statement of Mr. Gary who said the steel industry was being hampered by lack of sufficient workers. If you read most of the stories of that kind carefully you will see that they speak of a danger of a shortage of labor to do work necessary at the present time.

"The tariff on steel prevents anything with steel in it from being imported and sold here at a profit as against local steel. Since its inception the great steel industry has been protected by a tariff. That is all right for the steel industry, but they do not want the workers to be protected. What they want is to see three men for every job, as in 1914, when the packing houses, for instance, had several hundred idle men at each gate as a silent warning to the men who asked higher wages that the men ready to take their jobs were at hand.

Labor's Views on Immigration.

"The American Federation of Labor is not opposed to immigration, with this exception: It is opposed to the bringing of Orientals here. Our civilization cannot survive if Orientals are permitted to come here and take the place of our workers.

"Mr. Gary's representative during the war said that 4,000,000 Chinese could be brought here to work on the farms when the boys were in the trenches. He knew that if they went on the farms the Americans could not compete with them, and the Americans would be driven to the steel mills. The packing houses wanted to bring in millions of men. They had no thought of the millions of unemployed several years ago.

"Mr. Gary does not want workers so much as he wants cheap labor. He claims he cannot get men, but he only wants to pay a certain wage. Labor will not work for that wage, but Gary wants to bring in millions of men to reduce the wages of the workers here. Those employers have in mind to put us back to the condition we were in in 1914.

"The war stopped immigration. Under the present law the quotas from England, Ireland and the Scandinavian countries and Germany are not exhausted, but the quotas from the Balkan countries are.

"The American Federation of Labor favored stopping immigration for four years after the war. It was not successful in putting its policy through. A 3 per cent. law was adopted, and through this law we were able to get the assurance that only those would be permitted to come here who could get employment and who would not displace men with jobs. That is a fair proposition. We did not want to make greater unemployment.

"In the building industry it is claimed that there is a shortage in some skilled trades, but you know what a seasonal occupation is. It would be dangerous to bring in millions of workers to do in a few months what can be done in a year, so that when the work is done in the shorter time there would be great unemployment. I want to tell you that the immigration law will protect those who are here and those who may come."

Mr. Morrison attacked Wm. Z. Foster's Trade Union Educational League, and the idea of independent political action by labor. He praised the American Federation of Labor's non-partisan political attitude of "rewarding your friends and punishing your enemies," and said that renewed activity toward the formation of labor unions had been noted recently. During the first sixteen days of this month the federation issued twice as many charters as during the same period last year, he said.

Referring to the idea of the amalgamation of all crafts in an industry into "one big union," now being pushed by Foster, Mr. Morrison pointed out that in 1901 the convention of the American Federation of Labor declared that it was to the interest of the trade union movement for the crafts closely allied in an industry to give consideration to amalgamation. Such a course was recommended to the affiliated unions, he said, but because the American Federation of Labor was a democratic body it opposed the use of force and would not say that unions "must amalgamate."

"No matter what may be said about the federation not traveling fast enough," said Mr. Morrison, "it is well to know that rules and laws are made each year at the convention. The policy of the convention can be changed at any time and the constitution can be changed by a two-thirds vote. Talk about moving slowly. Years ago the International Typographical Union had a fifty-nine hour week scale. It now has the forty-four hour week. It spent $4,000,000 to get the eight-hour day. It spent $14,000,000 a year ago last May to put into effect the forty-four hour week, and 3,000 men still on strike for that principle are being supported by union funds."

Mr. Morrison defended the A. F. of L.'s policy of non-partisan political action and said it was a great success during the last campaign. Nearly all of the 126 new Representatives and 16 new Senators were friendly to organized labor, he said.

A—The new surface is perfect. It makes your disc the quietest record you ever heard.

B—The wear is the same as with the regular process.

All Columbia Records are now made by the new process

EVERY Columbia Record made since the Columbia new process was perfected, has been constructed with the super-quiet new surface.

Not only has this added musical charm been given to the rich symphonic selections, but also to the songs of the hour, the latest dance music, and the always dear old-fashioned melodies.

Never since the phonograph was invented have the music-loving public been able to listen to phonographic music so nearly like the original in unmarred melody, so delightfully free from the scratch and scrape of needle noise.

This never-before-known surface quietness results from the Columbia process of constructing records in layers or leaves—a hard centre core overlaid with a material of such exquisite smoothness that the noise of needle friction is never created.

As an example of this great musical accomplishment go to any Columbia Dealer and ask to hear record A-3831. It is "Peggy Dear," one of the latest fox-trots, gloriously played by the Happy Six. It is like listening to the orchestra itself. And as you listen, note the absence of that old, irritating grinding sound of the needle.

All Columbia New Process Records are equally delightful. They can be played on any phonograph.

DEFINES THE RIGHTS OF U. S.-OWNED SHIPS

State Department Does Not Demand in Foreign Ports the Status of Public Ships.

NOTIFIES ALL SEA POWERS

Privilege Is Insisted Upon of Giving Surety for Claims and So Releasing Ships Detained.

FRENCH SEE SHIFT IN POLICY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 19.—The American Embassy today handed the Quai d'Orsay a note stating that the American Government did not contend that ships operated by the United States Shipping Board were entitled to the rights usually accorded to the public ships of a foreign nation in the ports of the world.

This is taken here as representing a certain shift of attitude on the part of Washington, for there have been incidents of individual Commanders of Shipping Board boats asserting the right to exemption from local port laws applying to shipping generally on the ground that theirs were Government boats. The American note says:

"The United States will not claim that ships operated by or on behalf of the United States Shipping Board, when engaged in commercial pursuits, are entitled to immunity from arrest or to other special advantages which are generally accorded the public vessels of a foreign nation. Such ships when so operated will be permitted to be subject to the laws of foreign countries which apply under otherwise like conditions to privately owned merchant ships foreign to such countries."

The note states, however, that Washington reserves the right on occasion, to apply the provision of the Suits in Admiralty act of 1920 by virtue of which it might claim exemption from arrest in particular cases or in other cases might use the consular machinery of the United States to obtain the release of vessels held by pledging the credit of the Government of the United States to the payment of any judgment which can be entered against them.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The State Department made public today the instructions to be sent to all diplomatic officers accredited to maritime nations, informing them of the position of the United States relative to Shipping Board vessels that might be attached in a foreign port. In the communication the diplomatic officers are informed of the law which makes American vessels operated by the Shipping Board immune from arrest and requires the American Government to give surety to the foreign courts for any judgment that be entered against the vessels.

There has been some misunderstanding, according to Shipping Board officials, as to the law governing vessels operated by the board with the result that some vessels have been held up in foreign ports through ignorance of the law and the failure of the consuls and other American officials to furnish surety.

LARKIN ARRESTED AS ALIEN ANARCHIST

Will Welcome Deportation, He Says—England May Not Admit Him, His Counsel Asserts.

James J. Larkin, the Irish labor agitator who was pardoned from Sing Sing by Governor Alfred E. Smith on Jan. 17, was rearrested yesterday and taken to Ellis Island, where he will be held pending instructions from Washington as to arrangements for his deportation.

Larkin was arrested shortly after 3 o'clock at 323 West Thirty-third Street by Special Agents Davis and Gurevich of the Department of Justice and Lieutenant Gegan and Detective Kelly of the bomb squad on a warrant issued by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, charging Larkin with being an alien anarchist.

At Police Headquarters Larkin laughed and chatted with the detectives, and on leaving shook hands all around, saying: "Well, I guess it's back to the old country this time all right, and I'm glad of it. If ever you come to Ireland, look me up. You'll find me at Liberty Hall in Dublin."

At Ellis Island, one of the attendants laughingly inquired for his baggage.

"Everything I own is on my back," replied Larkin. "I'm like the man in Whitman's poem, 'Free and light-hearted I take to the open road.'"

Jeremiah O'Leary, Larkin's lawyer, said last night that his client was eager to leave America.

"Larkin has been trying for weeks to leave this country," he said, "but owing to difficulties in obtaining passports and other necessary papers, he has been unable to do so. He has even offered to pay his own passage, and will do so now if the Government will permit him to leave.

"But there is a question as to whether the British Government will permit him to land. They may bar him from England, and they may even bar him from Ireland. If they do, where is he to go?

"They can deport him all right. A man convicted of criminal anarchy automatically loses all rights to citizenship, and Larkin has forfeited his. But what the Government intends to do is more than I can say."

Larkin was convicted of criminal anarchy in April, 1920, and was sentenced by Justice Weeks in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court to from five to ten years in prison.

Want South Ferry Name Changed.

The Traffic Committee of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce has been requested by the Board of Directors of that body to urge upon the proper city authorities the change of the name "South Ferry" at the lower end of Manhattan Island to "Staten Island Ferry." The committee was also asked to communicate with the transit companies on Staten Island and asked them to have cars marked "St. George Ferry" or "Manhattan Ferry" instead of "New York," as at present.

World Check Radical Rows With Big Flag at Meetings

Alderman William Solomon, representing the upper east side, will introduce at the next meeting of the board an amendment to the Code of Ordinances calling for the display of the national colors in a size not less than three by four feet at public meetings. This decision was reached upon result of a near-riot at a Socialist meeting at 116th Street and Lenox Avenue last Wednesday night.

When police officers in trying to restore order demanded that the management of the meeting display the national colors their attention was directed to a small flag suspended from the platform. It could barely be seen from the centre of the hall. When the officers inquired why the flag was not larger the Socialists replied that the ordinance did not prescribe any particular size.

INSISTS ON RIGHT TO WARD CABLES

HOLDS INQUIRY JUSTIFIED

Attorney General Invites Weeks, Rowland and Mack to Testify at Albany Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 19.—Justice Staley today received the brief of Attorney General Sherman in support of his contention that the cablegrams which passed between George S. Ward and his son, Ralph D. Ward, should be turned over to the State for use in his inquiry into the slaying of Clarence Peters, for which Walter S. Ward was indicted.

Justice Staley has the messages locked in a vault in the County Clerk's office and is expected to announce his decision in a day or so. Meanwhile the Attorney General plans to continue the inquiry tomorrow and has invited Frederick E. Weeks, former District Attorney of Westchester County; Arthur Rowland, District Attorney, and John E. Mack, special Prosecutor, to appear.

"The Attorney General," the State's brief sets forth, "in the investigation has charged no one with a crime and the investigation is directed at no particular person. An honest effort is being made to ascertain the whole truth of the matter and to find out whether there is additional procurable evidence other than that which was in the possession of the District Attorney and which would justify a recommendation of further proceedings and the incurring of additional expense."

Defending the Peace and Safety act under which the investigation is being held, the Attorney General declares: "We do not find that the statute has been passed upon by the court but a similar statute (Section 8 of the Executive law) giving the Governor and the persons appointed by him power to subpoena and enforce the attendance of witnesses, to administer oaths and examine witnesses under oath and to require the production of books and papers deemed relevant or material has been upheld (Peo. v. Anhut, 182 App. Div. 517)."

Discussing the materiality of the cablegrams the Attorney General says: "The plaintiff Walter S. Ward took the life of Clarence E. Peters. Was he justified in doing it? Was said Peters in concert with others in a conspiracy to exhort money from Ward? Even this would hardly be justification for the killing. His claim is in substance that he fired the shot that caused Peters's death in self-defense, and that the act was brought about by the blackmailing scheme."

CABLE RATES REDUCED.

Western Union and Commercial Announce Cuts.

The Western Union Telegraph Company announces a reduction in transatlantic cable rates effective April 20. The rate to Great Britain and Ireland is reduced from 25 cents to 20 cents a word, and there are corresponding reductions to other European countries.

Deferred cablegrams, which travel in subordination to full-rate traffic, take one-half the full rate. The new reduced rate for a deferred cablegram to England, for example, is 10 cents per word and to France 11 cents. For overnight cable letters to Great Britain the rate is 6 cents per word for a minimum of 20 words. Week-end letters, which may be filed at any time until midnight Saturday and are delivered Monday morning, take a rate of 6 cents per word, with a minimum of 20 words.

The Commercial Cable Company announced these reductions effective today: to Great Britain and Ireland 20 cents a word; France 22, Belgium 13, Germany 25, Italy 26, Spain 33, Portugal 35, Greece 35, Switzerland 27. A corresponding reduction has been made to other places in Southern Europe, Asia and Africa.

CHESTER MAY COMPROMISE.

Paris Thinks French and American Concessionnaires May Get Together.

PARIS, April 19 (Associated Press).—A French protest in connection with the concessions granted the American syndicate for the development of Anatolia has been handed the Turkish representative in Paris, Raghib Bey. This protest is similar to the one recently sent to Angora. French representations to the United States, in the form of an exchange of views, are in progress in Washington, with the American embassy in Paris uninformed regarding the nature of the discussion.

The impression seems to be growing here that an understanding is likely to be reached privately between the American and French interests concerning the Sanzun-Sivas Railway. Clayton Kennedy, one of the organizers of the American project, is returning to Constantinople with the expectation of stopping off at Lausanne.

Unless a private arrangement is reached the French, it is stated, are prepared to demand from the Turks either indemnity for the work done in laying the roadbed along this line or the renewal of the concession.

J.F. Lamynot Belth, Second Secretary of the United States embassy here, left Paris today for Lausanne in connection with the reassembling there of the Near East Peace Conference. Secretary Belin was assigned to the conference because of his acquaintance with Turkish affairs through having been previously stationed in Turkey and his experience as secretary to the American delegation at the first Lausanne meeting.

Bank Association Directors Meet.

Directors of the First Federal Foreign Banking Association re-elected on Tuesday met Wednesday and re-elected the officers and the Executive and Advisory Management Committees. R. B. Jones was elected to the Advisory Management Committee in the place of the late F. B. Francis.

ADMITS PLASTERERS ACTED ARBITRARITY

Joseph C. Cowan Is Uncertain About Complaint Mentioned in Indictment.

Patrick J Devine Recording Secretary of Plasterers' Union Local 60, testified yesterday at the trial in Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court of thirty-six of the union's officers on a conspiracy indictment that on one occasion the Executive Committee of the union compelled an employer to re-employ a foreman, although the man had been discharged for "laying down" on his work.

The witness also read from the minutes of the Executive Committee an entry showing that the union had ordered a contractor to discharge a non-union foreman on the complaint of members of the union, but Devine said he was unable to state what the grievance of the plasterers was. Emil Gelb, a contractor, Devine said, was suspended on the complaint of some of the members that he had not paid his men promptly. Devine admitted that it was not made clear whether the contractor actually owed any of his men money.

Joseph C. Cowan, head of J. C. Cowan, contractors, who is one of the complaining witnesses mentioned in the indictment, was the next witness.

Samuel Untermyer, Special Deputy Attorney General, endeavored to show that Cowan lost $1,100 in April, 1922, because the union forced him to pay 250 plasterers a full day's pay when they had not worked. Cowan's memory proved poor about the incident.

When he was being questioned by Jonah J. Goldstein, counsel for the accused men, Cowan recalled that he told his foreman to tell the union men that they would be paid the next day, and he did pay them.

Mr. Goldstein reminded him that the indictment charged the union officials with conspiring to destroy Cowan's firm and added: "Can you point out a single one of these defendants who did a single act to destroy your business?"

"I can't say that I can," replied the contractor.

Patrick J. Durkin, a plastering contractor, of 325 West Forty-fifth Street, said that he became involved in difficulties with the union officials over the use of imitation travertine. The union, he said, objected to the color and the quality of the travertine, and the work was held up for three weeks. Eventually, he added, 5 per cent. of the work had to be taken down at his expense. The trial will be continued this morning.

FINED FOR INDUCING BOY TO BECOME TRUANT

Well-to-Do Bootblack Stand Proprietor Took Lad From School to Shine Shoes.

"Shine, Mister!" asked 8-year-old Vincenzo Monda as Patrick J. Fay passed a bootblack stand at Second Avenue and Sixth Street yesterday morning. Fay, a truant officer, thought he was on the scent of another case and sat patiently in the bootblack's chair while the youngster made his shoes glisten. Then Fay asked a few questions of Leonard Werra, 31 years old, proprietor of the stand, and arrested Werra on a charge of willingly contributing and aiding in making a schoolboy a deliberate truant.

When the boy was arraigned before Magistrate George W. Simpson it was discovered that Werra not only is wealthy, and owns a beautiful home at 468 Richmond Avenue, Staten Island, which he values at $35,000. His wife is the owner of Staten Island property valued at $50,000.

Fay told Magistrate Simpson that Werra went to the public school which the Monda boy attended at 344 East Fourteenth Street on Feb. 2, and, representing himself to school officials as a brother of the boy, took the lad away. He told Miss Jennie Levy, Vincenzo's teacher, that he wanted the boy transferred to another school, which he named, and she made out a regular transfer slip. A check-up by school officials revealed that the boy had not been transferred. Magistrate Simpson, who fined Werra $10, said he would rather send him to jail, but that under the law a fine only could be imposed.

It was a big day for the Municipal Term Court, Monday, when 100 parents were arraigned for violations of the school laws. Nine were sentenced to jail, six fathers and three mothers. Three fathers received two days in the Tombs and three were sentenced to five days. Three mothers were sentenced to serve one day each. Those who were sentenced had their choice of paying fines or going to jail. Only one man paid a fine.

Joseph L. Coppinger, District Superintendent of Schools, who was in charge of the truancy cases, asked the court to impose maximum penalties in each case.

GOVERNOR WON'T SEND PET MONKEY FOR SHOW

Tells Humane Society Superintendent He Is Unwilling to Risk Animal's Health.

The most prized animal in the menagerie belonging to the children of Governor Alfred E. Smith is the monkey, it became known last night, when correspondence between the Governor and Harry D. Moran, Superintendent of the Humane Society of New York, 44 Seventh Avenue, was made public.

Mr. Moran, whose organization is given a children's pet show in Washington Square Park on May 19, wrote the Governor asking for the loan of the monkey, to exhibit in the show, which is being given for the purpose of educating children in kindness to animals. The Governor wrote:

"Dear Mr. Moran—I have your telegram following our conversation at the Biltmore. The gorilla you speak of is a monkey, not a gorilla, and I do not see how he could be brought to New York without danger, as this particular species of monkey that we have cannot be moved around or subjected to sudden changes in climate. I came near losing him getting him up to Albany, and I am satisfied that the children would be entirely unwilling to take a chance bringing him down to New York. It would probably be better to put one of the other animals in the show, and if you will write to me nearer that date I can arrange it.

"Give my kindest regards and best wishes to all the Moran family, and I am pleased to know that it is a large-sized one. Sincerely yours,

"ALFRED E. SMITH."

Mr. Moran's reference to his family mentioned by Governor Smith follows: "The Moran family had six budding citizens on your first election, full-fledged Democrats on your second and two more when you are candidate for President."

Jonnart and Bremond Elected 'Immortals'; Deadlock at Paris Over a Third Vacancy

PARIS, April 19 (Associated Press).—Two vacancies in the ranks of the "Forty Immortals" were filled today, the successful candidates being Charles C. A. Jonnart and the Rev. Henri Bremond.

Senator Jonnart was elected on the fourth ballot and Father Bremond on the second. The latter was chosen to occupy the seat in the French Academy made vacant by the death of Bishop Duchesne, while Senator Jonnart will take that occupied by the late President Paul Deschanel.

Previously the members of the Academy had failed in an attempt to elect a successor to the late Jean Aicard. With thirty Academicians voting, six ballots resulted in a deadlock, fourteen votes each being cast for Professor Louis Madelin and Abel Hermant, the other two votes going to Georges de Porto-Riche. This election was then postponed.

Former Premier Clemenceau, Pierre Loti and Marshal Lyautey were absent. The "Tiger" is not entitled to a vote, as, although he was elected an Academician, he has refused to be officially received into membership. Charles de Freycinet, Marshal Joffre, Premier Poincaré and Anatole France took part in the balloting, the last named entering the Academy for the first time in many years.

Charles Celestin Auguste Jonnart, long a member of the Senate, a member of numerous Cabinets and now Ambassador at the Vatican, was born in the Department of Pas-de-Calais in 1857 and has had a distinguished career as a statesman and diplomat, achieving repute in these lines rather than as a literary man. One of his achievements was his action as a representative of the Allies at Athens late in 1917, when he took hold of the difficult political situation there, forced the abdication of King Constantine and thus obtained the ultimate alignment of Greece on the side of the Allies. His principal opponent in the balloting today was Charles Maurras, the Royalist writer, a lieutenant of Leon Daudet on the Royalist organ, D'Action Francaise.

Father Bremond was born in Aix-en-Provence and is best known as the author of "A Literary History of French Religious Tendencies from the End of the War of Religions Until 1900."

His entire literary outputs deals with religious topics. He has written works on the lives of Fenelon (Francois de Salignac de la Mothe-Fenelon), Thomas Keble and Sir Thomas More, and is also the author of a volume on "The Evolution of the Clergy of the Church of England."

BELFORD AGAIN ASSAILS DRY LAWS

Brooklyn Pastor Declares He Will Do All in His Power to Repeal Prohibition.

The Rev. John L. Belford, pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of the Nativity, Madison Street and Classon Avenue, Brooklyn, in an address to the members of the 12:45 Club, composed of Flatbush business men, at a weekly luncheon held at Oetjen's restaurant, on Church Avenue, yesterday assailed the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act and asserted that he would do all in his power to see them repealed or amended.

Father Belford caused considerable surprise among his hearers when he said, "I have heard of one official not far from here who received $80,000 a short time ago to allow a large quantity of liquor to come into Brooklyn." He added that he had heard of a national legislator who boasted of having received $150,000 to vote for the Volstead act and who said when questioned concerning it, "I admit it, but you can't prove it." Father Belford also told the diners that he heard that one of the members of the Senate was intoxicated when he cast his vote for the measure.

Later in the day when seen at his residence and asked if he cared to give any further information concerning the official who took the $80,000 Father Belford laid emphasis on the fact that he said that he had only "heard" of this transaction and that he did not personally witness it. "But," he added, "if I saw the man get it and had ten witnesses to support me, I would not give his name. The story is pretty commonly known down on Long Island, and it would not be very hard for me to put my hand on him. But why should one person be punished when they are all doing the same? Why pick out an individual when everybody is doing it?"

In regard to the charge that one of the legislators had boasted of receiving $150,000 for his vote in favor of the Volstead Act, Father Belford said: "Everybody in Washington has heard that story. I am not a detective. I am not in the employ of the Government. It is not part of my duty to mention the man's name."

In his address Father Belford said: "If there is anything more contemptible than the Volstead act in this world I do not know what it is. The law is not a just one. No unjust law has ever lived. Unless the people observe the law peacefully it cannot live, and it will be thrown into the discard and then the United States will not be the laughing stock of the world."

RYAN DENIES GIRL'S CHARGE.

Admits Payments to Muriel Sharp—Calls Them Voluntary Gifts.

In a replying affidavit filed yesterday in Justice Benedict's part of the Brooklyn Supreme Court, Clendenin J. Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, denies making a contract with Muriel Sharp with a provision for her of a life annuity of $500 a month. He admits certain payments mentioned in the suit brought in Nassau County by Miss Sharp to recover $500, but declares these payments represented merely voluntary gifts. Ryan's affidavit is submitted in connection with his application to the court for transfer of the suit from Nassau to Kings County.

Miss Sharp alleged in her complaint that Ryan had agreed to pay her $500 monthly as rental of an apartment in Manhattan, in which one room was always to be reserved for his use as a library. Out of these payments Miss Sharp had paid the rent and payments were continued until recently, after she had moved to 24 East Fifty-first Street. When payments ceased the suit was started to test the validity of the contract, according to the plaintiff.

Ryan also denied allegations that he had induced Miss Sharp to leave the home of her parents to maintain an apartment for him, or for any other reason. The court reserved decision.

ALBANY, April 19.—James Canavan of Albany and George M. Colvert of Syracuse, blind veterans of the World War, were witnesses today when Governor Smith signed the Kiernan bill which provides an annuity of $500 for life to New York service men who became totally blind through their military service.

CUBAN BREWERS VIE FOR HULBERT FAVOR

Held as Bootlegger While Crew Make Complaint of Ill Treatment.

The fondness of Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, for Cuban beer and his statements upon his return from Havana a few weeks ago regarding the beneficial results of beer drinking before going to bed have started a sharp controversy among the brewers in the Cubans' capital.

The Polar Brewery in Havana is using Hulbert's name to boost its brand of beer, according to a letter received yesterday by him from an official of La Tropical Tivoli, a rival brewery. The writer of the letter declared that it was La Tropical Tivoli's output which he drank while in Havana.

"It will please me very much," the official wrote, "and I know it will please our company, if you would positively state that the brand of beer you drank was La Tropical and not La Polar. You will remember that the beer which you drank at the country club and at the Hotel Union, where you were staying, was the Tropical brand, as they do not sell any other kind there."

"If the truth must be told," Mr. Hulbert told reporters yesterday, "what I drank every night before going to bed in Cuba would, if measured accurately, correspond to what the boys in the good old days would rapturously refer to as a 'bucket of suds.' I used to have it sent to my room every night before I went to bed."

"But what brand did you drink?" he was asked.

"My reply is that all Cuban beer is good beer. I tried all brands."

When Captain Simon Larsen and a member of the crew of the Danish freighter Rolf, which arrived Wednesday from Cuba and anchored off Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, appeared at the Battery yesterday with their pockets bulging with liquor, apparently for the purpose of "bootlegging," customs agents went immediately in a motor launch to the vessel and made a search for more contraband "wet" goods. They said they found 101 cases which were included in the ship's manifest, but in addition discovered considerable liquor concealed in various parts of the vessel which had not been declared.

Six members of the crew and the captain were later taken before Edward Barnes, Assistant Solicitor for the Port, for a preliminary hearing, prior to turning them over to the United States District Attorney's office.

Assistant Solicitor Barnes said that several of the seamen complained bitterly to the customs agents of the treatment they received on the vessel as a result of the alleged bootlegging activities by superiors. They charged, according to Mr. Barnes, that the captain had spent money intended for their food for liquor to be sold here. When they complained, it was asserted, they were struck with blackjacks.

Customs men yesterday morning seized the fast motor boat "Molly," off Sandy Hook, with 130 cases of liquor aboard. Thomas W. Whittle, head of the "customs dry navy," said that this was the first capture by the new mosquito fleet of rum-chasers.

The Molly was sighted off Sandy Hook about dawn yesterday and the Government boats started in pursuit. Several shots from one of the Government boats did not slacken the speed of the alleged rum-runner, but the rough sea proved too much for the little boat and, as it headed back inland, it was captured.

A third capture of the day by Federal agents was the seizure of the skiff Jennie W. with forty cases of liquor aboard the boat was returning to Highlands from a visit to the rum fleet. Jules Johnson, owner of the Twin Light Casino at Highlands, and his assistant, Joe Kendrick, were arrested.

Six Federal prisoners, who either pleaded guilty or were convicted in Brooklyn, were sent to the Federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., yesterday in charge of a Chief Deputy Marshal and five guards. They included John T. Vanatta, called "King of the Bootleggers," who was sentenced to serve eighteen months in prison and to pay a fine of $10,000 for violation of the Volstead act.

RAILROADS RESENT INQUIRY INTO LABOR

OBJECT TO BARING FACTS

Scent an Attempt to Use Federal Power in Shopmen's Strike.

The latest order of the Interstate Commerce Commission directing fifty-one of the largest railroads in the country to answer under oath by May 25 a group of searching questions regarding labor conditions and the state of the roads' rolling stock will meet with the stubborn resistance of most of the Eastern carriers, according to informal statements in local railroad offices yesterday. It was suggested as a likelihood that some roads would appeal to the courts for protection against an order which, their officials contend, would place in the hands of politicians and radical labor union leaders facts and statistics for which both groups have been clamoring for several years. Probably no one order since the Government's decision to assume control of the railroads during the period of the World War has caused so much discussion in railroad circles.

It was indicated that some of the executive heads of the Eastern roads would present their views on the matter within the next week. A meeting was held yesterday by the Eastern Presidents' Conference in the Bankers' Club. An official announcement following the session was to the effect that the meeting attended to routine business strictly and that even the question of labor, which has been brought to the front again by reason of the United States Steel Corporation's recent action in raising wages, was not formally discussed.

Uneasy on Shopmen's Strike.

Copies of the commission's latest questionnaire have not reached the New York offices of the railroads and executives seen yesterday said they knew nothing more about the nature of the questions than what had been read in the newspapers. The questions are causing uneasiness, particularly in the cases of those roads which refused to settle with striking shopmen under the Baltimore plan or other arbitration schemes of a similar nature.

The recent letter of President Harding to the shop crafts of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, expressing sympathy for the men of that road still on strike, was something of a shock to railroad executives generally, and in the latest order by the commission there is seen by some officers a gradual sharpening of Governmental policy which they fear may be inimical. Particular significance is also attached to the order because of recent reports that the present Administration would shortly present a railroad plan.

The new questionnaire asks whether the terms of settlement for the shop strike as offered by the railroads have been generally accepted by the striking employes, and an answer is desired as to "the number of employes in each class who have returned to work pursuant to the settlement." In those cases where no settlement has been reached—a division which contains most of the mileage of the country—the roads are asked "Upon what conditions, if any, is the respondent willing to have the striking employes return to work?" and "Upon what terms and conditions disclosed to the respondent, if any, would the striking employes be willing to return to work?"

Doubt Commission's Power.

This series of questions is interpreted by some as an indication that the Interstate Commerce Commission may seek to settle the labor question in its own way, although in other quarters it was questioned as to whether the commission possesses the necessary powers and authority.

Another order calling for "the names of all detective or other agencies under contract with respondent to protect its property or employes, and the total amounts paid to each such agency" is one around which the greatest opposition will develop. Railroad men said yesterday that they had carefully guarded this information ever since it became necessary because of sabotage to protect their properties; that the labor unions had tried by numerous means to gain the information; that the so-called radical Congressmen had also been asking for such information, and that to divulge it would be in effect to take away from the carriers their one best safeguard against possible destruction of property during labor disturbances.

One railroad President said he doubted very much "whether I will answer that question and some others." Asked as to how he might avoid it, he suggested that he might appeal to the courts, but that he would first make an effort to obtain the consent of the commission not to answer it.

$2,000,000 RAISED FOR PHIPPS CLINIC

BALTIMORE, April 19.—The raising of the $2,000,000 necessary to continue the work of the Phipps Psychiatric Clinic at the Johns Hopkins Hospital has been completed, Dr. Frank J. Goodnow says, and formal announcement of this endowment will be made in New York next week.

The ten-year period during which the operation of the clinic was provided for by its founder expired last Monday. In anticipation of this, university and hospital authorities started work about three years ago for securing the $2,000,000 needed to carry on the work.

The first sum given for this purpose was $100,000, contributed by a donor who wished to remain unidentified. About a year ago the same donor promised an additional $900,000, making a total of $1,000,000, on the condition that a second $1,000,000 be raised by April 16 of this year.

Men and institutions of large wealth were appealed to by Dr. Goodnow, Dr. Winfred Smith, director of the hospital, and others interested in the work that has been done at the clinic. The result was that a gift of $750,000 was pledged, conditional upon the raising of the remaining $250,000. Then another donor pledged $125,000, provided the total amount was raised.

This left only $125,000 to be obtained, and in the last few weeks the hospital authorities have been working day and night to get that sum together. Most of it has been raised in Baltimore and New York.

Dr. Goodnow and Dr. Smith will go to New York tomorrow to confer with those who have made the large gifts conditioned upon the entire sum being raised.

In 1896 Benjamin J. Lynam, attorney of Long Island City, represented John Hobas, a veteran resident of the same city, in an action in the Queens County Court which was decided in favor of Hobas. Lynam sent a bill for $37 for his services.

Yesterday while Mr. Lynam was on his way to the County Court he met Hobas, and the latter paid him the $37 which has been due for twenty-seven years.

"Mr. Hobas told me that he has been hunting me all these years to pay me the money," said Lynam, "but he says he never could find me. I was hunting Hobas also but I never could find him. I guess if either of us had stood still long enough we might have bumped into each other."

Unions Representing 20,000 Men Will Give a Reply Next Week.

SINGER PLANT RAISES PAY

Ten Per Cent. Advance for 7,000 Employes at Elizabeth—Other Employers Raise Wages.

A wage increase of 4 cents an hour, or approximately 10 per cent., was offered to 20,000 paper makers of the United States and Canada yesterday by eight paper manufacturing concerns. The offer will be submitted to the unions affected in various parts of the country and the answer of the men will be made to the manufacturers next Thursday.

The skilled men demanded an increase of approximately 11 per cent. over the wage of two years ago, when they took a reduction of 10 per cent. The unskilled men asked for an increase of 8 cents an hour. If the rank and file agree to the present offer the new contract will go into effect May 1.

The concerns represented at yesterday's meeting were the St. Regis Paper Company, Hannah Paper Company, Spanish River Paper Company, Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company, Minnesota Paper Company, St. Francis Paper Company, Union Bag Company and St. Laurice Paper Company.

The union officials present included J. T. Carey of the Brotherhood of Paper Makers, A. P. Burke of the Pulp and Sulphite Workers, Joseph McEntee and William Larkin of the Machinists, John Flynn of the Carpenters' Union, and Timothy Healey of the Stationary Firemen.

The Gulf Refining Company advanced the wages of 200 employes yesterday. The exact percentage of increase was not announced. It will go into effect May 1.

An increase in wages of from 5 to 10 per cent. was announced to the 650 girls employed by the Schwarzenbach-Huber Silk Mills of Bayonne. The increase goes into effect today.

A 10 per cent. wage increase affecting 7,000 workers in the plant of the Singer Manufacturing Company at Elizabeth, N. J., was announced yesterday by Superintendent Walter F. Dixon. A wage cut and a reduction of hours was put into effect two years ago in the sewing machine plant. The wage increase affects all but office employes. The new scale is retroactive to last Monday.

CHENEY MILL STRIKE ENDS.

2,000 Workers Get a Rise and Will Return on Monday.

MANCHESTER, Conn., April 19.—The strike of the 2,000 employes of Cheney Brothers' silk mills of this place came to an end tonight. A committee appointed by the strikers met representatives of the manufacturers this afternoon and after a conference of about three hours, at which both sides conceded certain demands, an agreement was signed, whereby all those out of work will return Monday morning.

The strike, which began on Monday in the silk weaving department and spread to other departments, was in protest against the credit rating system of the company.

The committee which met with the mill officials today consisted of two delegates from each of the four departments on strike and a general chairman. They requested abolition of the entire bonus system and asked for a 20 per cent. increase in wages. Concessions were reached on both sides as to the bonus proposition and an agreement was reached as to the increase in wages, which will vary from 10 to 40 per cent., which was far in excess of the expectations of the strikers.

Cheney Brothers had previously announced they were going to readjust wages on April 30.

Brooklyn Robber's Plea for Reprieve Rejected by Governor Smith.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, April 19.—A final, written plea William J. Evans, 22-year-old Brooklyn slayer, made to Governor Alfred Smith to spare his life for thirty days more having failed, he was put to death late tonight in the Sing Sing electric chair. Evans was one of four young men who robbed Paul Gillman's drug store at 162 Court Street, Brooklyn, and killed Gillman on Feb. 23, 1922.

In his letter to the Governor Evans said he asked the reprieve so that his little son, whom he had never seen, might become one year of age and observe his first birthday anniversary before Evans died.

"I don't like to leave my family and relatives," said Evans toward the end, "but I'm going courageously if I must go."

LONDON, April 19.—The Daily Mail offers a prize of £1,000 for the longest flight—not less than fifty miles—of an airplane with an engine of 7½ horse power and one gallon of fuel. The competition is open to the world and will take place in England next September.

The Duke of Sutherland offers a second prize of £500; this is restricted to British competitors.

East Side Asks for Traffic Relief.

Improvement of both traffic conditions on Delancey, Grand, Broome and Canal Streets was urged at a meeting of the East Side Board of Trade at 206 Grand Street yesterday, and a committee was appointed to bring these matters to the attention of city officials. The suggestion was made that transit congestion would be lessened by switching surface cars on side streets instead of on the Bowery. Improved lighting, it was asserted, would go a long way toward restoring Grand Street to its place as a leading shopping district.

BUSINESS IS WARNED NOT TO OVEREXPAND

RECALLS LESSONS OF 1920

BUYING POWER INCREASED

Big Rise in Retail Sales and Insurance Shows That the Consumer Is Better Off.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—In announcing today that there was record productive activity in both raw and finished products in March, the Department of Commerce sounded the first official warning against the consequences of over-expansion and mounting prices. The statement was received with unusual interest because of the many opinions which have been expressed recently by industrial and financial leaders concerning the progress of business activities. The Department did not predict trouble ahead, but suggested that business interests proceed with proper caution.

"With newly established peaks in production, sales and consumption of goods," the Department's statement said, "the future course of business conditions is seen by the Department as determined largely by the adherence of the business community to the lessons learned in 1920 and the corrective recommended by such reports as that of the Committee on Unemployment and Business Cycles.

"The present situation is more advantageous than in 1920, as the index of wholesale prices is 35 per cent below the 1920 peak, with production at least equal to the 1920 peak."

The committee report to which the statement referred was made public on April 2 by the Government. It was prepared under the supervision of a committee headed by Owen D. Young, appointed during the President's conference on unemployment in September, 1921, to study business cycles and unemployment and endeavor to recommend cures for the evils attendant upon alternating periods of rapid expansion and depression.

The review of the business said the record productivity in March was accompanied by an increasing consumptive demand which apparently digested the goods produced without an appreciable increase in stocks.

"Cotton production and pig iron production," the review continued, "broke all previous records since data for these movements have been available, exceeding even the high records made during the war.

"Steel ingot production and locomotive shipments were the highest since 1920, and unfilled orders for locomotives made a new high record. Zinc production was the highest since 1917. March production of bituminous coal was exceeded only twice since 1920—in January, 1923, and March, 1922. The production of anthracite coal was the greatest since August, 1918.

Retail Sales Bound.

"Retail sales, both by 10-cent stores and by mail-order houses, surpassed all previous records for this month since 1920, at the peak of high prices. Car loadings were the highest on record for this time of year. The wholesale price index advanced two points, being the highest since February, 1921. Sales of life insurance made a new high record since monthly figures became available.

"Consumption of cotton by textile mills in March broke all records, and at 623,105 bales was about 8,000 bales greater than in May, 1917, the previous high month. Total stocks of 4,413,000 bales at the end of March were the lowest reported for this season of the year since 1914.

"Pig iron production in March, at 3,521,275 tons, broke all previous records, and steel ingot production, allowing for companies not reporting, amounted to 3,885,897 tons in March, the highest since March, 1920. Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation increased to 7,403,000 tons, the highest since January, 1921. Unfilled orders for locomotives increased to 3,316, a new high record.

"New high records since monthly figures were available were made in March by bookings of steel castings and of fabricated structural steel.

"Zinc production, at 97,482,000 pounds, was the highest since 1917, while stocks on March 31 were very near the lowest on record.

"Automobile shipments for March indicate a production of 346,000 cars and trucks, the largest monthly production on record, being double March of last year and 25 per cent. greater than February, 1923.

"The total value of building contracts awarded in 27 Northeastern States in March was $334,000,000, or about 14 per cent. greater than a year ago. Residential construction, in point of value, was greater than any previous month on record.

"Production, shipments, new orders and unfilled orders for oak flooring in March were the greatest on record, while stocks on hand were practically the same as on Feb. 28, but 10 per cent. less than a year ago."

MOTION PICTURE NOTES.

A preliminary showing took place last night of "The Bright Shawl," at a dinner given by Felipe Taboada, Cuban Consul General, for Alberto Barreras, Governor of the Province of Havana, in the Waldorf-Astoria. Richard Barthelmess and Dorothy Gish, who have the leading roles in the production, were among the guests at the dinner.

Burr McIntosh, who played one of the principal parts in "Driven," is at present finishing work in "The Hooters," in which Edna Daniels has the principal role.

CHALIAPIN SINGS FAREWELL.

There was the same power dramatically and vocally of the interpretations given by Mr. Chaliapin earlier in the season, and an excellence of emotional portrayal such as is seldom heard on either the operatic or the dramatic stage. One of the most interested of the auditors was Paderewski who, from a box, expressed much enjoyment at the story of the fall of a Czar.

Mr. Martinelli had his farewell honors in last evening's "William Tell," sung for the fifth time to an overflowing house. The Italian tenor, whose admirers were out in force, again shared the stage with Danise, Mardones and Miss Ponselle, all of whom reappear in the season's pair of closing performances tomorrow.

An ambulance call at the Metropolitan door was occasioned by a woman patron's fall in entering the theatre, and not by any traditionally awaited disaster in the shooting of the apple by Danise, as the Swiss patriot, off the head of Miss Delossy, as the son of Tell.

HOST TO GRANVILLE BANTOCK

John Daniels Gives a Luncheon for Noted English Composer.

A luncheon was given at the Harvard Club yesterday afternoon to Granville Bantock, the distinguished English composer, by John Daniels of the English-Speaking Union. Mr. Bantock is in New York on the way to Canada, where he is to act as adjudicator in some of the competitive choral festivals that in recent years have risen to great prominence and popularity there. Mr. Bantock outlined the extraordinary success which this kind of festival has obtained in England in the last ten or twelve years and told of the remarkably fine singing that is produced by their influence.

Dr. T. Tertius Noble, organist of St. Thomas's Church, then told of elaborate plans that are under way to start similar competitive choral festivals in Greater New York and of the great interest that has already been manifested in the scheme.

Francis Rogers presided at the luncheon, and those present were Walter Damrosch, Clarence Dickinson, H. W. Gray, Walter Henry Hall, Ernest Hutcheson, Michael Keane, Otto Kinkeldey, T. Tertius Noble, Herbert Witherspoon, John Daniels and Richard Aldrich.

PLAYS JULIET 100TH TIME.

Jane Cowl's Achievement Marked by Silk Programs as Gifts.

Jane Cowl yesterday afternoon reached her hundredth performance as Juliet at Henry Miller's Theatre. In honor of the occasion souvenir programs, printed on silk ribbon, were presented to the audience.

The players supporting Miss Cowl in "Romeo and Juliet" made two presentations to the star—a facsimile reproduction of an early edition of Shakespeare and a great bouquet of flowers made up of the flowers mentioned in his plays. The vellum-bound copy of the play presented to Miss Cowl is a reproduction of the first folio edition of 1623 from the Chatsworth copy in the possession of the Duke of Devonshire. The flowers were tied with a gold embossed streamer proclaiming Miss Cowl's record in her hundredth performance in her role.

The flowers were presented after the potion scene and the book at the close of the play. Miss Cowl expressed her appreciation in a short speech.

ACT "THE YELLOW JACKET."

Hunter College Students Give a Colorful Performance.

A colorful performance of "The Yellow Jacket" was given last evening by the students of Hunter College, in the Chapel, at Sixty-eighth Street and Park Avenue. It will be repeated this evening and again tomorrow afternoon, when the college will have as its guests the seniors of the girls' high schools of the city.

The Chinese atmosphere filled not only the play itself but was present in the vari-colored silk costumes and hand-painted curtain, all of which were made by the students themselves. The cast, all of whom were well received, included Judith Rosow, who played the rôle of Wy Hoo Git; Mabel Burke, Evelyn Casey, Adele Roosin, Hope Erion, Beatrice Haskell, Frieda Barkowitz, Mildred McBride, Muriel Ruddy, Yetta Samuels, Helene Sommer and others. The play was staged by Professor Henrietta Prentiss.

Paulist Choristers Sing.

The Paulist Choristers, eighty men and boys in choir vestments and in number sufficient to fill the stage of the Town Hall, sang their third program there last evening to an audience that heard reverently many Latin hymns of ancient and modern composers, and that applauded heartily the work of the conductor, the Rev. W. J. Finn. From Latti and Palestrina, the music ranged through later schools to the settings of sacred texts by French and Russians and by Father Finn himself. There were popular after-pieces from Mendelssohn, Saint-Saens, Cowen, Hurlet DeLamarter and Percy Grainger, Fenwick Newell adding an Ave Maria" by Percy Kahn. Among other solo voices were Masters Jack Huber and Edward Slattery, Messrs. Nicholas Murphy and H. Overton Moyle. The concert was broadcast by radio from station WEAF, New York.

Contralto and Pianist in Recital.

Gwyneth Hughes gave several groups of contralto songs in Rumford Hall last evening and Marie Mikova played some piano selections. The small auditorium was crowded and enjoyment of the program was manifested by demands for encores. Miss Hughes sang in Italian, German, English and two Welsh folk songs particularly pleased her hearers. She revealed a voice of rich quality, and intelligence and personality were important factors in winning the hearty response from those who heard her. Miss Mikova displayed agile and accurate fingers, but the acoustics of the hall made it impossible for her to show any interpretive accomplishments.

"Bimbo" at Winter Garden May 12.

The Shuberts yesterday announced the return of Al Jolson with "Bimbo" to the Winter Garden for a limited engagement, starting May 12. "The Dancing Girl," the current Winter Garden attraction, will remain at that theatre three weeks longer and then move to Chicago for a Summer season.

MUSIC NOTES.

George Meader and Carl Schlegel were soloists at the Majestic last night in a benefit for the song composer, Eugen Haile.

The Brooklyn Institute closes its series tonight with a recital for two violins by Vivienne Cordero Friz and J. G. Van Hulsteyn.

Vice President Coolidge will speak on "Music as a National Asset" at a celebration in Boston tomorrow of the Chickering centennial.

THE PLAY

By JOHN CORBIN.

The Harvard Dramatic Club.

As their second offering, the visiting players from Harvard and Radcliffe last night presented Sacha Guitry's biographic comedy, "Béranger." The three scenes show the patriotic songwriter in young manhood, middle age and old age, and portray various episodes involving the love of wine and youthful beauty, with the master passion centring always in the fair name of France.

So far as there is a dramatic antagonist, it is Talleyrand who strives, and strives in vain, to enlist Béranger's power of moving the people in behalf of his political projects. But the differences of these two are never acrimonious, though Béranger is sent to prison. In the end each recognizes in the other a sincere patriot. In the first episode Béranger pokes fun at the sombre mood of the Marsilan revolutionists of 1815, contrasting it with the high and joyous spirits of his youth.

Judged by current Broadway standards, the play is rather slender, but it is full of shrewd observation, amiable humor and heartfelt love of country. Those who care for such things owe a debt of gratitude to the Harvard policy of producing pieces of too rare a quality to win a place on the commercial stage.

Dealing with supposedly real human beings in the "representational" manner despised of expressionists, "Béranger" calls upon the actors for a far greater variety and finesse of technique than their first bill. Several of the minor parts came off rather poorly at the hands of these spirited undergraduates.

Three of the principal characters received vigorous and convincing interpretations. John Collier, who was Man in Andreyev's tragedy, invested the youth of Béranger with vigorous charm and his old age with subtle and gracious dignity. The Talleyrand of Conrad Salinger and the Mère Jéry of Kathleen Middleton were substantial dramatic portraits.

HASTY PUDDING CLUB ACTS 'TAKE A BRACE'

The Hasty Pudding Club of Harvard University presented their annual musical comedy in the large ballroom of the Plaza last night before a large and fashionable assembly, their seventy-seventh annual production. It was called "Take a Brace" and turned out to have nothing in common with what in anti-prohibition days was called a bracer. The plot hung on the old-fashioned braces or suspenders.

The Plaza was the club's fourth stop on its Spring tour, and the performance will be repeated this evening followed by dancing.

The entire performance was marked with a snap and go that brought many encores, and, unlike formal Broadway audiences, the spectators hurrahed with delight when they were pleased. The lyrics, music and patter were right up to the minute, with bedtime stories over the radio, and the war news that "Lee had surrendered to Grant." The expression "the mummy's mitten" brought a laugh, but when the handsome leading man sang in jass about "a Juliet body and a Desdemona chassis" the house roared.

A young man whose name could not be found on the program, a member of the club orchestra—somebody said his name was Monihan—made the hit of the show in eccentric dancing, and running a close second in popularity were B. C. Cogan and R. P. Bullard in ragtime duets. The club orchestra had many encores in the last act, in the banquet hall of the Costleigh Pleasure Hotel.

The "leading lady" was E. N. Carson of New Rochelle, and two boys from New York. Eugene Reynal and Frederick H. Nichols, were members of the "famous auburn-haired sextet."

D. A. Williams was Byron Victory Dawes, a manufacturer of suspenders, who came to Boston from Seattle with his wife, impersonated by B. C. Cogan, and their daughter, Cinderella, a part taken by E. K. Little. H. N. Frait was Marie, a French maid, and Mr. Bullard, the leading man. J. M. Brown appeared as Homer Eskkiel Ipswitch, W. N. Gates as Benjamin Franklin Jones, and J. T. Hayes and Darragh Louderback were bellhops.

The entire cast sang and danced their way into high favor, through the three acts, which opened in the Costleigh Pleasure Hotel in Boston, the second act being laid on the Island of Parakeet.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES ELECT.

Empire State Society, S. A. R. and New York Chapter Meet.

The Sons of the American Revolution, Empire State Society and the New York Chapter of the society held their joint annual meeting last night at the Army and Navy Club, 112 West Fifty-ninth Street. A dinner preceded the business meetings of the organizations.

When the dinner was concluded the New York Chapter held its annual meetings, at which Brig. Gen Oliver B. Bridgman, President of the organization, presided.

Moscow Art Theatre to Return.

The Moscow Art Theatre, upon the completion of its visits to Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston, will play a farewell engagement here of two weeks, starting Monday, May 21, and extending through Saturday, June 2. The repertory for the farewell appearances will be made up of the plays presented here during the company's first appearance, with the possible addition of one or two new productions. The theatre at which the Russians will appear has not yet been decided upon.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt will be in the cast of Paul Kester's "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," which the Equity Players will present at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre May 14, with Lauraete Taylor as Nell Gwynne.

Mary Shaw will again be the Mrs. Malaprop of a revival of "The Rivals," this time in the Equity production at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre during the week of May 7. Others in the cast will be Maclyn Arbuckle, who will play Sir Anthony Absolute, and Mary Hay, who will play Lucy.

Florence Reed will be seen next season in "The Lullaby," a play by Edward Knoblock, under the management of Charles Dillingham.

"The Gingham Girl" will move from the Earl Carroll Theatre to the Central on April 30.

HAD GERMAN WAR BONDS

Accounting Filed by Executor Mentions Claim for $49,308 Lost in Sale of Berlin Securities.

An accounting of the estate of Dr. Joseph Fraenkel, who died April 24, 1920, at his home, 101 East Ninety-fourth Street, was filed yesterday in the Surrogate's Court by Herman B. Baruch, the executor. Dr. Fraenkel at the time of his death was the husband of Ganna Walska, now the wife of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, whose first wife was the daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

The value of the estate is placed at $338,575, consisting of railroad and other securities and the residence in East Ninety-fourth Street, which, with its contents, he bequeathed to his widow.

The papers disclose that at the time of his death Dr. Fraenkel had two accounts with the banking and brokerage house of H. Hentz and Company, 22 William, of which Mr. Baruch is a member. These accounts, held in the name of "G. W. Fraenkel," were claimed by Mrs. Fraenkel (Ganna Walska) after her husband's death. The claim was opposed by Louis Fraenkel, a brother of the deceased, who contended the accounts were the property of the deceased and therefore belonged not to the widow but to his brother's estate. A compromise was later reached, the brother agreeing to take a third of the securities comprising the accounts and the widow two-thirds.

Mr. Baruch, however, says that against these accounts there was due his brokerage concern $101,480, which the widow and her brother-in-law had agreed by the compromise to assume and liquidate, which they did.

After expenses of administration, debts and other liabilities of decedent, the accounting says there is a balance of $45,295 for distribution between the widow and her brother-in-law, the residuary legatees.

Mr. Baruch further says that an automobile valued at $1,000 was not turned over to him, but was retained by Ganna Walska who, he says, should have its value deducted from her share of the remainder of the estate. Mr. Baruch says that a claim of $10,000 was presented by one Emma Fraenkel on a loan by her mother, Helena Knoch, to Dr. Fraenkel, and that she had submitted convincing but not legal proof of the indebtedness, which prompted Dr. Fraenkel's brother to consent to the claim being paid. This, however, the widow would not agree to and ordered Baruch not to pay it.

Baruch also says the estate filed a claim with the Mixed Claims Commission for $49,308, "by reason of the loss caused decedent through the purchase for 250,000 marks, par value, of the bonds of the Imperial German Government War Loan of 1915, with interest, which was unpaid Dec. 27, 1919, when the bonds were sold."

POLICEMEN HONORED FOR VALOR ON DUTY

Lieutenant O'Connell Rewarded for Promoting Official Relations With Other Cities.

One policeman who was fatally wounded by a negro he sought to capture received honorable mention and one lieutenant and thirty-five policemen beneath the rank of lieutenant were commended in Police Department citations made public yesterday at the office of Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright. The general order citing the valor of the policemen follows:

Office of the Police Commissioner,

General Orders No. 6.

Department recognition is awarded to the following members of the force for meritorious conduct performed in the line of duty:

HONORABLE MENTION.

Patrolman Henry L. Pohndorf, Shield 2012, 38th Precinct, was shot and fatally wounded by a negro, at about 9:30 A. M., May 8, 1922. A negro by the name of Chambers entered the office of another negro named Louis A. Leavelle, at 420 Lenox Avenue; demanded money and during an altercation shot the latter in the left temple and hurriedly left the office. At the entrance to the premises he was intercepted by Patrolman Pohndorf, who was attracted to the scene by the report of a revolver. The negro pulled the trigger of his revolver, a bullet entering the patrolman's neck. The negro boarded a Lenox Avenue surface car and rode to 126th Street, where he was met by several patrolmen who were attracted to the escaping criminal by the shouting of pedestrians, and after exchanging several shots finally subdued him. Patrolman Pohndorf was removed to Harlem Hospital, where he died at 7:10 P. M., May 10, 1922.

COMMENDATION.

Lieutenant John J. O'Connell, Headquarters Division, for promoting official relations and co-operation between this department and police organizations of the United States and foreign countries, whereby efficiency of police work has been enhanced, and for the adoption of methods of identification of criminals by telephone, telegraph, radio and mail.

Sergeant and Acting Detective Sergeants—Sergeant Frederick C. Kruse, Shield 21, and Acting Detective Sergeants Arthur J. McMenomy, Shield 2263, and Hugh P. Sheridan, Shield 737, Detective Division, arrested four of six hold-up men, at about 9 P. M., Sept. 18, 1922. The hold-up took place on the night of Sept. 16, 1922, and the culprits escaped in an automobile. After an exhaustive search of the upper east side the automobile was found abandoned in front of premises, 355 East 120th Street. The movements of the suspects were constantly kept under surveillance, and on the night of Sept. 18, while they were riding in an automobile, and in front of the car barns of the Third Avenue Railroad on Sixty-sixth Street, between Second and Third Avenues, the officers forced it to the curb and immediately a volley of bullets were exchanged, and after subduing the men they were placed under arrest.

Acting Detective Sergeants August Mayar, Shield 380; Grover C. Brown, Shield 307; Sylvester J. Brierton, Shield 105, and William J. Fay, Shield 650, Detective Division, arrested three persons for the larceny of securities in the sum of $78,000, on Jan. 21, 1922. The securities were given to a messenger for delivery, instead of taking them to their destination gave them to an accomplice. After diligent search in the financial district a third person was located and securities in the sum of $77,000 recovered.

Daniel J. A. Cashman, Shield No. 159, Detective Division, arrested three men at about 11:45 P. M., Sept. 8, 1921, in premises 114 Park Row. While seated at a table in a restaurant, at 102 Park Row, he overheard a citizen telling another that there were three suspicious men loitering in a hallway on Park Row. Detective Cashman searched the hallways in the vicinity, and upon entering the premises, 114 Park Row, found three men whom he questioned, and while so doing one of them made a move to draw from his right coat pocket. They were ordered to throw up their hands, and when searched two of them had revolvers. All three men have criminal records.

Edward J. Davis, Shield No. 720, Detective Division, arrested a colored man, at about 2 P. M., Aug. 15, 1922, who answered the description of a man wanted for flat burglaries. The detective observed the colored man walking west at Amsterdam Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street, and intercepted him. Several questions were asked by the detective, but as the answers given were unsatisfactory, he brought him to the 23d Precinct station house. At the station house the colored man was searched, and jewelry which had been stolen was found in his pockets. A search of the man's home revealed other stolen jewelry which was identified.

Walter C. Harding, Shield 424, Detective Division, arrested two men, at about 1:15 P. M., Nov. 24, 1922, for handling and disposing of stolen merchandise. Detective Harding was standing on the corner of Canal and Lafayette Streets when he observed a shabbily dressed man carrying a bundle, closely followed by another man. Both men entered the subway. The detective followed and saw the men reach the bottom of the steps they engaged in conversation. The bundle was passed to the second man and the first man hurried to the street. Detective Harding followed, apprehended the man, returned to the subway and arrested the second man. Through these arrests two additional captures were made and other stolen merchandise recovered.

James I. McCarton, Shield 739, Detective Division, arrested Abraham Becker as a material witness in the case of Jennie Becker, his wife, who was murdered. On April 8, 1922, Becker reported his wife missing. Detective McCarton, after consulting with the Assistant District Attorney of Bronx County, arrested the husband. Untiring efforts on the part of the detective resulted in obtaining a confession from one of Becker's friends that Becker had entired his wife to a repair shop at 139th Street and Southern Boulevard, and there struck her on the head with an iron bar and had buried her body in an adjoining lot. The body was unearthed, Becker was tried for murder in the first degree and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Edward T. V. Fitzgerald, Shield 2000, and William J. Courtney, Shield 770, Detective Division, arrested a man at about 10:45 P. M. Dec. 21, 1922, who acted suspiciously in the vicinity of West End Avenue and Eighty-seventh Street. The detectives were scouting the neighborhood for flat thieves, when their attention was attracted by the suspicious actions of the man. He was searched and a quantity of jewelry was found in his pockets for which he was unable to give a satisfactory explanation. The man was taken to the station house, and after being questioned at length admitted having committed several burglaries in other parts of the city.

Patrolman-William G. Dollard, Shield 2469, 87th Precinct, and Otto J. Westphal, Shield 4098, Traffic Precinct B, arrested a negro who shot and fatally wounded a citizen and a patrolman at about 9:30 A. M. May 8, 1922. The negro boarded a south-bound Lenox Avenue car to escape. The shooting of pedestrians who witnessed the shooting of the patrolman and followed the car attracted the attention of Patrolman Dollard. Several shots were exchanged, one of the bullets entering the culprit's right leg. Patrolman Westphal, who heard the report of the revolvers, immediately ran in the direction of the sound. Both patrolmen followed the negro into the hallway of premises 227 Lenox Avenue. He was disabled by a bullet discharged by one of the patrolman and placed under arrest.

Raymond W. J. Collins, Shield 1139, Sixty-seventh Precinct, arrested three men who forced an entrance to premises at Sixteenth Street and Surf Avenue, Coney Island, at about 3 A. M., Jan. 4, 1923. Patrolman Collins noticed the side door slightly ajar and became suspicious. At this instant a citizen passed to whom the patrolman gave his night stick, with instructions to rap for assistance. The patrolman entered the premises and observed an indistinct form disappearing in the hallway. Patrolman Collins followed, seized the man nearest to him, and with his revolver drawn, compelled the other two to throw up their hands. When assistance arrived they were searched, and a fully loaded revolver found on each of them.

Lambert L. Hanstein, Shield 1473, Traffic Precinct A, at about 9:40 A. M., Nov. 14, 1922, rescued a man from the debris of a building used as a warehouse at 105 Washington Street, a portion of which had collapsed, and discovered the body of another. Patrolman Hanstein, while regulating traffic at the corner of Greenwich and Fulton Streets, heard the crash, ran to the scene of the occurrence, and without hesitancy entered the building. After rescuing one man, Patrolman Hanstein again entered the building, and lowering himself to the basement with a rope discovered the lifeless body of another man pinioned under the beams of the fallen structure.

Edward P. Lynch, Shield No. 10645, and Philip R. Grimes, Shield No. 5377, 28th Precinct, rescued several adults and children from a fire, at about 7:30 A. M., Nov. 26, 1922. The patrolmen entered the smoke-filled building at 225 West Sixty-first Street and aroused the tenants. Two women who were partially overcome by the smoke were carried from the fifth floor, and a woman and her children were assisted to the street by way of the fire escape.

George L. Knab, Shield No. 8094, 101st Precinct, arrested three men who attempted to force an entrance into the rear of premises, 60 South Eighth Street, Brooklyn, at about 2:30 A. M., Dec. 9, 1922. Patrolman Knab noticed three men alight from a taxicab and enter the hallway of the premises mentioned. While in the act of questioning the driver of the machine, who seemed to be somewhat uneasy, the three men came running from the premises, one of their number dropping a fully loaded revolver. Patrolman Knab, with revolver drawn, forced the men into the taxicab, jumped on the running board, and brought them to the station house.

Daniel P. Beyer, Shield No. 670, 33d Precinct, assigned to motorcycle duty, arrested two of five hold-up men, at about 1:10 A. M., Nov. 23, 1922. Patrolman Beyer was informed that a hold-up had taken place on Manhattan Avenue, and that the five men who participated in the hold-up escaped in a taxicab. Prior to receiving this information, Patrolman Beyer, on suspicion, halted a taxicab with five occupants, searched the cab, questioned the driver, and procured his address, but as there was no apparent violation of the law, permitted him to proceed. As soon as the patrolman learned of the hold-up he immediately proceeded to the address given by the chauffeur. When he reached First Avenue and Eighty-first Street in tactical passed him with only two of its four occupants. Patrolman Beyer pursued, overtaking the machine on Second Avenue, between Seventy-ninth and Eighteth Streets, and placed the men under arrest.

Harry Vincenot, Shield No. 6227, Twenty-ninth Precinct, arrested two hold-up men at about 12:30 A. M. Oct. 19, 1922. The patrolman was informed by a citizen that two armed men were standing in the doorway of the premises at 1088 Second Avenue, and that the taxicab from which they alighted was standing at the southwest corner of Fifty-seventh Street and Second Avenue, with the engine running. Patrolman Vincenot drew his revolver, proceeded to apprehend the culprits, and when searched a fully loaded revolver was found on each. Through the apprehension of these men two other arrests were made.

James P. McDonnell, Shield No. 10645, Headquarters Division (formerly attached to the Forty-sixth Precinct), arrested four bootleggers at about 1:30 A. M. Oct. 21, 1922. Patrolman McDonnell, while patroling his post on Twelfth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street, observed an automobile, lights not burning, coming from Pier 94. The patrolman ordered the chauffeur to stop, but he disregarded the command, and threatened to run over the officer. Several shots were fired by the patrolman, one in the air, the others at the occupants of the machine, one of whom received a flesh wound and fell to the street. The patrolman compelled the three men to put the injured man back into the automobile, and all of them were taken to the station house, after resisting arrest and assaulting the officer.

James J. McKee, Shield No. 8288, Fifty-third Precinct, arrested a man at about 11:50 P. M., June 13, 1922, who shot and fatally wounded another in front of premises, 3,161 Villa Avenue, the Bronx, at about 11:20 P. M. the same day. The patrolman was informed of the occurrence by a citizen who gave a description of the murderer. After notifying the station house of the affair, Patrolman McKee mounted his bicycle and rode around the vicinity. When he reached 205th Street, between Villa Avenue and Grand Concourse, he observed several men walking who aroused his suspicions. Upon seeing the officer they dispersed. One of their number, who was bleeding, answered the description given and was ordered to throw up his hands. He was questioned by the patrolman and admitted he had shot the man.

Richard E. Gonoude, Shield No. 1823, Sixty-fifth Precinct, detected and caused the arrest and conviction of several men implicated in the murder of a watchman employed at the Tanna-Gross Warehouse, Staten Island. The officer worked unceasingly, day and night, on the case, and at intervals between the middle of March and the latter part of April, 1922, the arrests were made. One of the men, named Collins, was convicted of murder in the first degree and several others were sentenced to twenty years to life imprisonment.

Robert Ziegler, Shield No. 2918, 97th Precinct, subdued and arrested a maniac, at about 7:30 A. M., Oct. 10, 1922. The officer heard the cries of a woman for help, and running to her aid was informed that a boarder had attacked her with a knife in her apartment. On running to the apartment he found the door blocked, and while attempting to force an entrance heard a window-pane smash. Patrolman Ziegler ran down stairs to the rear yard, where he was attacked by the madman, who had jumped through a window from the second floor. After a struggle the man was subdued and removed to a hospital, a prisoner, where he died.

David H. Simpson, Shield No. 9021, 13th Precinct, rescued two children from the fourth floor of a burning building, at 304 East Houston Street, at about 2:55 P. M., Dec. 2, 1922. The fire started on the third floor and made rapid headway. Patrolman Simpson turned in an alarm, returned to the building and ascended the fire escape to the fourth floor, rescued two small boys from the smoke-filled apartment and carried them to the street. While carrying the two boys he assisted a woman and her children to safety.

Francis B. Gordon, Shield 5511, 13th Precinct, arrested four burglars at about 3:10 A. M., Dec. 23, 1922. While trying the store door of premises 818 Grand Street, the patrolman heard a noise inside and concealed himself in the entrance. After waiting a few moments Patrolman Cannon observed an arm extended from behind the counter and the removal of several boxes. The patrolman sent a passerby for assistance and, upon searching the premises, discovered four men in the basement who attempted to assault him. Patrolman Cannon discharged his revolver and the men surrendered. Merchandise valued at $3,000 was discovered packed and ready for removal.

John J. McDonnell, Shield 3052, 7th Precinct, arrested a man for attempted robbery at about 2:15 P. M., Oct. 14, 1922. Upon information received from a citizen that a negro riding on an approaching Smith Street car had entered the home of a citizen with revolver drawn, Patrolman McDonnell ran toward the car, but before it came to a stop the negro jumped off and ran into a garage runway, closely followed by the officer. Patrolman McDonnell drew his revolver, ordered the robber to throw up his hands, and placed him under arrest. When searched a fully loaded revolver and a jimmy were found on his person.

Orville W. Halstead, Shield 7409, 23d Precinct, arrested a burglar, at about 1 P. M., Jan. 2, 1923, while off duty and in civilian clothes. The patrolman was driving an automobile south on Broadway and at Forty-fourth Street heard several shots fired and observed a man jump into a taxicab. The officer gave chase and succeeded in overtaking the cab at Broadway and Forty-third Street. He jumped on the running board of the taxicab just as the man riding in the cab discharged a revolver at him, but the cartridge failed to explode. Patrolman Halstead seized the revolver and placed the man under arrest.

Harry M. J. Dillmeier, Shield 2848, 96th Precinct, rescued a man from a fire in a garage at 380 DeKalb Avenue, at about 11:30 P. M., Jan. 1, 1923. Patrolman Dillmeier was standing on the corner of Throop and DeKalb Avenues when he saw flames shooting from the garage. Going to the rear an alarm was sent in for the fire apparatus and ran to the fire. He was informed that a helpless cripple was in the building. After repeated efforts to enter the garage, being driven back by the dense smoke and flames, he finally succeeded in entering by throwing his rubber cape over his head and reached the man.

Joseph E. Lynch, Shield 4485, Ninety-fifth Precinct, stopped a runaway horse at about 10:15 A. M., Oct. 29, 1922, at Marcy and Putnam Avenues. The horse was attached to a buggy and was running west on Putnam Avenue at great speed. The patrolman ran to the middle of the street, grabbed hold of the bridle and succeeded in bringing the horse to a stop after being dragged a distance of about 100 feet. The officer received injuries which necessitated his removal to a hospital. The action of Patrolman Lynch saved several pedestrians from injury.

Edward P. Dwyer, Shield 539, 123d Precinct, rescued a man from drowning at about 10:45 P. M., Dec. 10, 1922. Patrolman Dwyer heard cries for help coming from Jamaica Bay at the foot of Beach Sixty-ninth Street, and ran to the end of the dock. While attempting to remove any of his clothing he jumped overboard, swam to the man, grabbed hold of him, and returned to the dock, taking hold of a spile, to which he clung, and called for help. Two citizens passing in an automobile heard the summons and came to his aid, and after much difficulty succeeded in getting the drowning man and the policeman on the dock.

John R. Dukes, Shield 1960, Seventy-fourth Precinct, apprehended a colored man at about 6:35 P. M., Nov. 22, 1922. The colored man emerged from premises 701 East Nineteenth Street acting in a suspicious manner. Patrolman Dukes followed, overtaking him at Beverly Road and Ocean Avenue. While being questioned the culprit drew a .32 calibre revolver and pointed it at the officer, the latter grabbed hold of the weapon and struggled with the man. When searched two more fully loaded revolvers were found on his person.

Edward J. Sullivan, Shield 10950, Forty-fifth Precinct, arrested a murderer at about 1:10 A. M., Nov. 23, 1922. While off duty and in civilian clothes and talking to several friends on 139th Street, Patrolman Sullivan heard the blasts of a police whistle coming from the direction of Seventh Avenue. The officer ran toward Seventh Avenue, and when he arrived in front of premises 166 West 129th Street, saw the body of a woman lying in the street and a man running from the scene. Patrolman Sullivan pursued the man, grabbed hold of him and after a struggle subdued and placed him under arrest.

Patrick Curley, Shield No. 2111, Thirty-eighth Precinct, arrested three hold-up men at about 11 P. M., Jan. 17, 1922. While on patrol at Lenox Avenue and 139th Street Patrolman Curley observed a taxicab going west on 139th Street with three occupants, whose actions aroused his suspicions. He followed the taxicab to 520 West 139th Street, where the taxicab stopped. He arrived there just as one of the men ordered the chauffeur into the hallway for the purpose of robbing him. Patrolman Curley grabbed one of the men, who drew an knife, while one of the other two pointed a revolver at the officer. The patrolman drew his revolver, ordered the man back into the taxicab, took them all to the station house, and a search of the cab revealed another revolver.

Patrick J. Lynch, Shield No. 2930, Motorcycle Squad No. 1, arrested two men for felonious assault at about 11 P. M., May 19, 1923. While on patrol duty and assigned to motorcycle Shield No. 3, First Avenue, Fifty-ninth Street to 125th Street, he observed an automobile, lights not burning, at Ninety-sixth Street speeding south. Patrolman Lynch followed, and, according to his speedometer, the machine was traveling at more than fifty miles an hour. At Eighty-eighth Street it struck and knocked down a citizen and continued south on First Avenue. When abreast of the machine the patrolman drew his revolver, compelled the operator to halt, and he and the man accompanying him were placed under arrest. The injured man was removed to a hospital and died within a few hours.

James P. McDonnell, Shield No. 10645, Headquarters Division, while assigned to duty in plain clothes, subdued and arrested a man, at about 9:45 P. M., November 25, 1922, who held up a citizen and attempted to rob $1,000 in currency from him. The officer was returning from the 10th District Court when he noticed two men struggling in the street. As Patrolman McDonnell drew near he noticed one of the men striking the other with a revolver. McDonnell intervened, and as he did so the man with the revolver pointed it at the officer, who struck it from his hand. The man fled and entered premises, 240 West 53d Street, and locked the door. The door was forced open by the patrolman and after a struggle the man was placed under arrest.

So much of General Orders No. 49, 1922, as awards Commendation to Patrolman Christian E. Saleeby, Shield No. 2499, and Rocco Cavone, Shield No. 2039, 4th Precinct, is amended by adding the name of Patrolman John Ferretti, Shield No. 2802, 5th Precinct.

TEN TO EACH OF 5 ZONES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—To clear up the congestion in radio broadcasting, a new schedule of wave lengths, which goes into effect on May 15, went out today from the Department of Commerce, which has been working on the problem ever since the recent National Radio Conference.

Definite wave lengths have been allocated to each of five zones into which the country has been divided, and broadcasting stations will have to adhere to these or else suffer the penalty of loss or suspension of license.

For the Class B stations (the high-power transmitting agencies) there will be ten wave lengths in each zone, and all of these will be adjusted so as not to conflict with any other.

Of the ten zone lengths assigned to Zone 1, which extends from New England through the District of Columbia, three of them, 405, 455 and 492 meters, have been assigned to New York City and Newark. This is because so many persons are served by the stations in the neighborhood, and so much entertainment talent is available. The stations in New York and Newark will have to arrange for division of time.

Schenectady (General Electric), and Troy (Rensselaer Polytechnic), 380 meters; Philadelphia (Wanamaker's and Lit's, Strawbridge & Clothier), 509 and 395 meters, and Washington (Arlington and Radio Corporation), 435 meters. It is likely that Arlington will have a special wave length and may be forced to divide time with any other station. Wave lengths of 368, 319, 469 meters also are reserved for this zone.

Assignments in the other zones up to this time are:

Zone 2—Pittsburgh, 326; Chicago, 448; Davenport and Des Moines, 484; Detroit and Dearborn, 517; Cleveland and Toledo, 390; Cincinnati, 309; Madison and Minneapolis, 417.

Zone 3—Atlanta, 429; Louisville, 460; Memphis, 500; St. Louis, 546.

Zone 4—Lincoln, Neb., 341; Kansas City, 411; Jefferson City, 441; Dallas and Fort Worth, 476; San Antonio, 385; Denver, 332; Omaha, 527.

Zone 5—Seattle, 492; Portland, 455; Salt Lake City, 319; San Francisco, 509 and 423; Los Angeles, 395 and 440; San Diego, 536.

None of the wave lengths go above 600 meters. This is important to amateurs, as according to a plan proposed to the recent conference, the large stations might have had wave lengths up to 700 meters, which would have necessitated the changing over of many receiving sets.

Besides the Class B stations, which broadcast to long distances, there are 540 Class A stations which use the 360 meter wave length. These will be allowed to retain that wave length or become into a special band between 222 and 300 meters. If a new station is erected and it can not meet the qualifications of a Class B station it will not be allowed to use 360 meters, but must go into the 222-300 band.

Because of the great activity in radio, the Department of Commerce is enlarging its forces in the inspection districts of which there are nine with Boston, New York, Baltimore, Atlanta, New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle, Detroit and Chicago as headquarters.

It was stated that any station now operating on 360 meters has the privilege of remaining on that wave length. It is also emphasized that the assignments of wave lengths are for cities and not for specific stations.

EXPLAINS MEXICO'S DELAY.

Embassy Says Interest Payments Are Held Up by Bankers' Routine.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Mexican Embassy today disavowed any responsibility on the part of the authorities of the Mexican Government for the non-payment of the interest instalment which was due on April 1 on Mexican Government bonds. Failure to pay was ascribed at the Embassy to the fact that arrangements had not been finally completed by the bankers for the deposit of the bonds upon which interest payments were due.

The Embassy declared that the Mexican Government has on deposit in New York City banks more than enough money to meet the interest payments that were due on April 1, as well as those which would be due on July 1, and said it expected that an announcement fixing the date and places for the deposit of these bonds would be forthcoming from the bankers' committee within the very near future.

The support of these statements the Embassy quoted a letter which it had received from Thomas W. Lamont, Chairman of the International Bankers' Committee, in which Mr. Lamont said:

"Because of numerous inquiries made as to the April 1 interest payment upon Mexican Government bonds, the International committee states that favorable progress has been made by the commission recently appointed by Finance Minister de la Huerta to report upon the details of the plan of readjustment, but the exact date upon which bondholders will be invited to deposit their bonds has not been fixed, and until the call has been issued and sufficient bonds have been deposited to enable the committee to declare the plan effective, actual interest payments cannot begin.

"Sufficient funds already have been made available in New York by the Mexican Government to cover the cash payments to the bondholders, as provided for in the plan and agreement during a considerable part of the present year."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Upturn in Stocks and Commodities Halted by Action Against Sugar Exchange.

The rather extraordinary move of the Government, through its Attorney General, to put a stop to trading in contracts for the future delivery of sugar, by injunction against the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange and its Directors, was the outstanding development in financial affairs yesterday. It was reflected immediately not only in the sugar market but in the market for the future delivery of other commodities, notably cotton. To lesser extent, the influence of the move by the Government against commodity speculation was felt in the market for stocks; its effect was to cool the ardor of professional operators for the advance. There were no wide declines anywhere, it is true, but nevertheless the development was of sufficiently arresting importance to at least call a temporary halt to activity that had been the fairest of speculative tings, and as a result, the markets merely simmered for the balance of the day.

It is, of course, much too early to say what the outcome of the Attorney General's action will be; whether the sugar trade will be deprived of a market wherein "futures" in this commodity may be bought and sold or whether this very valuable cog in the process of commodity marketing will be entirely lifted out of the financial machinery. Quite evidently the move was directed against what was termed "excessive and unreasonable speculation."

The question must now be threshed out whether the upturn in sugar, which has put the price of Cuban raws and contracts for them to new high levels for the year, has been in response to out-and-out manipulation of the markets, as the Attorney General charges, or to the operation of the law of supply and demand. Estimates continue to differ very widely about the Cuban crop. There is a difference of something like 800,000 tons between the low estimate of the final outturn, as made by the Cubans themselves, and the much higher one, made by authorities in this country. The sugar centrals now are closing down and it is to be noted that such revisions in the final outturn as are being made from day to day are on the side of those who predicted a short crop and an extremely high price for sugar before the new crop can again come to market. If this be true, and there is an actual shortage of sugar, Governmental injunction suits no doubt will prove futile obstacles in the path of the trend of prices, controlled naturally by supply and demand.

The Federal Reserve Bank statement continues to reflect the fact that, while industrial expansion goes on apace, the Reserve ratios are practically constant. For the System as a whole, as a matter of fact, yesterday's statement showed a change in ratio of only eight-tenths of one per cent. despite the increase of some $23,500,000 in rediscounts. In the New York Bank the change was even slighter, amounting to but one-tenth of one per cent. In the case of this bank, however, there was continued contraction, rediscounts having declined about $9,000,000 for the week. The statement of the Bank of France notes the repayment by the State of 400,000,000 francs on account of extraordinary advances, and a further decrease of 473,000,000 francs in the note circulation. The figures reflect a contraction in franc circulation of approximately 1,000,000,000 francs from the high of a fortnight ago and in which the circulation has been brought back to approximately the figures of the low of the year, established during the month of January. It has been accomplished, no doubt, by the repayment of advances to the State and to internal loans arranged recently. In this connection it is worthy of note that the French 8 per cent. bonds, after sustaining a depreciation which carried them down to 88¼ on Jan. 29, again made a new high record for the year yesterday at 90¾. The German mark rallied feebly, but it is much too early to say whether or no this signalizes renewed endeavors of the Reichsbank to stabilize mark currency at its present lower level.

MONEY.

THURSDAY, April 19, 1923.

Money on call on Stock Exchange opened and renewed at 5 per cent., but shortly after midday rate eased to 4½, where it ruled until closing. Borrowers strongly bid 5¼ per cent. for all fixed period money, but except on short maturities 5¼ is the leaders' quotation. The market is in a deadlock between the bidders' and banks' rates. Commercial paper market was steady and without change in discount; acceptances also ruled firm and without variation.

Beginning March 22, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1923 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

LIVERMORE WARNS INVESTING PUBLIC

Vast Amount of Undigested Securities on Market Not a Healthy Situation, He Says.

NEW CONCERNS OF ALL KIND

Capitalized on Basis of Abnormal Earnings—Asserts It's Time to Analyze Holdings.

The vast amount of undigested securities of new companies of every conceivable kind, including corporations manufacturing everything from patent medicine to brass beds, which is overhanging the security markets at the present time, is not a healthy situation, according to the opinion expressed by Jesse L. Livermore, Wall Street operator, in a signed statement issued yesterday. Mr. Livermore said:

"I think it is time that the American investing public should be given warning that the time has arrived when they should discriminate in earnest and thoroughly analyze the class of investments and speculative noldings that they possess. I do not want to be considered a pessimist on the country and this statement is not made for that purpose, but I do believe that some one should point out a few facts that exist today.

"In September, 1921, I gave out a statement to the public. It was an optimistic statement, drawing the public's attention to a situation that I thought I saw would come about a few months later, that would bring about an increase in the volume of general business. Since that time I think my predictions have been fully realized, because at the present time, according to all reports in almost every line of industry, the volume of business being done and orders on hand were never much larger in the history of the country—not excepting the big boom times of 1920, but the mere fact that we are doing this wonderful volume of business has brought about a situation that is very apt to retard a continuance of our prosperity, due to the fact that all lines of finished products are selling at very high prices.

Change in Industrial World.

"There has been a gradual change that has come about in the industrial world the last five or six years, whereby labor has been gradually receiving a larger and larger share of the profits of industry; and whereas that fact has made for a large turnover and demand for goods of every description that people use and buy; it has also been the cause of bringing about a smaller profit to the majority of the big industries, because there is a limit to what the public will stand for in the way of retail prices of merchandise to correspond with the gradual and continuous advance in manufacturing costs; and whereas we have been and are doing a tremendous volume of business, most of that business is of a domestic nature, and a portion of the present-day orders on hand are nothing more than orders given to replenish stocks of goods that were allowed to become depleted during the last period of deflation.

"The price of most merchandise has already reached a price level where you can begin to hear rumors from the public against present prevailing prices, and unless a check is immediately brought about to these advancing prices you are apt to hear of the public going on another buyers strike, such as occurred three years ago. No one wants that to happen again and it won't be necessary if the people who are in control of making prices will use their influence to stop further advances.

"During the last fifteen months of general advancing prices of good industrials the public has been invited and asked to become stockholders in almost every kind of industry from patent medicine to brass beds. There has never been a time in the history of Wall Street when there was so many undigested securities of every conceivable kind there are today. These new companies were all brought out and capitalized at the rate of abnormal earnings due to an abnormal period of prosperity and it is this class of securities that I wish to warn the public against.

Question of a Ready Market.

"I do not mean to say that all the new securities that were brought out did not have merit and will not prove to be good investments, because a lot of them will; but when the time comes, as it will, and the holders of these new securities, for some reason or other, would like to change their investments into more stable investments they will find great difficulty in finding a ready market for a larger portion of these new kind of securities.

"It is not a healthy situation to have so much of the public's money tied up in untried securities where the market prices of these new securities are contributed by one or two individuals, whereas, there may be a market today, tomorrow there may not be a market.

"One has only to look back a few years to see what happened to the prices of certain securities like Columbia Graphophone, Willys-Overland, General Motors and Bethlehem Steel after they had been forced to their extreme high prices and then stock dividends were declared in order that the insiders might find a ready market to cash in their profits. During the last year this same method has been in vogue in a large number of listed securities, and the public will probably find that the future will show a repetition in most cases similar to what happened before."

German Marks Steady and With Sterling and Francs Show Improvement.

There was more order and less of the spectacular movement in the European exchanges yesterday than attended the dealings on Wednesday, German marks, for instance, steadying down to a comparatively small volume of business and narrow range, and with sterling, francs and all the other important currencies showed improvement.

Berlin checks started at 34 ten-thousandths of a cent, moving up almost immediately to 35¾, from which point it receded slightly before the close. Both London and Paris bills were in good demand, sterling touching $4.60 and francs 6.70 cents, both at the best prices for the week. Sweden featured in the Scandinavians at an improvement to 26.70 cents from 26.01, Norway and Denmark following suit, but less substantially. Italian, Holland and Belgian were higher, but in the Central Europeans the Polish mark declined to a new low of 20 ten-thousandths of a cent; Finnish, Serbian and Hungarian documents also sagged.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

DEPOSIT B. R. T. SECURITIES.

Stockholders Respond to Call to Help Reorganization Plan.

Deposits of securities necessary to put the Brooklyn Rapid Transit System's plan of reorganization into effect, have been progressing at an "unprecedented rate," according to A. H. Wiggin, Chairman of the Stockholders' Committee, who said yesterday that the reorganization plan has met with no opposition from any of the security holders.

The plan makes provision for the deposit of more than $90,000,000 of bonds and notes, and, while it gives to those who have previously deposited the bonds with the several Protective Committees the right to withdraw, there have been practically no withdrawals, Mr. Wiggin said.

"There are over 744,000 shares of stock outstanding," the chairman announced, "distributed among ten to fifteen thousand stockholders. Although the time to pay the assessment does not expire until next Monday, payments have been made on a substantial amount of stock, and it is expected that the objects will increase at a very rapid rate in the next few days. In view of the fact that the properties are scheduled to be sold under the foreclosure decrees on May 13, next, the necessity for stockholders who desire to participate in the plan to act promptly is apparent."

McAndrews & Forbes Co. Meeting.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the McAndrews & Forbes Co. has been called for May 9, for the purpose of approving a proposal of the Board of Directors, which calls for the sale of 7,500 shares of unissued common stock. The stock will be set aside for sale to officers and employes, allotments being contingent upon the length of service of subscribing employes. The stock will be sold at par.

The current assets included $29,456,558 cash, $11,925,774 accounts and notes receivable, $23,323,297 inventories and $3,808,044 marketable securities carried at cost. H. F. Sinclair, Chairman of Directors, in his statement to stockholders said in part: "Crude oil produced by the subsidiary producing companies within the United States during 1922 was 70,305,893 barrels, compared with 66,069,861 in 1921, or a daily average in 1922 of 28,235 barrels, compared with a daily average in 1921 of 22,109 barrels."

Regarding the investment in the Mammoth Oil Company Mr. Sinclair said: "The corporation purchased 500,500 of Class A and 1,500 of Class B shares (or slightly more than 25 per cent) of the stock of the Mammoth Oil Company, and paid therefor 250,000 shares of common stock of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, and has an option on a sufficient number of additional shares to give it control. The Mammoth Oil Company, under a contract with the United States Government, is developing the so-called 'Teapot Dome' naval oil reserve in Wyoming. Work already done has practically defined the structures, and the drilling program for the Summer of 1923 calls for the completion of an additional 100 wells.

"In Mexico operations have been confined largely to the heavy oil districts, the production from which is sold as fuel oil to our customers in Cuba, Central America and elsewhere. The corporation is making progress in its activities in Portuguese West Africa. In the Far East and in other foreign fields."

DURANT TO OPEN A BANK.

Head of Motors Corporation Announces Unique Plan.

William C. Durant, head of the Durant Motors, Inc., yesterday mailed a circular letter to the thousands of stockholders in the numerous enterprises which he controls, announcing his intention to organize a national bank in this city. The bank's officers and directors will serve without compensation. No stockholder will be allowed to hold more than one share. In all there will be issued 300,000 shares, which will be sold at $150 a share. Subscriptions are now being solicited.

Mr. Durant announced that the bank will not charge a commission, fee or bonus in money, merchandise or stock for a loan negotiated or made. Neither will it accept such commissions or fees for loans. It further stated that no associated, affiliated or controled company, usually called a security company, will be operated in connection with the new bank. It was also announced that the bank will make no loans either to its officers or directors or any companies with which they are officially connected.

DIVIDEND RATE INCREASED.

Columbia Gas Declares Quarterly Payment of $1.95—Was $1.50.

The Columbia Gas & Electric Company yesterday increased the dividend rate on its capital stock by declaring a quarterly payment of $1.95, payable May 15, to stock of record April 30. The former quarterly rate was $1.50 a share. Recently the company declared a stock dividend by dividing the old stock—on which the $1.95 rate has been fixed—on the basis of one share for three shares of the new no par value stock, exchange of which will be made by July 1.

The new rate is the equivalent of 65 cents a share on the stock to be issued, or at the annual rate of $2.60; on the basis of the former dividend rate the action represents a 30 per cent. stock an increase of 15 cents quarterly, or 60 cents annually, per share.

There are at present 500,000 shares of the $100 par value stock outstanding, and this amount will be increased to 1,500,000 of the new no par value stock. The company operates principally in West Virginia and Ohio and is incorporated in the former State.

The report of earnings for March shows gross of $1,004,231, an increase of $286,234 over the previous March; net after taxes, $1,237,503, an increase of $201,315.

PUSH BIG ELECTRIC PROJECT

Southern California Edison Starts Fourth Power House.

The Southern California Edison Company has started construction of the fourth power house on the Big Creek-San Joaquin River project, completion of which at the cost of $375,000,000 will establish the largest hydroelectric generating plant in the West. The cost of present construction, amounting to $26,000,000, has been provided by an appropriation in the company's 1923 budget.

The Alabama Power Company announces that it has placed in operation the first unit of its $7,000,000 hydroelectric project, known as the Mitchell Dam, in the Coosa River. This will be followed by the construction of four other units, three of which it is expected to have in operation in the latter part of this Summer.

H. & T. C. SUIT BEGUN IN 1885 ARGUED HERE

Minority Stockholders Refused to Pay $73 a Share Demanded by Southern Pacific.

Argument was heard yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals on the question of what price the minority stockholders of the Houston & Texas Central Railroad should pay for the stock under the reorganization plan of the Southern Pacific Railway, the majority stockholder. The decision of the court, which was reserved, may be the final act in litigation which began in 1885, when the Southern Pacific obtained control of the Houston & Texas, now the main link in the transcontinental system.

The stock of the Houston & Texas was taken over by the Southern Pacific at $99 a share, but the latter company demanded from the minority interests $75 a share. The case was taken to the courts and tried; the verdicts were set aside; there were foreclosure proceedings, charges of fraud and many appeals.

The face value of the shares in possession of the minority holders at the beginning of the litigation was $26,000,000. The present value is said to be about $11,000,000. The old stock was wiped out by foreclosure proceedings and the minority stockholders will receive shares of new stock when the litigation is settled. Many of the original stockholders are dead.

Deny N. O., T. & M. Stock Dividend.

At the local offices of the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railroad Company it was stated yesterday that they have no information regarding a possible stock dividend of 30 per cent. which, a Wall Street report had it, would probably be declared at the next meeting of Directors. Another report that there was possibility of a merger of the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico with the Illinois Central Railroad Company was also denied.

Morris Plan Quarterly Dividend.

The Board of Directors of the Morris Plan Company of New York yesterday voted the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent., payable May 1 to stockholders of record March 23, 1923.

COTTON IS PRESSED ON A WEAK MARKET

Prices Show Loss of 67 to 82 Points as a Result of Combination of Adverse Developments.

Cotton lost all its two-day recovery and many months went into new low ground yesterday. An unusual combination of disturbing factors made their appearance which undermined the market. Financial news from Germany, better weather in the cotton belt, warning statements from dry goods quarters over too great confidence in the outlook and a suit filed by the Attorney General against the Sugar Exchange alleging operations in restraint of trade, all played a part in the day's developments. Operations were the most extensive in some months, sweeping prices steadily lower from opening to the close. Large scale buying orders in late months failed to stem the decline. Final prices showed a loss of 67 to 82 points.

Heavy selling started at the opening. The best weather map in weeks, with a failure on the part of Liverpool to meet Wednesday's late advance here, brought cotton from all directions. This pressure was quite evenly distributed throughout the list, new crops being sufficiently active to permit execution of 5,000 bale buying orders within limits of a few points. Prominent interests became aggressive sellers of July, filling all buying orders and maintaining a steady progress towards lower levels. Instead of liberal support, such as appeared the day previous, those needing cotton seemed to have done their buying on the recent decline leaving the market without substantial buying power. Though outside selling of May proved limited, contracts were supplied by several spot interests, owing to weakness in July. The break in July enabled distribution of May from 90 to 100 points premium over July so that both positions moved lower throughout the session. Before midday, a decline of about three-quarters of a cent had occurred, bringing July back within 10 points of Monday's low figures. May, however, failed to break within a quarter of a cent of the previous record. Frequent upturns occurred later in the day but cotton appeared on each rally, with the tone nervous and unsettled.

Recent weather conditions have held back farm work to such an extent that the improved surroundings reported from the cotton belt yesterday had a decided influence on sentiment in many directions. As the disposition shown by Southern interests has been against late months on the theory that a change for the better in weather conditions could logically be expected in the near future, selling pressure supplied contracts in sufficient volume to permit coverings of cotton previously sold. Several large blocks of October, December and January are were taken from the market on a declining scale. One of the best posted Southern concerns reported that, whereas a month ago preparations were fully two weeks ahead, the season is now two weeks behind. This has produced a favorable change in the situation so that instead of promising an early crop indications at present time are for a late one.

Most aggressive selling of the day occurred in closing dealings. Though July had recovered 20 points earlier in the afternoon, the rally failed to hold. This increased weight on the market and lowest figures of the day were reached. Trade was quite heavy, going through 28 cents. July broke below 27.05, with both October and December in new low territory for the movement. All months closed at the bottom, with selling orders still pouring into the ring.

WHEAT PRICES BEST AT MARKET'S CLOSE

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 19.—With favorable weather conditions in the American and Canadian Northwest, combined with marked falling off in the outside trade, encouraged many of the local traders to take the selling side early, but there was sufficient buying to absorb the offerings.

Toward the last heavy buying by several strong commission houses absorbed the surplus in the pit and shorts were stampeded into covering, the result being a sharp upturn, to within a fraction of the high point of the season, with the close the highest so far, and net gains of ⅝@1¼ cents.

A feature of the markets today was that the May in St. Louis, which was ¾ cent under Chicago at the finish yesterday went to ¼ cent over this market at the close today.

The general run of reports from the Winter wheat territory was more bullish than of late and there were claims of dry weather from parts of Kansas that have heretofore been sending only favorable crop comments. High wind and dust storms were reported from Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska during the day which had some effect on sentiment toward the last and caused many traders to make up their minds to cover shorts.

Clement, Curtis & Co. were out with a report showing a 16.2 per cent. loss in Winter wheat acreage, leaving 39,000,000 acres remaining for harvest or 2,000,000 acres less than last year and suggesting a crop of 540,000,000 bushels, or 46,000,000 bushels less than finally secured last year. G. Walter Beaven, of J. S. Bache & Co., estimates that, on the basis of the average private reports, the North American wheat acreage this year will probably be 5,000,000 less than was harvested in 1922.

Export sales in all positions were around 1,000,000 bushels, including 200,000 to 250,000 of durum, c.i.f Buffalo.

Corn closed ⅝@¾ cent and oats ¼@⅝ cent higher for the day, the strength in wheat being the dominating influence although there was good buying of corn early in the day by a house with Eastern connections which absorbed the surplus in the pit and left many of the local element short, the latter covering which wheat started upward toward the last.

Duluth and the seaboard bought rye which closed ⅝ cent higher. Export sales were 400,000 bushels to Germany.

Primary receipts of wheat today were 782,000 bushels; week ago, 742,000; last year, 417,000. Shipments were 547,000 bushels; week ago, 546,000; last year, 550,000.

Corn receipts were 595,000 bushels; week ago, 655,000; last year 524,000 and shipments, 520,000 bushels; week ago, 360,000; last year, 1,962,000.

Raw Silk Trend Upward.

Firmness is the keynote of the local raw silk market, with prices showing a renewed upward tendency. The business being done still centres on spot silks and those for near-by delivery. Stocks in importers' hands, according to M. L. Gwalter &Co., Inc., are none too well assorted, and buyers find it difficult to cover their needs. Canton silks are very scarce here, and command a premium. Heavy buying for American account is reported at Yokohama, with the high grade silks particularly sought for. This has advanced Double Extra A. silk to 2,400 yen and Kansai No. 1 to 2,330 yen. Visible stocks total 17,000 bales. The Canton market is very strong, and tends upward under renewed buying of both the 14-16 and the 20-22 sizes. Reelers are now quoting for July shipment. Steam filatures are offered at Shanghai for late delivery only, which keeps business restricted. Prices are firm at Milan, with the business confined to European purchasing.

Women's Coats Continue Active.

The current business of the stock houses in the ready-to-wear trade consists largely of orders for coats. Sports models in polaires and similar cloths are the most actively sought. Wholesalers, while making some reductions on other lines, are said to be refusing concessions on these garments. Some of the jobbers are still stocking up on them in anticipation that the demand will remain active for some weeks yet. Twill coats, as well as silk, are meeting with growing favor, especially in the 42 and 46-inch lengths. They are wanted for wear later in the season, and wholesalers who are featuring them are confident that the demand will continue brisk.

Jobbers Finding Less Demand.

Jobbers of men's wear fabrics here say that the recent activity has quieted down considerably. Sales of seasonable cloths have been hampered by the unfavorable weather, which has held down the sales of spring suits. A short time ago the local contractors were behind on their production of suits according to one well-known jobber, but they are now well caught up. The demand for worsted suitings has undergone several changes during the past few weeks. Zebra stripes are in less favor now, with tans and grays coming to the fore. The jobbers are buying some stock goods from the mills, but it is agreed that the latter are now holding only small quantities of the really desired fabrics.

Combination Hose Successful.

A new type of hose for women, combining a full-fashioned foot with a seamless leg, is doing so well that imitations of the original are springing up. The first stocking offered was a spring needle number, according to the weekly bulletin of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, and sold to the jobbing trade at "a 85 a dozen. A competitor is now in the field with a 300-stitch-needle stocking, including the same features, at $9. A manufacturer offering a fibre and thread twisted full-fashioned number at $10.50 is "cleaning up." This stocking is made with a lisle top.

To Open New Sample Rooms.

Announcement was made yesterday by L. S. Plaut & Co., Newark, that their new sample rooms would be opened on Monday next. They will be located in a three-story building at 123 Halsey Street, directly opposite the rear of the store, which has been leased for a number of years. In the announcement executives of the store assert that they are confident they will be in a much better position than before to accommodate adequately the large number of salesmen who call on their buyers on sample-room days. The new quarters will afford more space than has previously been available for buying purposes, and will, it is said, permit a more expeditious transaction of business between salesmen and the store's buyers.

Cotton Break Hits Gray Goods.

The further break in cotton yesterday put an additional check on trading in the local gray goods market. Sales of importance continued lacking. First hands were more or less out of the market, and the limited business done in printcloths was very largely put through by second hands. It included spot 39-inch 68-72s at 12¼ cents and 38½-inch 64-60s at 10¾ cents. Asking prices for lightweight sheetings were based 8¼ cents for 36-inch 4.15s and 8¾ cents for 5.50s of similar width. Sateens continued without feature, with 18¼ cents asked for 4.20s and 18¾ cents asked for the 4.37-yard construction.

Favor Chantilly Lace for Fall.

Current indications are said to warrant the belief that lightweight laces will supersede in vogue the heavier ones for Fall. Chantilly laces in 18 to 36 inch widths, for draping over silk or satin dress materials, are especially well thought of. The color tendency in them will be toward the "high" shades, although staple black, brown and navy are expected also to be measurably popular. Tulles in the new light shades are also thought to be headed for wider use during the Fall by way of contrast with the previous season's favorites.

The Lucky Ones Will Get Hats.

Among the innovations to be sprung at the forthcoming Summer fashion show of the Retail Millinery Association of America will be one that will result in the awarding, without cost to the recipients, of five hats that will represent the cream of the offerings of the millinery shops of the city. Every woman who attends the show will be given a numbered ticket, and after the regular program is completed 25 of these numbers will be drawn. The holder of every fifth ticket will be given an order authorizing her to select any hat in the city that she may desire. Other innovations will include decorations in keeping with the spirit of May Day, as well as a sports prologue that will be staged by the Winchester Stores Company.

Green is the Note in Gems.

The green note is strongly struck in the gems that are now most in demand in this market, although there is a steadily growing call in the semi-precious stones for such black and white combinations as crystal and onyx. Among the most popular green gems at the moment are calibre emeralds in sizes ranging from one-tenth to one-half a carat. Jade is also wanted, and there is an increasing scarcity of the finer qualities. Aquamarines are leading the call for the less expensive goods, and the principal cutters have been working extra hours for some time in trying to supply the demand.

To Study New Silk Problem.

Can products made wholly or in part of artificial silk be merchandised so as to deal honestly and frankly with the public, while at the same time doing justice to two important industries? That is the question the Directors of the National Retail Dry Goods Association have decided to put in the hands of a special committee, which will be authorized to investigate the matter and to present its final recommendations directly to the members of the organization and to the manufacturing trade. This action has grown out of the realization of the fact that the great development in the production of artificial silk has made it very difficult, even for trained silk men, to tell fabrics or garments made wholly or in part of imitation silk, upon superficial examination, from those of real silk. Because of this it is felt that the retailers should use some other term than "silk" in describing the merchandise made from the artificial product. The personnel of the committee will be announced shortly.

BUSINESS NOTES.

E. M. Scotman, 37 West Twenty-sixth Street, has taken over the account of A. Hamburger & Sons, recently purchased by the May Company, Cleveland, which he also represents.

S. F. Levis, resident buyer, 115-125 West Thirtieth Street, now represents William Hughes, Evansville, Ind., in this market.

Irving S. Frian, resident buyer for A. Hamburger & Sons, Los Angeles, for more than eighteen years, has severed his connection with that firm. He will continue his resident buying activities with his own service and former buying staff at 448 Fourth Avenue.

RACCOON PELTS DID WELL.

Featured Last Day of Fur Auction, Which Realized $4,400,000.

With total sales of about $4,400,000, the longest raw fur sale yet held in this city came to a close in the Masonic Hall yesterday. Nine days of selling were required to dispose of the offerings. Executives of the New York Auction Company, Inc., which conducted the sale, said they were generally satisfied with the results, and many buyers reflected this feeling.

Most of the articles sold yesterday were of minor importance from the viewpoint of the general trade. Interest centred in raccoon, which moved smartly for the most part at prices which disappointed buyers who came with the idea of getting good pelts for a song. The bidding for the qualities suitable for use in coats was especially active, and the prices brought were at least equal to the open market. Compared with the January averages they showed an advance of 15 per cent. So active was the bidding that the hammer dropped on the last lot about 2 o'clock.

| | Highest Price. | Advance Per Cent. |
|---|---|---|
| Kid crosses | $7.00 | No change |
| Kid skins | 1.05 | No change |
| Lamb skins | .84 | *10 |
| Lamb crosses | 7.25 | †10 |
| Hair seal | 2.40 | No change |
| Dog skins | 1.60 | 60 |
| Dog mats | 1.40 | †10 |
| Chinese raccoon | 1.30 | †15 |
| Raccoon | 8.50 | †15 |

May 9 will be prompt day for the sale just closed. The next one, the annual Fall auction, will begin on Sept. 24.

CHANGE MEXICAN OIL LAWS.

Deputies Approve Modifying Article and Consider Other Alterations.

MEXICO CITY, April 19.—The Chamber of Deputies, which is considering the articulation of a new petroleum law, last night approved Article V., which confirms petroleum rights legally acquired before May 1, 1917, when the present Constitution became effective, stipulating, however, that the concessionaires must revalidate their claims within three years from the promulgation of the new law. The vote on the article was 102 to 23.

Article V. is intended to satisfy the objections voiced by foreign oil men against the alleged confiscatory nature of Article XCVII. in the present Constitution, which vests the subsoil rights in the nation.

The Deputies are continuing their debate in regard to regulation of petroleum rights acquired since the new Constitution went into effect. The proposed law that has not yet been considered by the Senate.

REALTORS ARE SUMMONED.

Howell, Graves Are Accused Under False Advertising Law.

Calvin T. Graves and Alfred L. Howell, members of the realty firm of Howell, Graves, with offices at 350 Madison Avenue and a branch office at 1,587 Broadway, were called to the Chief Magistrate's chambers, 300 Mulberry Street, yesterday on a summons issuing by Chief Magistrate William McAdoo charging violation of Section 421 of the Penal law, relating to false advertisements and circulars.

The hearing was conducted before Magistrate George W. Simpson. William Rand appeared for the relators, while Assistant District Attorney Richard Gibbs appeared for the people. H. J. Kenner, managing secretary of the Better Business Bureau of New York City, Inc., 61 Broadway, the complainant, alleges that the realty firm advertised to sell land adjoining Muscle Shoals, United States property in Alabama, and in their advertisements used the names of Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford, which it is alleged, they had no right to do.

Hamilton Young, an employe of the Better Business Bureau, testified to going to the rooms of the realty company in Madison Avenue on March 16 last and listening, with forty others, to a lecture on the property being sold. The lecture, he said, was delivered by Howell while Graves operated a stereopticon machine showing slides of the property. The land, he said, was described as having been greatly improved by the Government. Hugh Smith, secretary of the National Benevolent Association, another witness, said he went to the firm's Madison Avenue offices on April 12 and heard Mr. Graves talk on the desirability of the property. Graves did not say the property was unsalable, he testified. The hearing will be continued in the Municipal Court in the Municipal Building tomorrow morning.

LAUGHS TO DEATH AT MOVIE.

Prolonged laughter over the moving picture of Booth Tarkington's "Clarence" at the Regent Motion Picture Theatre, 383 Third Avenue, brought on apoplexy and resulted last night in the death of Mrs. Nelle Rupprecht, a widow, 58 years old, at 353 Third Avenue.

NEW SCHEDULE ON MONDAY

Road Announces That Non-Rush-Hour Local Headway Also Will Be Cut.

Further improvements in its elevated railroad service through which the Interborough Rapid Transit Company hopes to reallove congestion in its subways and attract more riders to its elevated lines will be made next Monday, according to a statement yesterday by Frank Hedley, President of the company. Mr. Hedley said:

"Heretofore the Sixth Avenue express trains have started from and returned to 155th Street and Eighth Avenue. This has made it necessary for patrons in the Bronx wishing to go downtown on the Sixth Avenue expresses to change trains at 155th Street, or, going northward in the evening, to do the same thing.

"Effective Monday, April 23, these trains will start from and return to the 167th Street and Jerome Avenue station, where a connection is made with the subway.

"The interval between local trains on the Sixth Avenue line has heretofore been four minutes, in daytime between rush hours. Hereafter it will be only three minutes, making a 33 per cent. increase in the number of local trains.

"The express service on the Sixth Avenue line will be operated during rush hours only, the same as heretofore.

"The number of routes and express trains now available for residents of the Bronx, in the Jerome Avenue section, gives that part of the city peculiar transit advantages.

"By the subway these riders have a direct southbound route down the east side, continuing over to Brooklyn; or if they wish to go into the heart of Harlem or go over to the west side by subway, they can change at 149th Street to a Lenox Avenue-Seventh Avenue train for that purpose.

"If they wish to use elevated express trains on the west side, both Sixth and Ninth Avenue lines will hereafter serve their purposes."

STORY TELLING TODAY.

Playground Party for Children to Be Held at Hotel Majestic.

Many little New Yorkers who are to become junior members of the Playground and Recreation Association of America will attend a story-telling party today at which Dugald Stewart Walker will talk on "A Little While Let's Pretend." The party is to be given in the ballroom of the Hotel Majestic at 3:30 o'clock, and is one of the opening celebrations of America's Play Week. Among them are little Miss Eleanor M. Satterlee, granddaughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan; Miss Marjorie Field, daughter of Mrs. William B. Osgood Field; Barrington Moore Jr., Isabel D. Thacher and Priscilla Baldwin Bliss.

"Peter Playfair" cards with the green tree and ten holes in which to suspend ten silver apples—dimes—making the dollar membership fee are being distributed among boys and girls in private schools. Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, Junior Membership Chairman, at the headquarters of the association, 315 Fourth Avenue, is receiving many of them with the trees laden with dimes bearing the names of the little people in childish handwriting. Every new child member helps to make city playgrounds possible and every child in the city is asked to become a member. Many of the city children are keeping the cards to hand in at the Majestic today, where they will serve as entrance tickets, or at the Town Hall tomorrow, where "Let's Pretend" will be given at 11 A. M.

HOLD BRITISH GUN SHELLS.

French Embargo on Their Export as Scrap Subject of Protest by London.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, April 19.—An extraordinary Anglo-French dispute was revealed in the Commons this afternoon, when Captain Terrell, a Conservative, asked if it was true that an embargo had been placed by France on the export to Great Britain of British shells left over from the war.

Ronald McNeill, Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, answered that the French prohibited the export of steel scrap in which these shells were included. The British Government was doing its utmost to have this order by the French rescinded and have drawn their attention to Article 3 of the Anglo-French convention. He regretted that in reply the French tried to justify their action and ignored their violation of this agreement.

The British Ambassador at Paris was instructed to make urgent representations to the French Government regarding the shells which the British consider a matter of importance.

The situation seems to be that hundreds of thousands of shells which were sent over by the British during the war were afterwards sold as scrap to British firms, and the French now refuse to allow this scrap to be exported.

Lease Near New Sales Building.

Herbert Hecht & Co. have leased the two buildings at 10-12 East Fiftieth Street, on a plot 42 by 100, for twenty-one years with renewals for B. S. Catts and George Shaaken, who recently bought the property through the same brokers. The buildings adjoin the new store of Saks & Co., now building, and call for an aggregate rental of about $400,000. The lessee is Paul Brans, who contemplates an art gallery at Madison Ave. and Forty-second Street, and plans extensive improvements to the property.

AUCTION ROOM BUYERS.

Lively Bidding for L. I. City Lots Sold for $103,500.

A total of $103,500, or an average of $2,202 a lot, was obtained for the forty-seven McLaughlin estate lots in the Astoria section of Long Island City, sold yesterday at public auction by Joseph P. Day.

There was a good crowd in the Vesey Street salesroom when the first parcel was offered and the bidding was spirited throughout the sale.

Frank Ruzicka paid $4,450 for the plot at the southeast corner of Steinway and Washington Avenues. There was lively competition for the ownership of these lots, at least thirty-five bids being recorded.

John Hinch purchased the adjoining plot on Steinway Avenue for $7,000. Frank Terraccian paid $5,000 for a plot adjoining and Charles Knoppler $5,070 for the last plot on this avenue.

The northwest corner of Washington and Eleventh Avenues was bought by Elizabeth Kreeger for $7,000. G. Gabrielli paid $2,800 for that plot on the west side of Eleventh Avenue, adjoining Washington Avenue, and Vincenzo Vascello and G. Palminteri paid $2,800 for the plot adjoining on the north. Vincenzo Rossano acquired the adjoining plot for $5,625.

The southwest corner of Grand Avenue and Crescent Street was sold to Edward Zinn for $7,550. Bidding on this property started at $1,500. J. T. Marchesa paid $6,900 for the adjoining plot and Edward Volker was the successful bidder for the plot adjoining that, paying $6,000.

John Welden was a large buyer at the sale, paying $6,500 for a plot on First Avenue, 140 feet south of Webster Avenue, and also $5,400 for a plot on the north side of Webster Avenue, 56 feet east of First Avenue.

On the north side of Ridge Street, John F. Hicks paid $5,500 for a plot of lots, the remaining plot, adjoining on the east, being acquired by Rehault, Vizarenzo and Martin Shutt for $4,225. On the south side of Ridge Street, directly opposite, B. M. Canton paid $2,400 for a plot, and Frank Miele $950 for a single inside lot. Welsh Brothers paid $3,000 for the plot abutting.

$5,762,600 IN LOANS.

Loans on Bond and Mortgage Made for New Housing.

Loans on bond and mortgage amounting to $5,762,600 were authorized by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company yesterday. Of these $4,859,950 were for city loans and $1,002,650 were farm loans. Of the city loans a little over two million dollars were for housing, the loans being made on 935 dwellings to provide for 481 families and on forty apartments to provide for 401 families, a total of 882 families. On business buildings loans were also made amounting to over $1,755,000. The building loans were in the States of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Utah, California, Washington, Oregon and Massachusetts. They included also loans for sixty-four dwellings in New York State, the greatest number being on Long Island.

The farm loans numbered 271 in nineteen States. The rate of interest was that prevailing in the locality.

Business Properties.

Charles F. Noyes Company has sold for William Emlen Roosevelt and George Emlen Roosevelt, Trustees, to an investing client, 20 Park Place, a six-story, basement and sub-cellar building covering 16 25 by 75 feet. The building is one of the best in the neighborhood, of steel construction with elevators, heat and all improvements. It is located less than 80 feet from the Woolworth Building and within a few steps from the subway and elevated stations in the same block at Broadway and Church Streets. As a part of the transaction the Noyes Company has arranged an $85,000 loan on the property for ten years. The property was valued at $125,000. This is the second transaction negotiated by the Charles F. Noyes Company within the past sixty days on this block, the other being the sale of the entire block front on Church Street from 27 Park Place to 24-6 Murray Street for John Gilgar to Suerken Bros.

Harold L. Lewis sold for the Gorsil Realty Company 24-6 East Eleventh Street, an eight-story loft building on a plot 42 by 100 feet. The purchaser is an investor.

Dyckman Section Lot Sold.

Frederick & George Buckmann, brokers, have sold for Albert E. Smith to a client, the vacant lot located at West 204th Street, on the west side of the Dyckman House Park. The parcel was held at $8,000.

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

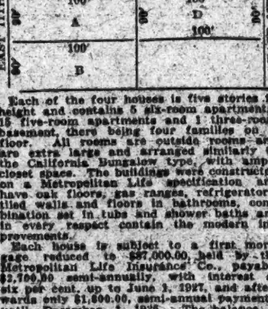
NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC:

By order of the owner, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the four parcels of land in the Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York, together with the buildings erected thereon, shown on the following diagrams A-B-C-D, and known as Nos. 10 and 20 Westminster Road, 15 and 25 Stratford Road, otherwise described as Caton Ave., and East 11th and 12th Streets:



Each of the four houses is five stories in height and contains 5 six-room apartments, 15 five-room apartments and 1 three-room basement, there being four families on a floor. All rooms are outside rooms and are extra large and arranged similarly to the California Bungalow type, with ample closet space. The buildings were constructed on a Metropolitan Life specification and have oak floors, gas ranges, refrigerators, tiled wains and floors in bathrooms, combination set in tubs and shower baths and in every respect contain the modern improvements.

Each house is subject to a first mortgage reduced to $87,000.00, held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., payable $2,700.90 semi-annually, with interest at six per cent. up to June 1, 1927, and afterwards only $1,600.00, semi-annual payments, until December 1, 1935. The balance of principal, June 1, 1936.

Each house is also subject to a second mortgage reduced to $25,350, payable in quarter-annual installments of $700.00, with interest at six per cent. until fully paid.

The present rental value of all of the four buildings is approximately $114,000.00.

Bidders may bid for either one or more or all of the four buildings. Each bidder is requested to state whether his offer contemplates paying all cash above existing mortgages, or if he desires the owner to take back part in purchase money mortgage, and on what terms thereof.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids or accept any bid regardless of whether it is high or low.

Bids will be opened at the office of M. Carl Levine, on April 24th, 1923, at 12:00 o'clock noon, at No. 119 Nassau Street, Manhattan Borough, New York City.

H. F. MORSE IN COURT, ELUDING PURSUERS

PLEA OF ILLNESS REJECTED

Accused Is Readmitted to Bail After $10,000 Bond Had Been Declared Forfeited.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Harry F. Morse, son of Charles W. Morse, whose bail bond of $10,000 was declared forfeited for failure to appear to answer an indictment in connection with Government war-time shipbuilding contracts, was brought into the criminal branch of the District of Columbia Supreme Court today by his attorney, readmitted to bail and ordered to be placed on trial Monday. His father and two brothers are to be called for trial at the same time.

Harry Morse arrived in Washington last night and went to the Georgetown University Hospital. He had left New London, Conn., by train, while United States Deputy Marshals were hunting for him, and motored from Baltimore to Washington, accompanied by his wife and a physician.

When Morse, looking pale, appeared in court today, Justice Stafford directed that he be taken in custody. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned. A hearing followed, to determine whether he was in physical condition to stand trial. The reason given for his failure to appear to answer to the indictment was that he was too ill.

Three Washington physicians who examined Morse in New London testified that he was suffering from a mild form of heart disease and that he needed rest for at least a month before undergoing the ordeal of a trial. Three Washington physicians called by the District Attorney, who had also examined him in New London, testified that they found him to be in normal physical condition and believed that it would not be injurious to his health to place him on trial.

Morse testified that he did not know that his bail bond had been forfeited and that he had come to Washington in response to a telegram from his attorney saying that he was wanted here for trial. His physician advised him not to go, but his counsel in New London told him that there was nothing to do but respond. Morse said that he was feeling slightly better, but that his heart troubled him now and then.

A motion by Morse's attorney, Henry E. Davis of Washington, for a separate trial for him and its postponement until the next term of court was denied by Justice Stafford.

DENIES SMITH WATCH THEFT

Believue Messenger Says He "Found It"—Held for Grand Jury.

"I didn't steal the watch. I found it under the stretcher. The only thing I'm guilty of was not returning it."

This was the statement made in Yorkville Court yesterday by Salvatore Fortuna, a messenger of Bellevue Hospital, arrested Wednesday on a charge of stealing the $200 gold watch from Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, as he was being wheeled on a stretcher from the admitting room to a ward in the hospital after being fatally injured by a taxicab a week ago.

Fortuna was held by Magistrate Brough in $1,500 bail for the Grand Jury on a charge of grand larceny.

Six Reasons Why You Should Make a Will

It Will Cost Less

You Can Name Your Own Executor

If you do not make a Will the Court will select an administrator who may, or may not, possess the proper qualities to act. In case an administrator is appointed, a bond must be furnished and the premium on it will be charged against your estate.

Your Real Estate Can Be Sold More Readily

If you own real estate you can empower your executor to sell it. If you do not make a Will, the property can be sold only if all the heirs agree, or by means of a lengthy and expensive suit in partition.

You Can Divide Your Property Equitably

A Will permits you to provide exactly as you desire for each member of your family—more to one, less to another, according to their needs. Without a Will the law will distribute your property rigidly, mathematically, in strict accordance with the statutes.

You Can Remember Your Friends

You may have distant relatives, friends, employees or charities to whom you wish to leave something. You can do this only in a Will.

You Can Provide Life Incomes for Your Family

This you can do through Trust Funds. If you make no Will, and your estate is divided by law, every beneficiary, when of age, will come into absolute control of his or her estate, without regard to personal ability to handle property.

THE time to make your Will is now. Have a competent lawyer draw it and name a responsible and experienced Executor and Trustee to carry out its provisions.

You will find this bank to be thoroughly equipped to administer estates or act as Trustee, efficiently and economically. We shall welcome an opportunity to explain our services to you. Why not come in today?
